ARMY TO FREE RAIL WORKERS TO EASE STRAIN

Returned Yanks to Fly Across U. S.

Washington, D. C., July 31 [Special]—Man power problems held the spotlight in official Washington today as the war department, congressional committees, and civilian agencies grappled with troublesome question of fact and policy on the war and home fronts.

Developments were:

1. Moving to ease man power strains on the nation's congested railroads, the army announced plans to bring 1,362 experienced rail workers back from Europe beginning Aug. 10, with 6,000 more to follow in the next four months.

Yanks to Fly Across United States

2. Beginning at once, the war department said, 25,000 army personnel a month will be flown across the country in transport planes. These men, according to previous plans, would have traveled in trains.

3. A special house military affairs committee expressed concern over man power shortages on the west coast, blaming 4-F job jumpers and lack of a comprehensive reconversion program in this region. The committee urged liberal draft deferments for men in west coast war jobs.

4. Officials in civilian war agencies contended the army high command doesn't need the 7,000,000 men it plans to keep in service for the war with Japan and blamed army conservatism for tieing up plants and machine tools needed for civilian production.

Predicts Cold Winter

5. Interior Secretary Ickes told the senate war investigating committee the nation faces the coldest winter of the war unless the army releases enough miners to permit restoration of coal production at an adequate rate, and said his two month old request for release of 20,000 miners has so far gone unheeded.

Acting War Secretary Patterson said the army is hastening to release former railroad men. The program calls for initial release of 1,362 men from the military railway service in Europe by Aug. 10 for return to this country and separation from the army.

Gen. Eisenhower has been asked to set up a priority, the acting secretary said, for another 2,063 in railway operating and shop battalions in Europe, all men with enough points for discharge—85 or more.

Others to Return Soon

An additional 6,000 railroad men are scheduled to leave Europe in September, October, November, and December, Patterson said. Three railway operating battalions, comprising 2,400 men, will leave Europe in September, to be followed by one operating and one shop battalion in October, another operating battalion in November and one operating and one shop battalion in December.

Cross country transportation of soldiers by air will be brought about thru the making available by the army air forces of enough army planes and pilots for flight operations at a rate of 25,000 men per month, the war department said.

An army statement explained the operation will be carried on by commercial air lines under contract with

GUAM, Aug. 1 [Wednesday] (AP)—Adm. Halsey's 3d fleet carrier planes destroyed or damaged 68 surface craft and 227 planes around the Honshu naval base of Maizuru on Monday—a day in which Tokyo radio said more than 2,000 allied aircraft hammered the homeland.

Adm. Nimitz's revised assessment of destruction, announced today, added eight ships and 89 planes to previous reports of the one-day assault—and gave the vast allied fleet credit for a total of 1,035 Japanese surface craft and 1,278 airplanes destroyed or damaged in its 21 days of activity in Honshu waters since July 10.

Reports Still Incomplete

Reports still were incomplete and there was no estimate of damage done by British carrier planes operating with the Americans.

In addition, Gen. MacArthur's far east air forces knocked out another 24 ships in raids around Kyushu and Korea on Monday. The vessels included two destroyer escorts blasted off Korea and a 6,000 ton freighter transport between Kyushu and Korea. Another 6,000 ton freighter was forced aground in Korean waters. The total included 11 ships sunk or damaged in Sunday's raids but not included in that day's announcement.

While these figures on shipping were being tallied, Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Le May warned eight more Japanese cities that they were marked for quick destruction by his 20th bomber command Super Fortresses. These new cities brought to 19 the number already warned. Six of them already have been burned out.

Name Eight Cities

The cities added to the list are Mito, Hachioji, Maebashi, Toyama, Nagano, Fukuyama, Otsu, and Maisuru. All are important small centers on Honshu Island.

There was no indication of the combined American-British fleet's location today—aside from the Tokyo radio's insistence that it was lingering within quick reach of the Honshu coast.

A destroyer task force yesterday steamed into Suruga gulf, 80 miles southwest of Tokyo, and heavily shelled the railway city of Shimizu. Tokyo said 90 shells hit the city and admitted an industrial plant was hit.

In their afternoon sweeps over Maizuru, the Americans sank a medium freighter-transport as well as a destroyer; damaged a light cruiser of the Kashima or Sakawa class, one destroyer, two medium freighters, and two small freighters. They also destroyed 56 grounded planes and damaged 33.

Rip Rail Targets, Too

Their widespread bombing, rocketing and strafing of ground targets destroyed eight locomotives and damaged four others; damaged 17 war plants, two bridges, four

JAPANESE 'PROTECT' TARGET AREAS WITH PRISONERS, U .S. SAYS

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP)—The state department said tonight that despite repeated American protests, the Japanese persist in trying to protect target areas from bombing by locating war prisoners' camps near-by.

Denouncing this practice anew, the department issued a statement saying it was seeking to verify a Tokyo radio report that a war prisoners' camp was hit during the bombing of Kawasaki July 26, with casualties to American prisoners.

The Japanese broadcast said some casualties, mostly American, resulted when the camp at Kawasaki, southeast of Tokyo, was struck while the area was under aerial bombardment. Requesting verification thru the Swiss government and the international Red Cross, the state department said military authorities would notify next of kin when the information is received.

WILLING TO CO-OPERATE—50-50

Famed Wright Plane to Come Home to Roost

New York, July 31 [Special]—The first heavier than air machine to be flown by man—the historic plane in which Orville and the late Wilbur Wright made their pioneer take-off from Kill Devil hill near Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903—is scheduled to come home soon from across the Atlantic.

This was learned on convincing authority tonight after Orville Wright in Dayton, O., declined to make public "at the present time" details of negotiations for return of the plane, since 1928 a guest exhibit at the Science museum, a branch of the British museum at South Kensington, England.

Just how the Kitty Hawk plane will be transported to this country was not learned, altho it was indicated it may be crated for shipment in a C-47 air transport. During the Nazi blitz on London the plane was damaged in a shelter by bomb concussion.

Display Held Assured

The prospective return of the plane to the country where it was invented and first flown was regarded as assurance that it will go on display, at least on a loan basis, in the Smithsonian Institution, with unqualified acknowledgment from the institution that it is the first successful man carrying flying machine.

The Wright-Smithsonian dispute on this issue was one of the bitterest controversies in the history of aviation and the reason why the famous plane has been outside the country for so many years.

Altho the Smithsonian officials admitted that the Wrights were the first men to fly in a heavier than air machine, they insisted that priority for the invention belonged to the late Prof. Samuel P. Langley, at one time the Smithsonian's executive secretary. Langley's plane was exhibited at the institution as the "first" airplane.

Langley Claims Withdrawn

In protest against the Smithsonian refusal to grant full credit to his late brother and himself, Orville Wright in 1928 shipped the plane to England. The Smithsonian several years ago withdrew its claims on behalf of Prof. Langley.

Informed sources said it is not yet certain whether the Wright plane will repose permanently in the Smithsonian's collection of historic American aircraft, now housed in the institution's National Museum of Science in Washington. Instead, it was said, the plane, after a halt in Washington on a loan basis, may be permanently ensconced in the aeronautical museum at Wright field near Dayton.

BERLIN WOMEN RUSH TO SERVE YANKS AND EAT 3 SQUARES DAILY

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, July 31—American officers, who have requisitioned houses as billets and established comfortable living headquarters here, have a new kind of servant problem. Every day they find a different staff of comely young German women acting as cooks, waitresses, and chambermaids carrying on with the previous day's work.

"I investigated, and here's what I learned," explained a colonel in the military government. "The German labor agency sent me the first staff selected from young matrons who were affluent before the war. They worked one day, got three square American meals, then turned over their jobs to hungry friends. The friends worked the next day and gave their positions to other hungry ones, and so on.

"They work well, even shining our shoes and mending the linen after washing it, but it's somewhat bewildering to find a new staff of servants every morning, and it keeps us busy learning new names at every breakfast."

Suggests Denmark Pay Reparations for Vikings

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 31—Helge Wamberg, former Danish press attache in Paris, suggested today that Denmark make a token payment compensating France for what the Danish vikings destroyed in Normandy a thousand years ago. He proposed that the reparations be used in building a Danish village.

PARLEY'S END NEAR; TRUMAN TO MEET KING

President Will Fly to British Port

BY WILLIAM FULTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, July 31—President Truman will see King George VI. of England on his way home from the Big Three conference, it was learned tonight as the President, Prime Minister Attlee and Premier Stalin speeded their deliberations to a windup.

The American President will fly in his big four motored C-54 ship to the port of Plymouth where the king will meet him. Word here is that the President does not plan to stay overnight but will go aboard the cruiser Augusta to start his homeward voyage immediately.

Meanwhile discussions between the three chiefs resumed after a two day interruption, reached a point where the conference is expected to end within 48 hours. It was reported that a substantial agreement was arrived at on such matters as Germany's fate, the Polish border, the Dardanelles, and other pressing world problems.

"Fruitful" Session Held

This afternoon's session, lasting 3½ hours, was described as "fruitful, with a great deal of progress made." The Big Three leaders will meet again tomorrow and there will be separate sessions of the foreign ministers and various committees.

The parley's close will be announced in a bulletin to be released simultaneously by Washington, London, and Moscow. Mr. Truman is expected to follow with a radio report to the American people.

Prior to tonight's word that the Big Three conferees were about to wind up affairs and start home it was disclosed for the first time that Stalin had not been able to attend the sessions for the last two days because of a slight illness. It was denied that this was a "diplomatic indisposition." In other words, Stalin had not left the table in a huff.

Stalin Has Cold

Reliable sources described the illness of the soviet leader as a slight cold, declaring that Stalin kept to his quarters on the orders of his physician.

TRUMAN RUNS BIG 3 SHOW, SAY U. S. CAMERA MEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

POTSDAM, Germany, July 31—"President Truman is running the Big Three show all by himself from what we can see," say United States army signal corps photographers who snap pictures of the master minds inside the conference compound almost daily.

"When the big shots appear for pictures the President marches to the center chair, sits down and invites Churchill or Attlee and Stalin to sit on either side," they say. "Churchill sort of shied off when we took the first pictures. Stalin had an eye on the middle seat when Attlee returned as prime minister and we took the new group. But Mr. Truman never batted an eye—just motioned his colleagues to hustle along and pose, then hurried them back to discussions after we shot the scenes."

Camera men say the President banters with British delegate and uses sign language and motions with the Russian plenipotentiaries.

Elliott Denies F.D.R. Aided Money Deals

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 31—Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the late President, today broke his long silence concerning criticism of his business affairs and denied that his father had ever assisted him in promoting business loans.

In his first public statement since his financial transactions were disclosed on May 22, Elliott said he conducted his own business affairs and that "the responsibility for them was and still is mine and mine alone." The statement also dealt with his impending release from the army.

Three Probes Under Way

Gen. Roosevelt's borrowings to finance various business deals have been reported to total more than $800,000 and are under investigation by the treasury department and two congressional committees. In his statement, released here thru his attorney, Randolph E. Paul, former general counsel of the treasury and a member of the same law firm as Herbert E. Brownell, chairman of the Republican national committee, Elliott asserted that his coöperation with the treasury investigation has been "wholehearted" and that he had "nothing to conceal." The statement follows:

"I have been advised that the army will place me on inactive duty on Aug. 15. My application for this status was submitted on May 11—three days after V-E day—because the army was unable to give me a combat assignment against the Japs, even tho I wished such duty at any rank. I wanted to take part in the fighting against Japan, above all else. I still want to do so, but the army has no assignment for a reconnaissance officer of my qualifications. I have neither the background nor the training for a non-combat assignment, and I certainly have no desire to finish out the war as an arm-chair general.

Calls Charges Pernicious

"Before the army took action with respect to my status, it was inappropriate for me to make any statement with respect to the pernicious charges and lies which have been published concerning me by a small segment of the press. These falsehoods have not even been confined to me personally. I know that any efforts put forth in this hate campaign will have no effect whatsoever on the public judgment of Franklin D. Roosevelt's service to his country. I believe tho, that those millions who loved and respected him have the right to know that Franklin D. Roosevelt never promoted or assisted my personal business affairs. Any statement that he ever did so is a deliberate infamous lie. I conducted my own business affairs. The responsibility for them was and still is mine and mine alone.

Coöperates in Probe

"False statements have been made as to my willingness to cooperate with the government in any investigation of my acts. The house ways and means committee and the senate finance committee have charged the treasury department with making a complete investigation into my business affairs. This investigation is now going on. My coöperation with that investigation has been wholehearted. I have asked the treasury to make public all the facts, without reservation, at the earliest possible moment. I have nothing to conceal. The facts will speak for themselves. I am entitled to a full public statement of those facts for the sake of my family. These facts will be their own answer to the falsehoods, half-truths, and sly implications of that small, irresponsible section of the press which does not hesitate to violate the truth.

"Until these facts are disclosed my only request is that any charges concerning my affairs should be confined to me and that no further attempt be made to smear a man who can't talk back."

Argentina May Lift State of Siege in Effect 4 Years

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 31 (AP)—The Argentine ministry of interior said today it was considering lifting the state of siege in force since 1941 and that political activity by all "historically established parties," would become legal tomorrow. The Communist party, outlawed since 1935, would be allowed to function.

EX-VICHY CHIEF LEAVES SPAIN; FLIES TO YANKS

Handed to French in Austria

PARIS, July 31 (AP)—Blue coated mobile guardsmen surrounded four air fields and the Fresnes prison tonight to prevent possible disorder as France prepared for the return here of Pierre Laval, former Vichy premier who will stand trial for his life on charges of having betrayed his country.

A government spokesman said Laval might arrive at any hour from Innsbruck, Austria, where he said Laval had been turned over to the French 1st army after flying from Spain to the American occupation zone in Austria.

"Anything is liable to happen," the spokesman said, "so every precaution is being taken. We aren't even sure at which field his plane is going to set down."

Flew In Nazi Plane

The swarthy Laval and his wife had been taken to Innsbruck after his surrender to members of the United States 79th fighter squadron who turned him over to Brig. Gen. John E. Copeland, assistant commanding general of the United States 65th division.

The pouting fugitive, who sought refuge in Spain 90 days ago, flew into Austria with his wife and two uniformed German luftwaffe flyers this morning.

Under Sentence of Death

Laval was sentenced to death in his absence by a court at Marseille on Oct. 20, 1944, but a retrial probably will be ordered.

[The news of Laval's surrender caused lawyers for Marshal Petain, who was Laval's chief in the Vichy government, to announce they would ask postponement of Petain's treason trial. In Washington state department officials said the United States wanted nothing to do with him.]

When the olive skinned Laval, who had sought to evade the French government since the collapse of Germany, landed at Horsching, he and his wife were searched and taken to headquarters of the 65th division in Linz.

The Americans found on Laval $10,000 in American currency, all in $500 bills. He also had some French and Spanish money, and American soldiers took from him an automatic pencil, a penknife and his tiepin. Mrs. Laval was searched by an American nurse.

Offered U. S. Rations

Troops at Horsching air field said Laval was talkative and wanted to converse about the political situation but nobody would accommodate him.

"Well, talk about New York or anything," he said. "I have been in New York and I would like to go back there."

The arrested German pilots said their destination had been Salzburg, but that they got lost in a storm and had to make a forced landing. They said they did not know where they were landing.

The trip from Spain took Laval a half day. He rode in the same aircraft that had taken him to Generalissimo Franco's country when he fled Germany ahead of allied troops three months ago.

Laval originally intended leaving Barcelona yesterday, but engine trouble delayed him. The Spanish government had asked him to get out and Madrid today issued a bulletin announcing its decision.

Buffalo Au Jus Becomes Another Vanished Species

Weygand Assails Treason Charge; Hits Reynaud

PARIS, July 31 (AP)—Marshal Petain's lawyers said tonight they would ask a postponement of his treason trial to call long fugitive Pierre Laval, who surrendered today, as a defense witness in an effort to save the former Vichy chief from the death sentence.

The word that Laval, Petain's right hand man in the Vichy state and described as the aged marshal's "evil genius," had surrendered to United States troops in Austria shot thru the crowded Palace of Justice courtroom as Petain, Gen. Maxime Weygand, former Premier Paul Reynaud—the Big Three in France at her collapse in 1940—stood shouting at each other, bitterness in their eyes.

Gen. Weygand, commander in chief of allied armies at the time of the German conquest, appeared as a defense witness and, after taking full responsibility for seeking the armistice with Germany, asserted that as much as three weeks before he acted French President Albert Lebrun and others had been talking of asking the Germans for peace.

Reynaud Jumps Up

This brought Reynaud, who last week testified for the prosecution, to his feet, and Petain rose to his own defense in one of the drama packed trial's most exciting moments.

As the gavel fell on the eighth day of the trial, the news that Laval had surrendered was made known. Chief Defense Atty. Fernand Payen jumped up.

"We will ask a postponement in order to obtain supplementary information from Laval," he said. "Naturally he will be called as a witness."

Weygand, first important witness for the defense in a trial that already has seen more than 1,000,000 words written into the record, was brought under guard from a military hospital to testify for Petain, accused of intelligence with Germany and plotting against France.

Weygand made the first assertion ever submitted that Petain did anything to halt the French from resisting the Anglo-American invasion of North Africa. He declared that the 89 year old marshal sent a "secret telegram" to the late Adm. Darlan to cease operations against the allies. Neither Darlan nor the American army ever has publicly acknowledged that such a telegram was received.

Weygand assumed the full responsibility for the Franco-German armistice with the statement that he was not in collusion with Petain.

On May 29, he declared, Reynaud informed him of a plan to withdraw into the "Brittany redoubt and then to North Africa."

Again, he said, the supreme war council was called and Prime Minister Churchill of Britain attended. Churchill, he asserted, expressed admiration for French resistance and praised his military operations. But, he went on, "Churchill realized, altho nothing was said, that we had reached the limit of our ability to resist."

No Question of Collusion

As bad news followed bad news, Weygand said, "the moment had arrived when it was my dut, as commander in chief to ask the government to demand an armistice."

"Coördinated resistance no longer was possible," he said. "I took this decision myself and on purely military grounds. I see no question in any of this collusion with Petain."

Two days later, he said, Reynaud ordered him to surrender totally, but "I refused to cover our flag with such shame."

"Honor is much more on the side of those who were fighting than those who were sitting in their chairs," Weygand shouted.

He declared that Petain's government consistently had refused German demands for North African bases, ports, and territory, with the result that 200,000 men were left in North Africa and Syria.

"When the allies landed, they found a French African army ready to enter the fight," he said.

Petain Thanks General

Weygand then called Laval Petain's evil genius and Petain rose and said: "I want to thank Gen. Weygand publicly and inform the court that he has my complete approval and that I consider that he, as my commander in chief, carried out his duties completely."

Weygand disclosed that he and Robert Murphy, former United States representative in North Africa, had signed an agreement promising deliveries of American supplies to North Africa on condition that German occupation of the region was not permitted.

Reynaud jumped up to reply to Weygand's allegations and denied having taken part in "any conspiracy to sign an armistice." He asserted that instead of attending the trial of Petain, he was astonished "to discover that he was attending instead a trial of Reynaud."

WAC Lt. Frances Garland, 27, and Chief Warrant Officer David M. Donald Jr. of Akron, O., were married July 17 in a candle lighted ceremony in Kronberg castle, Frankfurt-on-Main, Germany, the bride's mother, Mrs. Frances Garland, 220 Throop st., Woodstock, McHenry county, announced yesterday. They spent their honeymoon in the French Alps and have returned to their posts at Frankfurt-on-Main. After enlisting in the WAC in 1942, Miss Garland was in one of the first contingents to go to North Africa. She was returned to the United States for officers' training Oct. 3, 1943, and returned to serve in England, France, and Germany.

'WORK OR FIGHT' CAMP ASSAILED AS 'SENSELESS'

Macomb, Ill., July 31 [Special]—Rep. Johnson [R., Ill.] in a speech before the Macomb Rotary club today condemned the army's "work or fight" program at nearby Camp Ellis as "one of the most inhumane, senseless, and wasteful systems ever created by blind and irresponsible burocracy."

Camp Ellis, a 12,000 acre army reservation, is the training center for all men in the United States who, despite physical unfitness for army service, are inducted into the army in accordance with the "work or fight" edict of the office of war mobilization.

This directive, issued last year by James F. Byrnes, now secretary of state and then head of the OWM, provides for the induction of men between 18 and 38, regardless of physical fitness, who quit or change jobs in essential war industries without the approval of their draft boards.

Illiterates and Cripples

Johnson asserted that a large proportion of the "work or fight" inductees at Camp Ellis are illiterates for whom the army is operating a primary grade school or men so crippled they can never contribute to the war effort.

Also among the inductees, Johnson said, are medically discharged veterans of the present war who have had disputes with draft boards about jobs after leaving the army.

He said that one of these veterans is a marine with two purple heart decorations and a shattered hand who was reinducted because his draft board accused him of not getting a job quickly enough after his discharge.

Called Burden to Army

"One eyed men, one armed men, a man with a peg leg, epileptics, and men crippled with infantile paralysis" have been brought to Camp Ellis under the work or fight program, Johnson said. One man died of epilepsy one day after his arrival at the camp, he added.

"These men are a burden to the army during their training period and will be a burden to the country in later years for benefits and hospitalization," he contended. "Many illiterates before induction hardly knew a war was going on. What has this social welfare program, this teaching them their ABC's, got to do with winning the war?"

Johnson said that in some instances enforcement of the work or fight law is depriving the nation of the services of skilled workers.

Welder Picks Up Butts

"An example is an expert welder at the camp," he said. "He claimed to have a reason for leaving one job and was ready to take another just as important in the war program. But with all the red tape he couldn't make the transfer. He wound up at Camp Ellis picking up cigaret butts."

The work or fight principle sounds fine in theory, "but in practice it is madness," Johnson said. "It is a peonage system for some and for others a program in which the army wastes thousands of dollars and man hours on nothing."

SWEDEN FORMS NEW SOCIALIST GOVERNMENT

STOCKHOLM, July 31 [Reuters]—A new socialistic government for Sweden has been announced by King Gustav with Albin Hansson as premier and Oesten Unden as foreign minister.

The announcement was made almost immediately after the dissolution of the Swedish coalition government, formed five and a half years ago. Hansson was prime minister in the coalition.

The Swedish government had continued after the elections of lower chamber members in 1944 altho these resulted in appreciable changes in the strength of the parties. These elections gave the Social Democrats exactly half the seats in the second chamber, the other 115 being shared by the Conservatives, 39 seats; Farmer, 36; Peoples Party, 25, and Communists, 15.

Strange Homecoming

Yeoman 3d Class Roy Populorum's homecoming after 13 months' service in the Pacific, he told Judge Edwin A. Robson in Superior court, went something like this:

His wife, Dorothy, had moved from their apartment at 3755 Diversey av. He traced her to another apartment at 3347 Monroe st. When he rang the bell, the door was opened by a man. The man was wearing a pair of the sailor's civilian trousers. Populorum's little boy, Dennis, 4, ran up to him and said: "Daddy, I heard you were killed by the Japs. I got a new daddy now."

The name on the mailbox of the Monroe st. apartment, the sailor said, was Robert Rorex. The man in his green striped pants, Populorum continued, was Rorex.

U. S. JURY NAMES M'GUIRE ON SHIP FRAUD CHARGES

BY WILLIAM STRAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 31—A District of Columbia federal grand jury today indicted Thomas Joseph McGuire, 333 N. Michigan av., Chicago, on charges of defrauding the government of more than $500,000 in the sale of the Great Lakes steamer Seeandbee to the war shipping administration in 1942.

Thomas J. McGuire

The government paid $756,000 for the craft, the indictment said, only to learn later that McGuire's company had bought it for $135,000 less than a year before it was requisitioned for war time use. Some work had been done on it in preparation for the cruise season.

The Seeandbee was converted from a passenger vessel to an airplane carrier, the Wolverine. It has been used by the navy as a Great Lake training ship for carrier pilots and flight deck crews.

Ten Year Term Possible

As head of the company formerly owning the vessel, McGuire was indicted under a federal law that prohibits wilful falsification or concealing of materal facts in any matter within the jurisdiction of an agency of the United States. Maximum punishment is 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The charges were brought before the grand jury by the war frauds section of the department of justice.

The indictment states that McGuire, during negotiations to set a value on the Seeandbee after it had been seized, told the government that his company had owned it for many years and had invested more than $750,000 in it. He also made false representations as to the vessel's past earnings, the charges said.

McGUIRE DENIES CHARGES

McGuire's Chicago office issued a statement from him yesterday denying as "absolutely untrue" charges of making false representations.

His statement said his company made "a good profit" on the sale of the steamship "but this is because we were able to buy the boat from a defunct company which was liquidated . . . Today we have proof thru appraisal that the steamship was worth more than we received from the government for her."

McGuire asserted that the navy commandeered the ship after "much effort and cost" had been put into preparation for the approaching cruise season of 1942.

McGuire was commissioned a lieutenant commander in the navy in September, 1942, about six months after the Seeandbee was purchased. He served in Chicago as transportation officer of the 9th naval district until January of this year.

Their first divorce was on Oct. 6, 1944, but they remarried. Mrs. Cully, a clothes model, had been divorced on two other occasions, but not from Francis, she said.

WIPE OUT 7,000 JAPS SNARED IN BURMA JUNGLE

CALCUTTA, India, July 31 (AP)—Allied forces have wiped out upward of 7,000 Japanese troops attempting to escape a jungle trap in lower Burma and break eastward across the Sittang river, the Southeast Asia command announced today.

This fighting has centered between the Mandalay-Rangoon road and the river, in a region generally 80 to 150 miles northeast of Rangoon.

More than 6,000 enemy dead have been counted, a bulletin said, and nearly 600 have been captured. This toll, however, does not include casualties inflicted by guerrilla forces.

RUSSIA TAKES ROMANIAN OIL AS REPARATION

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, July 31—Romania will supply the soviet union with $160,000,000 worth of oil and petroleum products as part of the $340,000,000 reparations bill which has been assessed against her by the Russians, it was disclosed in business circles here today. The Romanian government has six years in which to make full payment and has completed payment for the first year, it was added.

Romania also must pay $40,000,000 worth in timber, a like amount in cereals, including wheat and corn, and $100,000,000 worth in other goods.

Romanians are said to be content with the soviet demands, believing they could have been much more severe and that Russia took into account the assistance given by Romania against Germany.

FRENCH ARMY PULLED PUNCH, YANKS SUSPECT

Tribune Writer Tells of Political Factors

[Seymour Korman, Tribune war correspondent, who has just returned from Germany, Italy, and France, was asked to compare the French soldier with others. His story follows.]

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN

The soldiers of the French 1st army, when they went into battle, were among the bravest in the allied ranks. But the number of days on which large forces of the eight or more divisions of the French army in Europe were committed to combat, from the approach to the Belfort gap in mid-September, 1944, to the windup in Bavaria last May, was much less than the number on which corresponding units of the American 7th army were in the front line.

Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army had the most contact with the French of any of the American outfits on the western front because the 7th and the French 1st were in the same army group—the 6th, commanded by Gen. Devers.

Feel French Sought Prestige.

There was a feeling among some in the 7th that Gen. De Gaulle and Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, commander of the French 1st, regarded their army as not so expendable as American forces; that their army, equipped by the Americans, being the only one France had, should be retained for post-war Europe; that De Gaulle and De Lattre were most eager to use their army as a political weight and primarily for the taking of objectives which would add to French national prestige.

The taking of Belfort, in the gap between the Vosges and Jura mountains which leads from France into the Alsatian plain, is hailed by the French as one of the greatest military achievements in history.

French Stress a Tradition

The French make much of Belfort never before having been taken by storm in medieval or modern times.

In September, 1944, French officers briefed correspondents, told of at least 15 forts around the city, and said the Germans had strengthened the positions to make them more defensible against an attack from the west.

The French estimated early in November that 55 battalions of Germans were facing them in the Belfort gap. The 7th army estimate of the strength in the gap was less than a fourth of that—13 battalions. The weakness of the opposition when the French finally jumped off on Nov. 14 would tend to confirm the 7th army's forecast.

One American intelligence officer told me that De Lattre did not feel ready to assault the Belfort position at that time, but that he attacked when he saw the progress the 7th army, which struck on Nov. 13, was making toward the Saverne gap, 80 miles north of Belfort.

One Paragraph Tells It

The French had sharp fights on the road to Belfort, but there was no really all-out resistance and the fortress city was taken over Nov. 20.

Why was Belfort taken with such comparative ease?

Price Day of the Baltimore Sun told it in one paragraph: "Belfort had three lines of defense. The first was composed of the ack-ack batteries. The second was the anti-tank ditches. The third was history."

The French, and we whom they briefed, had indeed been bamboozled by history, by the legend of Belfort's impregnability, and, in certain circumstances, it could be virtually impregnable. But this time it wasn't, for this time the big guns had all been removed or dismantled.

French Halt to Celebrate

After Belfort, the French went on to Mulhouse and cleared the Germans from part of the west bank of the Rhine. Then they settled down to celebrate. De Gaulle announced from Paris in late November that his forces were at the gates of Colmar, the third city of Alsace.

But they weren't, and the enemy's pocket west of the Rhine around Colmar grew until it became what Gen. Eisenhower once called "a running sore in the allies' side." Thru December the French did little except reorganize and fight patrol actions in the Vosges and southern Alsace while the American 7th army was cleaning out northern Alsace and fighting into the German Palatinate and part way thru the Siegfried line. Gen. Le Clerc's French 2d armored division was then attached to the American 7th army; it was this division which was first into Strasbourg.

When Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's German counter-offensive in the Ardennes bogged down he ordered an all-out smash to regain Alsace. He used at least 16 divisions in the Alsace counter-offensive.

Friction Over Colmar

On New Year's day, 1945, Maj. Gen. Edward Brooks, commanding the 7th army's 6th corps, which had the northern sector of Alsace between the Vosges and the Rhine, received orders from the allied high command to pull out of the province and go back to the eastern edge of the Vosges. Two days later Brooks' orders were countermanded. He was directed to hold northern Alsace, particularly Strasbourg. Why?

Not all details are public, not all documents are available, but the following is a version which I wrote and which was passed by censorship in February, a version that has never been denied officially:

SHAEF wanted the French to attack to clean out the Colmar pocket. With that done, the French could then guard the Rhine all along the Alsatian border and the 7th army could push on thru the Siegfried line. The French were not ready to attack or didn't want to, not because of lack of courage but because they wanted to keep intact as far as possible their army for the post-war period.

Point Won by De Gaulle

De Gaulle told that to Gen. Eisenhower, my report continued, and Eisenhower said he would not sacrifice any more American lives to retain Alsace for France and that if the French wouldn't attack he would order the 7th army back to the Vosges. Then De Gaulle appealed to President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

De Gaulle won his point and Eisenhower won a promise that the French would attack Colmar as soon as they felt prepared.

On Jan. 20 the French jumped off at last, the plan being for a corps of their army to come up from Mulhouse and another down from Ribeauville. The American crack 3d infantry division had been assigned to the French. The American 28th infantry division, recently arrived from the north where it had borne much of the brunt of Von Rundstedt's Ardennes breakthru, was also in the area, but its original mission was to be a holding one.

These two divisions and the American 75th infantry division and the 12th armored division and the French 5th armored division were formed into the American 21st corps, this corps being under French army command for the operation.

French Run Into Snags

It soon became apparent that the French corps in the south wasn't making the progress expected toward Colmar, and so the 21st corps was given the job of throwing the power punch from the north. The 3d and 75th divisions were assigned extended attacking missions, and the 28th's assignment was changed from holding to offensive.

On the night of Feb. 1, the French 5th armored and the American 28th struck toward Colmar. The French tanks could get nowhere; they ran into roadblocks and blown bridges. The 28th went on. Its 109th regiment fought all night, crashed thru the German defense line north of the city, and at 4 a. m. on Feb. 2 entered Colmar.

Gen. De Lattre wanted the people of Colmar to regard their liberation as accomplished by the French. And so the 109th regiment was ordered to sit and permit the French tanks to pass thru. The tanks went thru, but about all they did was cruise the main streets of Colmar.

Paris announced that the French 1st army had freed Colmar. Even at the time of the announcement, there was German opposition in the southern part of the city. And the Americans had to pass thru the French tanks to kill the last snipers.

French Claim Berchtesgaden

Three months later a last scene of the war was played at Berchtesgaden, Hitler's onetime fastness in the Bavarian Alps.

In mid-afternoon on May 4 the 1st and 3d battalions of the American 3d division's 7th regiment got into Berchtesgaden after a race from Munich and thru Salzburg.

Part of Gen. Le Clerc's French 2d armored division had come from Bordeaux to be in at the finish. The French armor wasn't needed; it didn't fire a shot in anger on its whole journey, and as far as the American soldiers could gather the only reason the French were coming to Berchtesgaden was for a political gesture.

The French arrived in Berchtesgaden well after the Americans, but they notified Paris of the capture of the town. It didn't raise the spirits of the doughboys to hear reports the next day that the French radio had given Le Clerc's armor the credit.

PICK GERMANY OVER FRANCE FOR SOLDIERING

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ROUEN, France, July 30—The majority of American soldiers stationed in Europe prefer Germany to France as a post-war station.

Ninety-three GI's were interviewed on this subject last week. They were soldiers who had been given rides in a jeep on the Normandy highways while this correspondent was traveling from camp to camp on other assignments. Only two of the 93 preferred France.

Much of the resentment against soldiering in France is not the fault of the French. It is based on the exchange rate between the franc and the dollar as fixed by international agreement. The rate of 2 cents a franc more than doubles the price of the soldiers' purchases from civilians. The soldier in Germany is paid in marks, and can buy civilian goods at fair prices.

20 Cents a Glass for Beer

"You get a glass of good beer in Germany for the equivalent of 2 cents," said an infantry sergeant with four stripes, indicating two years overseas. "In France you pay the equivalent of 20 cents for the colored water they call beer."

Others, telling their grievances with typical American frankness, denounced the French as ungrateful and unfriendly toward United States soldiers.

"Germans are more like Americans than are the French," an artillery corporal said. "The German women are prettier and do not wear so much makeup."

Calls Germans Treacherous

The two who preferred France as a duty post said German civilians are treacherous. "I don't see how any American can like a people who got us into two wars," said an engineer sergeant.

"The jerries are pretending to like us now so we will be soft toward them, and let them prepare for another war."

None of the 93 interviewed ever wanted to return to Europe for a peace time vacation. And all wanted to get back to America as soon as possible.

BRITISH LABOR PROMISED HELP BY COMMUNISTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 31—Britain's Communist party today pledged itself to support the new Labor government in "carrying out great social changes."

The party executive committee said the "real battle lies before us" and that workers must be prepared to resist efforts of the Conservatives to "frustrate the work of the new government." "We must be on guard against political and economic sabotage by the big, capitalists, bankers, and landlords," a statement by the committee said.

Two communist leaders in Edinburgh, Scotland, today moved a sailor's wife and her two children from their crowded home into an unoccupied 16 room house near-by. Alexander C. MacDonald, area organizer of the party, and his assistant, George Tait, said they undertook to find new quarters for the sailor's family because local authorities weren't moving fast enough. The communists later informed city officials of the action taken.

EDWARD F. MOORE JR. GETS MEDAL FOR IWO RESCUE UNDER FIRE

E. F. Moore Jr.

Edward F. Moore Jr., son of the former chairman of the Republican central committee of Cook county, has been awarded the bronze star for heroism while serving as a medical corpsman with a marine infantry battalion on Iwo Island on March 17, his friends learned yesterday.

"At early dawn Hospital Apprentice 1/c Moore led a litter team down a steep cliff to the beach to aid a wounded man," said the citation by Maj. Gen. G. B. Erskine, U. S. M. C. "This movement was observed by the enemy, who opened heavy small arm fire in an effort to prevent the rescue. After administering first aid, Moore assisted the litter bearers in carrying the wounded man up the cliff, greatly easing the man's pain by supporting his badly shattered leg. His utter disregard for his own safety and the dispatch with which he accomplished a difficult mission under hazardous circumstances undoubtedly were the deciding factors in saving the man's life."

AUSTRIA REGIME UNRECOGNIZED, CHIEF COMPLAINS

VIENNA, Austria, July 31 (AP)—Dr. Karl Renner, Austrian chancellor, said today "no relations of any sort" have been established between his provisional government and the United States and Britain—"not even discussions with state department representatives" here. "Nobody in the whole world," he added, has recognized his government.

Renner insisted that not even the soviet union had given official recognition and that the three party setup—Social Democrat, Christian Social, and Communist—was "only a de facto administration recognized solely by the Red army."

The 75 year old Social Democrat said that Austria had "not enough to eat," and added that "surely American democracy, mother of democracies, won't deny help to the young Austrian democracy."

$5,000,000 IN DOPE FOUND BY YANKS ON AUSTRIAN RIVER BOAT

WIESBADEN, Germany, July 31 (AP)—A cache of narcotics that officers estimated as worth $5,000,000 to $20,000,000 has been found aboard the Hungarian river steamer Leder by elements of the United States 65th infantry division, it was announced today. Troops boarded the Leder at Linz. The cache was reported to have included 220 pounds of morphine and an enormous amount of equipment for the production of narcotics. The crew chief, denying knowledge that narcotics were in the cargo, said the vessel had been loaded at Melk, 60 miles upstream from Vienna, under supervision of a representative of the Alkaloid Chemical Works of Vienna.

hangars, two radio stations, and railroad cars and turntables. Fires flared in four main buildings of the Kanto special steel company and in the Japan international aircraft company, both located in Hiratsuka, 30 miles south of Tokyo. The international plant manufacturers suicide bombs and is the last remaining Japanese plant still making aircraft propellors.

Corsairs of the 2d marine aircraft wing joined in the homeland destruction Monday with sweeps over Kyushu, striking warehouses, railroad facilities and a single parked plane. Today's bulletin also confirmed in part Tokyo radio reports of air thrusts at American-held Okinawa. It announced one enemy bomber was shot down there Monday.

Patrols Range to China

Naval search planes from Okinawa sank or damaged eight more enemy surface craft in patrols ranging from China to the Bonins Monday and Tuesday.

The Sendai railroad center on southwest Kyushu suffered the heaviest land target blow of Monday's raids by MacArthur's forces. Railroad yards were the principal targets of more than 80 Thunderbolts of the 7th AAF. Fires sent smoke 6,000 feet high. The whole town was reported ablaze. Mitchells which hit Korea also dropped extra bombs on Sendai on the return trip.

Planes hit three air fields in the Kyushu raids. The heaviest blow was against mile-square Omura airstrip in west central Kyushu. More than 100 Mitchells and Thunderbolts left immense fires in hangars and shops. P-61s set fires at Byu and Chiran air fields in southwest Kyushu. One of four Mitchells was lost in strikes against radio stations and lighthouses on the southern Kyushu coast. Three far east air force planes were lost in the raid.

[Tokyo reported 250 fighters and bombers struck Kyushu for two hours yesterday.]

Six B-29s carried yesterday's warning to Japan's doomed cities in the form of 720,000 leaflets.

Hope Japs Are Impressed

Twentieth air force officers frankly expressed the hope the leaflets would impress on the Japanese not only that their military forces cannot protect them but that American bombers are capable both of wiping out any selected Japanese city and of doing it after ample warning of the chosen target has been given.

"We cannot promise that only these cities will be among those attacked," the pamphlets repeated, "but some or all will be, so heed this warning and evacuate these cities immediately."

An appeal to the people to rebel against the fruitless defense likewise was made in the leaflets, which were prepared in conjunction with the psychological warfare service.

"America isn't fighting the Japanese people," they were told, "but is fighting a military clique which has enslaved the Japanese people. So you can restore peace by demanding new and good leaders who will end the war."

48 CHICKENS STOLEN

Thieves hauled 48 frying size chickens from the roost thru a ventilator of a brooder house, William H. Snow of Roosevelt road, east of Geneva, reported to Sheriff George E. Powell of Kane county yesterday.

YANKS CLOSING ON YAMASHITA'S HEADQUARTERS

WITH UNITED STATES TROOPS ON NORTHERN LUZON, July 31 (AP)—Yanks of the 6th infantry division were closing in on three sides today on the last known headquarters of wily Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, supreme commander of the Japanese on the Philippines and conqueror of Singapore.

At Manila, a MacArthur headquarters spokesman said today that troops of the United States 14th army corps also closing in on Yamashita's mountain stronghold effected a juncture on highway 11. The juncture, made by the 32d infantry division and attached Filipino units, completed the capture of the last stretch of important Luzon highway. Yamashita is believed holed up with 10,700 followers in the mountainous area northeast of Baguio.

At the end of a two weeks' drive, one column captured Ifugao ridge, six miles from the general's last known headquarters of Hungduan, among 8,000 foot peaks. Other columns driving from the north were respectively two and four miles from the headquarters.

LT. GEN. SIMPSON, 9TH ARMY CHIEF, 'VISITS' IN CHINA

CHUNGKING, China, July 31 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Simpson, former commander of the United States 9th army which helped defeat Germany, now is "visiting" in China, it was disclosed today.

Simpson reached Chungking July 13, said headquarters of Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer, commander of American troops in China, but no other details were disclosed.

[So far, only the United States 1st army has been definitely scheduled to be redeployed to the Pacific war front.]

The Chinese high command acknowledged a further advance by Japanese forces moving toward Nanchang from southern Kiangsi province and the rewon United States air base at Kanhsien. Spearheads of this force penetrated north of Kishui, about 90 miles south of Nanchang.

10th Air Force in China

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 1 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer announced today that the 10th air force has been added to the newly reorganized United States army air forces in the China theater. The 10th formerly was located in Burma.

4,000 GERMAN PRISONERS ASK TO FIGHT JAP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, July 31—Four thousand German prisoners of war in Camp Lucky Strike near Le Havre signed a petition asking to be sent as volunteers to fight the Japs so they may receive United States citizenship, according to a Chicagoan, Mickey Warner, the camp's mess sergeant.

Another Illinois Yank, Sgt. Don E. Williams, 1830 14th av., Moline, guards the prison camp with the rest of his unit while waiting for transportation.

Williams revealed a large number of Illinois enlisted men refused furloughs home because it meant leaving the unit they had been with for two years.

EAST GERMANY LOOTED BY REDS, POLES COMPLAIN

BY B. J. KOSPOTH

[Veteran newspaper man who was captured and interned by the Germans and liberated in northeastern Germany by the Russian army.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 31—Poles taking over the civil administration of Pomerania and East Prussia, which Moscow awarded to Poland in compensation for Polish territory seized by the Reds east of the Curzon line, are finding their new possessions only "an empty shell."

That is what the new Polish mayors in the country towns and villages, thru which we passed as liberated allied prisoners, told us with indignation and dismay.

The Russians systematically looted Pomerania and East Prussia before handing over these rich German provinces to the Poles. Live stock, industrial and agricultural machinery and even household furniture—all were transported to Russia following the arrival of the Red army last March.

Fields and Houses Desolate

Polish officials sent to administer the country have found only desolate fields and empty houses. This action on the part of the Reds constitutes one of the chief grievances the Poles—even "Red" Poles—hold against their Russian "liberators."

Pomerania and East Prussia were principal food producing provinces of Hitler's reich. During the war they supplied all Germany, with bread, meat, butter, cheese, and potatoes.

Great herds of cattle, sheep and pigs grazed in the rich pastures and village streets swarmed with geese, ducks, and chickens. Vast pine forests were full of game—stags, wild boar, and rabbits. As we tramped thru the country after three months of Red occupation we scarcely saw a horse or cow. Here and there we heard a solitary rooster crow but saw none of the famous Pomeranian geese, which used to goose step on every village green.

In a village on the road between Pyritz and Bahn we were hailed by a Polish farmer standing disconsolately in front of his half ruined house. He was one of the rare Poles, transferred by the Nazis, who had been permitted by the Russians to return to his farm in Pomerania. Already he was disillusioned.

Plows Taken to Russia

"How do they expect me to work?" he asked bitterly. "They've taken all my livestock and there is none to be bought anywhere. The fields are barren and there is no manure. As a great favor I've been promised a horse but all the plows in the village have been sent to Russia. If we must depend on our crops we'll starve to death this winter."

Everywhere villagers complained they couldn't cultivate the land without horses or machinery and we often walked miles without seeing a single man or woman working in the fields. Nor was any smoke issuing from the chimneys of numerous distilleries in which the Germans had manufactured grain alcohol for fuel. The Poles had hoped to operate these distilleries but found they had been looted of all essential machinery.

Moscow's obscure policy in northeastern Germany is further illuminated by the strange fact the Russians, besides looting the country they are ostensibly giving to the Poles, are evacuating a considerable part of the Polish population, particularly from the Baltic ports. At Stargard we found endless caravans of Poles arriving daily from Stettin and other coastal towns in horse drawn vehicles.

A Forbidden Zone

They were immediately packed into trains bound for Poznan and Warsaw, leaving behind their horses and wagons which were at once seized by the Russians. They said Russian military authorities had converted most of the coast line into a "forbidden zone" and compelled them to leave within 48 hours.

A Polish station master at Stargard, who gave us bacon and brown bread for our march, frankly expressed the belief the Russians would never relinquish their military hold on the Baltic ports.

"They plan to make the Baltic a Russian sea," he said. "They may give us Stettin on paper but they'll keep it as a naval base and be the real masters. And they'll do the same thing at Swinemuende, Kolberg, and all other strategic places on the Baltic coast. The Russians' next step will be to build up a big navy."

Only a limited number of the many Poles settled in Pomerania before being transferred by the nazis are allowed by the Russians to return to their homes. Most of those we met were being shooed away into the interior of their own country. None seemed enthusiastic, some had even attempted to cross American or British lines, but they had been sternly turned back.

Ruins Still Stand

All were aghast at the desolate aspect of the towns and villages for nowhere had the Russians made any attempt to clear away ruins or repair the ravages of war. Everywhere streets were still obstructed by wrecked German and Russian tanks, burned autos, and rubble from bombed houses. In the fields lay carcasses of horses, cows, and sometimes the bodies of men and women. This was the promised land to which the long exiled Poles were returning.

But in spite of all their troubles and anxieties the Polish flag was flying over every caravan.

JAPS RE-ENFORCE BOUGAINVILLE ISLAND GARRISON

MANILA, P. I., July 31 (AP)—The Japanese have reënforced their hopeless garrison on half-conquered Bougainville—parts of which have been in allied hands 21 months—with troops from Shortland Island, a spokesman for Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said today.

Bougainville continues the scene of bitter fighting, since the by-passed and isolated Japanese have had access to large supplies of food. Now, however, Australian troops have seized half the well developed enemy garden areas in the southwest sector of the big island.

Floods have slowed progress of the cleanup campaign, and extensive Japanese artillery fire has added to the difficulty. The spokesman described the mountain fighting as being as tough as that across the Owen Stanley range.

He estimated there are 85,000 Japanese in the by-passed Solomons Islands, Bougainville, New Britain, and New Guinea—most of them around Rabaul, New Britain.

SLEEK NEW JET PLANE FLIES AT 550 MILES SPEED

One of the P-80s was put on press display here today, a gray painted, sleek and deadly looking craft, suggesting super-speed even when standing motionless on its tricycle landing gear.

Its pilot, Capt. Wallace A. Lien of Wright Field, O., said some of the P-80s had gone overseas but he believed none had been in combat up to now.

Official Specifications

Speed—In excess of 550 miles.

Service ceiling—"More than 45,000 feet."

Wing span—38 feet, 10½ inches.

Weight—Empty, 8,000 pounds; with maximum fuel load, 14,000.

Armament—Six .50 caliber machine guns, located in the nose of the ship. The section can be removed and a camera installed for reconnaissance purposes.

Range Still Secret

Details of the plane's range, one of the problems of jet propelled aircraft, still remain secret. However, the producing companies make this statement: "Problems of range, which limited German jet planes to flights of a few minutes' duration, have been solved in the Shooting Star [the nickname for the P-80], by economy of the G-E jet and aerodynamic lines that are the cleanest of any airplane in the skies. With its jettisonable tanks, the Shooting Star is capable of carrying out missions now handled by long range fighters."

The use on the P-80 of droppable wing tanks as one means of solving the fuel range problem was disclosed only with the public debut of the plane today. The tanks are mounted at the extreme tips of the wings, instead of inboard or under the belly of the ship as is done in standard design aircraft. Location of the tanks in this position, the pilot reported, gave only 40 to 50 per cent of the drag resulting from the customary mount.

Entire Plane Painted

Discussing another characteristic of the plane, Lien said it requires a "good deal longer" run on the take-off than a conventional plane, gets into the air at a speed between 120 and 130 miles an hour and lands at about the same speed as any fast fighter, 100 to 110 miles. It has, in addition to wing flaps, a set of fuselage flaps located under the belly which help kill its terrific air speed when deceleration is required.

The P-80, unlike other new aircraft, is painted. It was explained that a glasslike "piano" finish is needed at the high speeds attained by the jet plane.

The ultra-modern jet engine has created some minor problems in service and combat planning. Overseas air bases now must be prepared to handle kerosene, the plane's usual fuel, as well as the usual high-octane gasoline for internal combustion engines. [The present engines are designed for kerosene, but the manufacturers said that modification of the fuel system would allow them to operate on gasoline of any octane rating with about the same efficiency.]

OPA CALLS HALT ON POINT FREE GIFT PACKAGES

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP)—The OPA ruled today that gifts of rationed food and shoes no longer may be shipped to civilians in other countries unless ration stamps are surrendered.

Price administrator Bowles announced that the only exceptions will be rationed food for servicemen overseas and shoes for representatives of this government abroad.

"What we aim to control," Bowles said, "is the individual gifts people have been able to buy out of our civilian supplies and send to other civilians abroad without paying ration stamps. These gifts—which have been chiefly packages of rationed foods—have been sent abroad in increasing numbers during recent months. Now ration stamps must be paid for them."

The OPA action follows criticism by Rep. Latham [R., N. Y.] of the ration-free shipment program. Recently Latham said in the house that such shipments offered the danger of a "fraud on the American people."

AIR FORCES, 38 TODAY, TO SHOW THRILL RESCUE

B-17 Will Parachute Boat Into Lake

An army air forces B-17 Flying Fortress will drop a 3,500 pound sea rescue boat by parachute into Lake Michigan at the foot of Jackson blvd. at 1:30 p. m. today as part of a program observing the 38th anniversary of the American air forces. Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, deputy air forces commander and former leader of all allied air forces in the Mediterranean theater, will be guest of honor at the day-long celebration.

Gen. Eaker is scheduled to arrive at 11 a. m. at the airport and will review a parade of civil air patrol cadets down State st. With him on the reviewing stand at State and Madison sts. will be Mayor Kelly and other civic leaders and air forces officials. The parade is scheduled to start at State and Van Buren sts. at 12:15 p. m.

"Air Umbrella" to Patrol

An "air umbrella" of air forces planes, including a B-29 Super Fortress, the B-17, a B-24 Liberator, and P-38, P-47, and P-51 fighters will patrol the parade route. After a luncheon in the Palmer House given by the State Street council, Gen. Eaker will witness the rescue boat demonstration and then will tour the Dodge Chicago plant.

He will be the principal speaker at an Air Forces day banquet at the Palmer House tonight. This is sponsored by the Air Power league, the civil air patrol, the army air forces, and the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The air-sea rescue boat demonstration is described by the air forces as an every day occurrence in the Pacific war area.

Parachutes Control Drop

When the boat is released, three parachutes inflate and lower it gently to the water. It surfaces in such a way that there is no damage from shock. The boat has air tight self-righting chambers so that it cannot turn over; it will even right itself if it strikes upside down.

It carries full provisions for 12 men for 15 days at sea, including medical supplies, dry clothes, a sail, two engines that give it a speed of eight knots, and 50 gallons of gasoline, enough for 500 miles.

20 GIs RECEIVE CITIZENSHIP WON ON BATTLEFIELD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, July 31—Twenty veterans of the 2d armored division, who fought from Kasserine pass in North Africa to Magdeburg on the Elbe river by way of Sicily and Omaha beach, Normandy, today took the oath of United States citizenship at the former royal yacht club at Wansee, now the Hell on Wheels officers' club.

"I promise to defend the United States against all enemies," the 20 recited in chorus as Cyrus Follmer, state department special representative, administered the oath. Brig. Gen. John H. Collier, the 2d armored's commander, blinked away the mist before his eyes as the soldiers huskily repeated the phrase. Then, as the chorus died away, he congratulated them.

Among the men were Sgt. Allan Parks MacDonald, Detroit, Mich., Canadian; Pvt. Charles Larson, Tunnel City, Wis., Norwegian; Sgt. William Schneider, Saginaw, Mich., Canadian, and Pvt. Angelo Carello, Detroit, Canadian.

ALLMAN SHIFTS 75 POLICEMEN; 14 PROMOTED

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday promoted 14 patrolmen to the rank of sergeant and ordered the transfer of five lieutenants and 18 sergeants, nine of whom were those newly promoted. Fifty-two patrolmen also were transferred.

Allman gave his usual explanation for the changes—that they were "for the good of the service."

The lieutenants moved and their new assignments are, Harold Pfeiffer, from the detective bureau to Cragin; William J. Smith, from state's attorney's staff to Morgan Park; John H. Scherping, from Cragin to Jefferson Park; John O'Leary, from Racine av. to Englewood, and John P. Burns, from Jefferson Park to Racine av.

The patrolmen promoted and their present assignments are: Charley J. Daly, Edward B. Donovan, Richard C. Folsom, and Seymour Stein, detective bureau; Humphrey Hennessy, Woodlawn; Walter R. La Roy, state's attorney's office; Lawrence Starr, Shakespeare; Cornelius Mahoney, W. North av.; Marshall E. Harris and Walter J. McDermott, Englewood; John J. Merwick, Maxwell st.; Samuel Suhajda, Chicago av.; Leo M. Anderson, Cragin, and Samuel Spinnell, Hudson av.

BROOKS SEES AIR MIGHT OF U. S. AS PEACE FORCE

Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] said yesterday that America's unchallenged superiority in air power will be its contribution to the maintenance of the peace. He described what he saw and heard in Europe, as a member of a senatorial investigating committee, before the Rotary club in Hotel Sherman.

"We face an aftermath almost as terrifying as the war itself," Sen. Brooks said. "It will take all of the courage and devotion of mankind to repair the unprecedented destruction that has been wrought. But at least we haven't the hates that the Europeans have, and we do have the ideal and example of American freedom.

"We're going ahead into a new experience, with new conditions. As I cast my vote for the San Francisco charter, I did it with the full knowledge that we were changing our historic course in international affairs. It is hoped that future outbreaks may be prevented from taking on the magnitude of world wars."

SEPT. 15-OCT. 15 IS TIME TO MAIL OVERSEAS GIFTS

Sept. 15 to Oct. 15 has been designated as the period when Christmas packages for shipment to service personnel overseas will be accepted by the postoffice department without requests from the service man, it was disclosed at the Chicago postoffice yesterday. The navy also suggested packages for navy personnel be mailed in the same period.

Specifications call for durable containers completely filled, weighing not more than five pounds, and measuring not more than 15 inches long and 36 inches in length and girth together. Not more than one parcel will be accepted from the same sender to the same addressee in any one week.

Relatives and friends of men in transit at the mailing time will be permitted to send parcels up to Dec. 15 if they present a change of address notification [W. D.-A. G. O. form 204 or equivalent notice] received from addressee subsequent to Sept. 30. Only one such parcel will be accepted from any one person, but the use of the change of address form may be passed around.

The period Sept. 15 to Oct. 15 is also time to send holiday parcels to members of the maritime service. These packages may be 16 inches long, 42 inches in length and girth, and may weigh up to 11 pounds.

ATHLONE'S POST IN CANADA GOES TO ALEXANDER

LONDON, July 31 (AP)—Field Marshal Harold Alexander, British hero of the allied Mediterranean campaign, was named governor general of Canada tonight, succeeding the earl of Athlone.

The announcement from Buckingham palace that King George VI had chosen the 54 year old soldier to succeed Lord Athlone, 71, uncle of the king, did not fix a date for the change in office.

Alexander, Britain's youngest field marshal, fought the Germans from the African deserts around El Alamein to the snow covered Alps of Italy, serving as supreme allied commander in the Mediterranean theater since 1944.

Fame Won at Dunkerque

He won fame in the historic Dunkerque evacuation, which he directed. From the French beaches he was transferred to the jungles of Burma, where he fought against the overwhelming Japanese horde.

Called into the Mediterranean campaign when Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's German Africa Korps was pounding hardest against the allied line, Alexander marshaled his forces for a supreme effort that hurled the Nazis out of Africa, brought the Italian surrender, and eventually the German collapse in northern Italy.

Father of Three

Alexander, son of the fourth earl of Caledon and grandson of the third earl of Norbury, resides at Windsor Forest, England. He married Margaret Diana Bingham, daughter of the fifth earl of Lucan, in 1931. They are the parents of two sons and a daughter.

The earl of Athlone has served as governor general of Canada since 1940. He was first appointed to the post in 1914, but World War I. intervened and he never took over the Canadian office under that patent. The normal term of his second appointment expired last June.

SENTRY FIRES ON JACK BENNY, 3 MORE IN CAR

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY IN GERMANY, July 31 (AP)—Jack Benny, comedian, told today how he and three other persons entertaining United States troops were shot at and missed a few nights ago by a sentry. "I thought sure it was a sniper," Benny said.

With Benny at the time were Ingrid Bergman, Larry Adler, and Martha Tilton, all entertainers.

They were en route to Stuttgart to keep a soldier-show date. Their sedan, driven by a soldier, rounded a curve late at night. A 100th division sentry signaled it to stop, but the driver failed to see him. The sentry, who had been instructed to watch for marauders, fired at a tire but hit the body of the car.

ARMY DELAYS NEW POINT SYSTEM FOR DISCHARGE OF VETS

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP)—The war department today postponed announcement of a new point score for discharging troops under the redeployment plan.

Early in June, after the present interim 85 point discharge score had been set, the department promised that its permanent "critical score" of points for release would be given out during July.

Officials said today the new score was not ready. Indications are that it will be disclosed in the next few days, entailing a somewhat reduced point score as well as a later date for calculating point credits.

Under interim scoring now in effect, points are calculable to May 12, with credits for service in this country and overseas, for combat, and for parenthood.

ANNULMENT CONSIDERED BY SCHULTZ'S WAC

BERLIN, July 31 (AP)—WAC Sgt. Kanella Koulouvaris went to suburban Zehlendorf's city hall today to look into prospects for an annulment of her civil marriage to Capt. Carl G. Schultz, who has been named by a Chicago woman as her husband and the father of her two children.

Sgt. Koulouvaris found that under German law a marriage may be annulled provided perjury was committed by either of the principals in getting a license.

The inspector general's department drew up a report on the marriage for presentation to Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, commanding officer of American occupation forces in this sector. Parks is expected to make a decision soon. Capt. Schultz has been placed under detention.

Ship Repairs Suffer

A three man special house military committee headed by Rep. Sparkman [D., Ala.] said west coast man power shortages are threatening to "bottleneck" the entire war effort and reported that "unless something is done immediately, or unless Japan surrenders forthwith, which we cannot gamble upon, an already serious condition on the west coast will become more than critical."

The committee said ship repair yards and railroads are worst sufferers from lack of man power but that almost all war activities are having difficulties. Departure of workers for more lucrative and attractive work or in anticipation of cutbacks was blamed for the situation.

The committee found a job turnover rate among 4-F workers nearly four times as great as that among physically fit workers with occupational deferments. It urged the office of war mobilization to tighten stabilization measures affecting war workers not subject to selective service.

Debate Reconversion

Assurance of a fair share of reconversion for the west coast was also urged by the committee, which suggested agreements between labor and management to permit war workers to sign up now for reconversion or existing nonessential work.

Disagreement on the number of soldiers required to defeat Japan was disclosed as high ranking officials in civilian war agencies were asked for comment on charges made yesterday by Lester P. Doidge, resigned official of the office of civilian requirements in the war production board. Doidge accused the army of slowing reconversion by overpurchasing and failing to release materials which would help industry toward peace time production.

One top administration figure who asked that his name be withheld said the army has been "conservative—perhaps too conservative" in seeing it has plenty to meet military eventualities, and added, "A 7,000,000 man army seems to be a big army for the one front war." He predicted increasing pressure on the army to release more men.

Army Files Studied

It was learned that War Mobilizer Snyder has sent an expert into army and navy files to ascertain what plants and machine tools are now being held which could be declared surplus and released for the reconversion program.

WPB Chairman Krug predicted that civilian goods will come back more slowly than "many have wishfully thought," and said that in spite of figures showing an increase in theoretical unemployment "there is not a single industrial community of any size where it is not difficult to find men for jobs."

Ickes appeared before the senate war investigating committee in his capacity as solid fuels administrator, accompanied by his deputy, C. J. Potter, to register a plea for army help in meeting the coal crisis. They testified that all war industries may be forced to a four day week unless the army furloughs enough experienced men to boost the coal output.

Deficit Estimated

Ickes told the hearing he estimates this year's soft coal production at 575 million tons and hard coal at 43 million tons, a combined deficit of 37 million tons compared with consumption needs. This deficit will be increased to 43 million tons by coal shipments to Europe, he said.

Potter said he has warned the army of the possibility of steel mills being forced to a four hour week by lack of coal and that the army replied it only uses one-third of the nation's steel output.

Ickes took responsibility for his recent order to ship 6 million tons of coal to Europe, but said he will halt this shipment unless more men are obtained to work the mines. He said lack of planning by England and France in the Ruhr is largely responsible for production in that area, being only 10 per cent of normal.

Brig. Gen. Kenneth C. Royall, special assistant to the secretary of war, appeared before the committee and said Patterson has requested a conference with War Mobilizer Snyder on the coal situation. The request was made either yesterday or today, Royall said, and added that Patterson stated in the request that the war department has so far not modified its decision against furloughing miners.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Aug. 1—Union Admits Colorado

The admission of Colorado to the union Aug. 1, 1876, ended a chaotic early history in which parts of the future state were claimed at one time or another by Spain, France, Mexico, and the independent republic of Texas. Even after the sovereignty of the United States was definitely established, there was a time when three separate governments operated in the area.

Spain, until the early 19th century, ruled Mexico and much of what is now western and southwestern United States. France had holdings in the Mississippi valley extending as far west as the eastern part of Colorado.

The first major change was in 1803, when thru the Louisiana purchase the United States received from France a vast territory which included part of present day Colorado.

Mexico became independent in 1821 and carried with her out of the Spanish empire still another part of Colorado. When Texas, in turn, revolted against Mexico and became an independent republic in 1836 she claimed large sections of Colorado. These claims were adjusted after Texas' annexation to the United States in 1845.

The remaining part of Colorado was acquired by the United States as part of the Mexican cession of 1848.

Before the territory of Colorado was organized in 1861, the area was part of Kansas territory, but some of the settlers set up a territory called Jefferson which included not only present day Colorado but slices of neighboring states as well.

A third type of rule, that of local courts designed to secure justice and peace in the turbulent mining districts, functioned with little or no reference either to the Jefferson or to the Kansas governments.

LACK OF STEEL DELAYS BUILDING OF AIR TERMINAL

Construction of the $700,000 temporary terminal building at the airport is being delayed for lack of steel, and the building may not be completed by the time federal priorities expire on Nov. 30, Public Works Commissioner Hewitt disclosed yesterday.

Hewitt said work virtually was finished on the 3,100 foot foundation, and that work is proceeding on the basement, aprons, and parking lot, but that all work is "leisurely" because of the late delivery of steel. Hewitt appealed to the war production board to direct the Bethlehem Steel corporation to advance its delivery date of Oct. 15, on the $46,000 worth of steel needed for the building, but was refused. He said he planned more appeals and would enlist the aid of the air lines in speeding construction work.

Bethlehem was low bidder among five bids on steel, Hewitt reported, and promised the earliest delivery date. When construction was begun in June, it was hoped to have the building in operation long before the Nov. 30 deadline.

INFLATION SEEN IF RECONVERSION IS LONG PUT OFF

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP)—Chairman Mead [D., N.Y.] of the senate war investigating committee declared tonight it is almost certain that living costs cannot be kept stable "unless reasonable amounts of civilian goods are made available soon."

In a broadcast address, Mead warned that "any continued curtailment of civilian production now can very easily mean inflation. A bigger proportion of pre-war goods would wear out. And the temptation to buy would be greatly increased."

Prolonged, such scarcity dislocates trades and services dependent upon civilian goods and it is hard to restore facilities for fast and cheap distribution, once impaired, he said.

FOUND DEAD IN BATH: WRISTS CUT

GOLDEN RULE DAYS COME BACK FOR VETS LAID UP IN HOSPITAL

Battle Creek, Mich., July 31—[Special]—Enrollment of patient-students was begun today at the opening of the army's first hospital high school at Percy Jones General hospital here. The school, known as the Percy Jones institute, has been accredited as a secondary school by the University of Michigan and will maintain the same standards as any secondary school in the state.

The institute will offer classes in every course to be found in any high school. But the student body will be different. It will be made up of sick and wounded veterans who wish to complete a high school education.

Group classes will be held for ambulatory patients at the general hospital and at the hospital annex at Fort Custer, but the majority of instruction will be done on a tutorial system with the teacher going to the patient's bedside.

Textbooks, materials, and the tests will be supplied by the Armed Forces institute at Madison, Wis.

BRITAIN TO TRAIN 200,000 TO HELP REBUILD CITIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 31—Britain's labor ministry under the new Laborite government is undertaking to train 200,000 skilled building craftsmen in two years to help rebuild blitzed cities, it was announced today. Ten thousand instructors will train apprentices, most of whom will be drawn from the ranks of service men.

Other vocational training schemes first outlined by the former coalition government also will be put into operation to provide skilled labor for other major industries, ranging from agriculture to textiles and pottery. In some industries training of recruits will be undertaken entirely by employers. The government will supply trainees with free tool kits where it is customary for a worker to provide his own tools.

Building apprentices will get six months' schooling at a government training center and then will work 14 months with a regular building employer.

CIVILIAN CARS IMPROVE SHIFT OF U. S. TROOPS

Organized troop movements are working out well under army regulations thru use of 895 Pullman sleepers taken from scheduled trains, Col. Sewell Morris, chairman of the railroad urgency committee, said yesterday.

"At the same time that the ban on sleepers for civilians traveling 450 miles or less was imposed, the army made a rule that soldiers traveling 48 hours or less must use coaches," he explained. "With the additional space this affords, the massed movement of personnel is well organized."

Col. Morris pointed out that as more Pullmans are manufactured, the 48 hour limit would be lowered by the army. He reiterated that 65,000 railroad workers are needed on lines to the west coast.

Fighters first!

● Millions of battle-weary veterans must get home for furlough, then move back to camps for pre-Pacific training.

For them these trips ARE necessary.

And, just as necessary to the country for which they are fighting.

Number one job of Great Northern's passenger service is moving fighting men first. On the Empire Builder and the railway's many other trains, space for civilian travel is now at a minimum.

The Office of Defense Transportation order that over-night sleeping car service on runs of 450 miles or less be discontinued on July 15, means considerably less space for civilian travelers.

Great Northern is confident that it can continue to successfully meet its obligation to the men in uniform if everyone will think "Fighters first!"

WE CAPTURED A GERMAN SUB

by Capt. D. V. Gallery, USN

AWAY, boarders! Lower away whaleboats! The prize—German U-boat 505 depth-bombed to the surface, partially scuttled by her crew, waves breaking over her fast sinking conning tower.

With incredible courage and daring—the crew of the escort carrier Guadalcanal boarded the 505, sealed off the in-pouring sea, and towed her to port 2,000 miles away.

A closely guarded secret until now—and from the point of view of naval intelligence—the greatest windfall of the war—the full, eyewitness account is given by Captain D. V. Gallery, Commander of the carrier Guadalcanal.

Not since 1815 had American sailors boarded and captured an enemy man-of-war. Not in all the history of naval courage and ingenuity will you read of more daring action.

TROOPS PROTEST BUTTON SHINING ERA FOR PARIS

One Would Quit Trying 'to Impress French'

Washington, D. C., July 31 [Special]—A full-fledged vocal revolt was being carried out in Paris earlier this month by irate GI's protesting what they considered useless "spit-and-polish" regulations imposed in the city's area under Brig. Gen. Pleas B. Roger's command, it was learned here today.

News stories from Paris last week-end reported that staff writers on the army newspaper Stars and Stripes had been disciplined as a result of printing numerous letters from soldiers and publishing two stinging editorials criticizing the policies of the area authorities. The officer who wrote the editorials was alleged to have been suspended from the editorial staff.

Offending Copies Reach U. S.

Copies of the July 16, July 20 and July 21 issues of Stars and Stripes, in which some of the offending letters and the editorials were printed, have reached Washington.

One soldier, signing himself "Private Thomas Paine," singled out Gen. Rogers in his letter, which said:

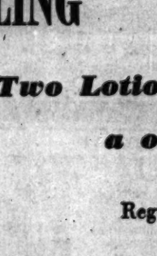
"Let's stop playing soldier. If our job is finished, let's go home. But if we still have work to do, what do you say we quit trying to impress the French and get it over with?"

Salute in Corridors

Another correspondent asked: "Do standing inspection by our bunks between reveille and breakfast, reveille formations, calisthenics, close-order drill, and orders for salutes in corridors, as well as on streets, serve military necessity?"

One staff sergeant waxed sarcastic over an order requiring brass buttons to be buffed. He pointed out that the army gives blouse buttons a protective covering to keep them from rusting. The polishing rubs off the protective covering, he said.

CRIPPLED HERO SUES EXECUTIVE FOR ALIENATION



Corp. Stanley Heck

Corp. Stanley Heck, 30, wearer of the silver star and the bronze star with oak leaf clusters, who lost both legs when a German land mine exploded, yesterday brought two suits in Superior court. He asked a divorce from his wife, Henrietta, 26, of 8808 S. Hermitage av., and $50,000 for alienation of affections from Alvin C. Shupp, 601 Washington blvd., Oak Park, a grocery chain executive.

Corp. Heck is in McCloskey General hospital, Temple, Tex., where surgeons operated on him Friday in an effort to save one of his arms, injured by the German mine explosion.

The divorce bill charges Mrs. Heck with desertion and adultery, and the alienation bill says Shupp carried on an illicit love affair with her. The adultery is alleged to have begun in December, 1943, a month before Heck went overseas. Heck's attorney is Thomas Green.

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. Lee Figg, Indianapolis, Ind.]

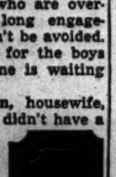
THE QUESTION

Do you believe in long engagements?

WHERE ASKED

Palmer House arcade.

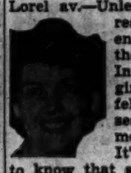
THE ANSWERS



Lois Nelson, receptionist, 2445 Hutchinson st.—I definitely believe in them because a long engagement makes it possible for you to know a person better. It gives a couple time to discuss what they agree on and what they don't agree on, and it makes it possible to get many important problems settled before they marry.

Herbert Futran, radio writer, 1707 North Park av.—To me engagements are a social fetish that should be dispensed with. You don't really know a man until you marry him anyway [or a woman] and if two people are in love and decide to marry they should go ahead and get married. I just don't believe in engagements at all.

Dale Meyer, machinist, Gary, Ind.—If you know that you want to be engaged to a girl you certainly know you want to marry her—or why be engaged? And if a person wants to marry some one, why wait? I think being engaged and putting off marriage indicates both parties don't know for sure what they want.



Pauline Haas, bookkeeper, 1333 Lorel av.—Unless there is a good reason for a prolonged engagement I think they should be short. In the case where girls are engaged to fellows who are overseas, a long engagement can't be avoided. It's nice for the boys to know that some one is waiting for them.

Mrs. B. K. McCann, housewife, 9116 S. Ashland av.—I didn't have a long engagement and I've never been sorry. Some people can't make up their minds readily, and in that case it's probably better to wait. However, there's no point in being engaged if the couple doesn't intend to marry. And if they do why don't they marry?

Pete Catizone, sandwich man, 1523 Taylor st.—A life time is a long time and when people marry it's supposed to be "Till death do us part." The more you know about a person, the better your chances. If you know what to expect in marriage there won't be any disillusionments. I definitely believe in long engagements.

CANNED CHICKEN IS AVAILABLE TO CIVILIANS AGAIN

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP)—Agriculture Secretary Anderson today announced temporary suspension, effective tonight, of an order setting aside all canned chicken and chicken products for the military services.

The suspension will remain effective until Oct. 1, Anderson said, and will make canned chicken and chicken products available to civilians until that time.

Canners have been operating under a set aside order since Feb. 14, when a requirement of 70 million pounds of canned poultry was announced. Anderson said production has been better than expected and the supply of canned chicken exceeds government needs at the present.

SEVEN GERMAN SLAYERS OF U. S. FLYERS TO HANG

DARMSTADT, Germany, July 31 (AP)—Two German women and five men were sentenced tonight to death by hanging for their part in the lynching of six defenseless American flyers last August in the village of Russelsheim, 15 miles north of here.

One defendant was sentenced to 25 years at hard labor, two others to 15 years at hard labor and one was acquitted.

The six man military commission headed by Brig. Gen. Garrison H. Davidson, former West Point football coach, returned the verdicts at 11 p. m. after deliberating four hours at the close of the sixth day of the trial.

Woman Cries Out

The defendants, ranging in age from 41 to 67, heard their fate in a dimly lighted courtroom in which each had largely denied any serious part in the mobbing of the flyers.

The two women sentenced to die were 50 year old Margarete Witzler, a bulky woman with close cropped hair and hard, dark eyes, and her sister, Kathe Reinhardt, 38, both mothers.

When Johannes Seipel, 67, heard his death sentence he shuffled out of the courtroom saying, "I did nothing."

The others sentenced to be hanged were Joseph Hartgen, 41, the village's number 2 Nazi; Friedrich Wust, 40, also a Nazi; Johann Opper, 65, and Philipp Gutlich, 48. They stared blankly.

George Daum, 45, was sentenced to 25 years at hard labor and August Wolf, 43, and Heinrich Bartel, 40, to 15 years each. Karl Fugmann, 42, was acquitted.

Largest Group Tried

The 11 defendants were the largest group of Germans yet brought to trial together for a war crime. Military court attaches said the procedure probably would form the precedent for trying "hundreds" of Germans unofficially reported facing trial for similar crimes.

One investigator said, "This was the most brutal case I've come across yet." As he told the story, the flyers who had been shot down two days before and had been taken as war prisoners were being led thru Russelsheim when the two women incited the mob by shouting, "Beat them to death."

That, the investigator said, started a "march of death" for the flyers which lasted for seven blocks thru the village until the flyers lay dead.

EXECUTIVE DIVORCED; LAWYER SAYS HE'LL MARRY ARLINE JUDGE

Vincent M. Ryan

Vincent Morgan Ryan, 41, of 817 Central st., Evanston, account executive for the Grant Advertising company, yesterday was granted a divorce by Judge Edwin A. Robson in Superior court from Lucia Turner Ryan, 38, of New York. He charged desertion. His attorney, Phil R. Davis, said Ryan will marry Arline Judge, former film actress, for whom Davis obtained a divorce recently before. Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court, from Capt. James R. Addams.

Ex-Shoe Merchant Denies Hiding Bankruptcy Assets

Hersch Saladuche, alias Harry Sallo, 50, who opened and closed a shoe store in La Grange in 1935, pleaded not guilty yesterday when arraigned before Federal Judge Elwyn R. Shaw on a charge of violating the national bankruptcy act by concealing $5,000 in assets. The case was continued to the fall term. Saladuche was arrested last week in Cincinnati, O., where he was working as a shoe clerk.

BRITISH TROOPS UNLOAD SHIPS AT LONDON DOCKS

Government Acts After 9 Week Slowdown

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 31—Five hundred British soldiers today began unloading cargo from seven ships at the Surrey commercial docks in London, where a nine week slowdown by 1,500 stevedores has brought operations to a standstill.

In view of the Labor government's sweeping victory at the polls last week, the action of sending troops to take over from union dock workers caused some surprise. Most observers thought the Labor government would exhaust every other means to settle the workers' dispute before resorting to the use of troops.

Soldiers were sent to the docks by the war office at the request of the ministry of labor and ministry of war transport. It was explained arrangements for the use of troops in docks in the case of emergency were made by Ernest Bevin when he was secretary of labor in the Churchill coalition government. Bevin is foreign secretary in the new government.

Party Leaders Informed

Troops have been used previously for this work but not in London.

Prime Minister Attlee has not yet appointed a minister of labor or war transport, and ministers of the Churchill caretaker government are carrying on in theory, altho actual decisions probably are being made by permanent civil servants.

It is known, however, that Labor party leaders were informed of the intention to use troops, and Herbert Morrison, acting as prime minister in the absence of Attlee, could have blocked the move had he desired.

Action was taken after the National Dock Labor union informed the ministries it had been unable to end the slowdown. The soldiers are unloading sugar and timber for housing.

Stevedores Quit at Noon

Stevedores have been reporting for work but going home at noon, with the result that unloading stopped altogether a fortnight ago. A few men turned up today but were refused permission to work.

The trouble began with the cancellation of the war time agreement under which the men received danger money in addition to their wages. The docks were frequent targets of bombs and V-bombs. The workers want a wage of $5 a day instead of the present $3.20 and opportunity to work for daily wages instead of by piecework.

Australia Will Increase Gasoline Rations 25 Pct.

CANBERRA, Australia, July 31 (AP)—Gasoline rations will be increased 25 per cent beginning September 1, Australian officials announced today. Taxis will get a 15 per cent raise. The increase was attributed to an improvement of the tanker situation.

SGT. ROGERS RETIRES AFTER 25 YEARS OF R.O.T.C. DUTY IN CITY

Sgt. Paul Rogers

Master Sgt. Paul Rogers, 55, of 5034 Grace st., chief clerk of the Chicago high school R. O. T. C. and a member of the staff for nearly 25 years, was retired yesterday on a federal pension.

Sgt. Rogers was assigned to the Chicago R. O. T. C. on Nov. 1, 1920, when 3,000 students were enrolled in the corps. Today there are 10,000 cadets.

Sgt. Rogers enlisted in the army Dec. 12, 1913, in Chicago, and served overseas in World War I with the 28th infantry, 1st division. He took part in the Aix Marne, Verdun, Argonne, and San Mihiel campaigns, and was with the army of occupation in Germany.

JURY CONVICTS FOUR HOODLUMS IN HOOPER CASE

Battle Creek, Mich., July 31 (AP)—A jury in Circuit court today convicted four Detroit hoodlums of conspiracy to murder the late State Sen. Warren G. Hooper. Judge Blaine W. Hatch immediately sentenced them to from four and one-half to five years' imprisonment.

The court, however, granted a defense motion that bond of $15,000 each be continued for the defendants, pending an appeal or a motion for a new trial.

Not Accused of Actual Killing

The defendants—Harry Fleisher, his brother, Sam; Mike Selik, and Pete Mahoney—were charged with plotting the death of Hooper to silence him, the state charged, as a witness against individuals indicted by a state grand jury investigating allegations of legislative graft.

The defendants were not accused of the actual killing, which the prosecution charged was planned in a Detroit barroom and was to net the killers $15,000.

The bullet pierced body of Hooper was found slumped over the wheel of his automobile on a county highway not far from his home last Jan. 11. The state disclosed at the trial of the four Detroiters that Hooper had given considerable testimony before the grand jury and had been counted upon as one of its ace witnesses against some of those indicted.

Reach Verdict in Two Hours

The jury took just two hours to reach its verdict after 11 days of testimony and argument.

G. E. Fountain of Merengo, one of the jury of six men and six women, said the jury convicted the Fleisher brothers and Selik on the first ballot, but that one member voted for Mahoney's acquittal on the first two ballots.

The state did not identify during the trial the source of the $15,000 it said was paid for the death of Hooper. Neither did it attempt to identify the actual assassin.

PROJECTORS STOLEN FROM SCHOOL

Two stereoptican projectors, six boxes of pencils, and a clock were stolen from Cooper elementary school, 1624 19th st., by burglars who entered the building by breaking the engine room window, Fabian Resk, school engineer, reported to police yesterday.

CAPTURED JUNKERS PLANE 'ALLES KAPUT' BROUGHT TO OHIO

Dayton, O., July 31 (AP)—A Junkers 290 touched American soil for the first time today when Col. H. E. Watson of Farmington, Conn., landed the four engine German transport plane on Patterson field.

Aboard the "Alles Kaput" [the German equivalent of "all washed up—ended"], were nine other crewmen and "Pfc. Schnapps," a six month old dachshund picked up east of Munich.

Captured near Munich three days before V-E day, the plane has a wing-span of 138 feet and is 92 feet 10 inches long from nose to tail. Its normal gross weight is 90,000 pounds. It is powered by four 14 cylinder air-cooled radial engines generating 1,750 horsepower, has a range of about 2,000 miles, and a top speed of about 240 miles per hour.

For Millions of Americans

is the Year of Decision

In years to come, many millions of Americans will look back and remember 1945... not only because that was the year in which Germany surrendered, but also because that was the year in which millions grasped, or failed to grasp, their great opportunity.

Let's look at the situation today....

WITH the full weight of Allied power shifting to the Pacific, we still have a tremendous production problem on our hands. To turn out the needed ships, bombers and munitions, we shall have to work long and hard. In 1945, the great majority of Americans will still have "money to spend."

What they do with that money will determine, to a very large extent, what future comfort and security they will enjoy.

It will affect them in two fundamental ways... as individuals with personal financial problems to solve, and as citizens of a nation still faced with the threat of inflationary price increases.

If these millions of Americans will take it "slow and easy," will buy only what they really need, and save all they can until civilian production returns in adequate volume, they will do the best possible thing for themselves and for their country.

If they spend it carelessly and prodigally, they will not only waste money, but help to destroy the value of the money they have saved.

So far in this war, the American people as a whole have not tried to spend all the money they made, but have saved on a scale never before equaled. They have bought ever increasing amounts of War Bonds and life insurance, and have established savings accounts, just as our Government recommends.

In this way thousands of families have grasped their opportunity and built backlogs of savings which have changed their whole outlook on life. Others will look back some day and wonder how they ever let the opportunity slip through their fingers.

EXPERIENCE SHOWS that most Americans handle their affairs wisely and well when placed in possession of the facts. In that belief, the Life Insurance Companies in America will continue to publish informatory messages dedicated to helping in the fight against unwise spending and inflationary price increases. This program is continued as a public service, in cooperation with our Government.

WHERE PEOPLE RESPOND TO SPECIAL ATTENTION

An atmosphere of friendliness and warmth is the heartbeat of small-town American business. It is understandable why the merchants are quick to recognize and appreciate the efforts of manufacturers to cooperate and are just as sensitive to any apparent lack of interest. Having 56 percent of the retail outlets in America, this market deserves special selling attention.

Present-day conditions have made it more difficult to maintain close selling contact and service with dealers in the small towns. Many national advertisers are using PATHFINDER because it is the one national magazine that is published for people in the smaller places. Each week PATHFINDER brings news and happenings of the world to thinking, substantial, small-town families. No national advertiser should overlook the PATHFINDER market.

11 BILLION SPENT BY U.S. OVERSEAS IN 5 YEAR PERIOD

That's in Addition to Big Lend-Lease Total

Washington, D. C., July 31 [Special]—The United States spent 11 billion 437 million dollars abroad from July 1, 1940, to March 31, 1945, exclusive of lend-lease of 39 billion dollars, the foreign economic administration disclosed today.

The newly reported total was comprised principally of 4 billion 124 million dollars for metals and other supplies, much of which was used in the United States for war production; 4 billion dollars for pay to American military and civilian personnel, and 1 billion 800 million dollars for army and navy bases.

Much Pay Sent Home

FEA Administrator Leo T. Crowley said that since the middle of last year about two-thirds of the money paid to troops overseas has been remitted home, helping to lessen the inflationary impact of spending by American troops in foreign countries.

In addition to expenditures and lend-lease abroad, this country loaned 1 billion 100 million dollars of which less than half has been repaid, leaving a balance of 585 million dollars due. The United States also shipped 373 million dollars worth of relief supplies, mostly thru the army.

Largest Share to British

Of the 11 billion 437 million dollars spent abroad, 5 billion 666 million went to the British commonwealth, including the United Kingdom, Australia, Canada, and India, and 3 billion 3 million to Latin America. Only 147 million dollars was spent in Russia, which, however, received 9 billion 132 million dollars in lend-lease aid.

Against the outlay of more than 50 billion dollars in expenditures and lend-lease, foreign countries made cash purchases of 3 billion 270 million dollars in the United States and extended 4 billion 948 million dollars in reverse lend-lease.

Boy Finds Loot

[Associated Press Wirephoto]

Gilbert Abelar tries to lift one of money bags he found.

Burbank, Cal., July 31 (AP)—Gilbert Abelar, 7, today discovered money bags containing $2,293—part of the $111,300 taken yesterday in one of southern California's largest pay roll robberies—and provided police with the first real clews to the two men who held up two bank messengers.

"I was playing in the alley, went into a garage, and saw six sacks," the boy told officers.

Mrs. Esther Abelar, his mother, said she had rented the garage for $3 a month to a slim man in army uniform.

CONVICT FLEES 'ROCK'; CAUGHT IN ARMY DRESS

San Francisco, Cal., July 31 (AP)—A desperate and clever bid for freedom from fortress like Alcatraz prison was made today by a 50 year old murderer and robber who boarded an army ferry boat wearing a stolen army uniform, but was arrested a few minutes later when the boat docked at nearby Angel Island, an army base.

John K. Giles

John K. Giles, serving a 25 year sentence of an attempted post office railway car robbery in Utah in 1935, is believed to be the first person to have escaped "The Rock" in San Francisco bay long enough to reach another point of land.

Described by Warden James A. Johnston as "a lone wolf who does his own scheming," Giles had patiently collected an army uniform, piece by piece, from military laundry sent to the penitentiary for cleaning.

Giles hid under the dock, at which he worked, as the ferry approached this morning and crawled aboard when it tied up. He was missed when a routine check of convicts was made after the ferry departed.

There have been less than a dozen attempted escapes from Alcatraz since the government took it over in 1934.

NIGHT CLUB MANAGER GIVES UP IN KILLING OF LABOR ORGANIZER

Minneapolis, Minn., July 31 (AP)—The Hennepin county grand jury today heard testimony in the slaying of Albert Schneider, 38, labor organizer, who was shot early Friday at the Casablanca cafe.

Rubin Shetsky

A few hours before the grand jury convened Rubin Shetsky, manager of the Casablanca, who had been sought for questioning, surrendered at police headquarters.

Police Chief Ed Ryan said Shetsky, also known as Wayne Saunders, was held without charge.

Among the eight persons who testified before the grand jury this afternoon was Tommy Banks, night life figure. Banks had told police, Ryan said, that altho he heard the shots he was dazed from blows he received in the melee that preceded the shooting and did not know by whom they were fired.

$40,000 Raised in Drive for Firemen's Aid Fund

Contributions received from Chicago business firms this week have raised total receipts to nearly $40,000 in the campaign to obtain $150,000 for the Chicago fire department mutual aid and benefit fund, Fire Commissioner Corrigan, chairman of the fund, said yesterday.

ESCAPED CONVICT IDENTIFIED

Arthur Freeman, 48, arrested last Thursday by Lake county deputy sheriffs as a burglary suspect, was identified last night as Otto Zillgas, an escaped convict from the Wisconsin state penitentiary at Waupun. The identification was established by means of finger prints.

COMPLAINS WMC IS UNFAIR TO COMBAT YANKS

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars complained today that the war man power commission is giving noncombatant veterans preference in civilian job placements over men who did the actual fighting.

Omar B. Ketchum, VFW national legislative representative, cited an extract from the WMC instructions:

"The level of skill can be determined to some extent by ascertaining whether a man has been attached to an arm or a service.

"If, for example, a man has been doing the communication work of an infantry company, he can be assumed to be less proficient than a man performing the same duties for a signal corps company, for the former has probably been given only the necessary rudiments of line construction, switchboard work, etc., as a sideline to his regular duties, while the latter will probably be fully trained by the signal corps."

PAPER SALVAGE AT PLAYGROUNDS TOPS 200 TONS

Waste paper collection at 200 city schools, and park playgrounds went over the 200 ton mark last week for the first time in the summer campaign, Willam H. Bennett, chairman of the drive, reported yesterday.

The playgrounds turned in 401,767 pounds of paper last week. The previous week 192½ tons were collected.

Autographed baseballs, baseball bats and tickets, and other prizes were given as awards at Washburne Trade school, where 1,000 pupils collected 227,465 pounds of waste paper in a salvage drive last week. The Chicago Newspaper Publishers association presented $50 in war stamps to outstanding pupils.

Illinoisan Named Chief of Base in Puerto Rico

SHORTAGES NOT TO CLOSE CAFES, LEADER INSISTS

Chicago restaurants may be forced to serve more meatless meals and still less butter during the closing weeks of the 60 day point slash which ends Sept. 15, Donald F. Kiesau, executive secretary of the Chicago Restaurant association, declared yesterday.

Many restaurants have adjusted menus since the 20 per cent reduction in red points went into effect July 15, Kiesau reported, but he denied any restaurants in Chicago had closed because of meat shortage.

"Many transients in Chicago are wholly dependent upon the city's restaurants," Kiesau said. "We are determined to continue in operation and provide nutritious, balanced meals with the supplies that are available."

'RICK' AWARDED LAW DEGREE AT AIR FORCE FETE

Columbus, O., July 31 [Special]—Eddie Rickenbacker, leading ace of World War I, and an outstanding hero of World War II, was given the honorary degree of doctor of laws by Capitol university here tonight at the end of the first day of a two day celebration marking the 38th anniversary of the creation of the army air forces.

Tomorrow night, one-half of a world premier of the film "Capt. Eddie," portraying the life story of the flyer, will take place at a theater here. The other half of the premier is scheduled for Guam, where members of the 21st bomber command will see the film, flown across the Pacific over the weekend. The picture is scheduled for a tour of Pacific air bases.

Rickenbacker, who was born in Columbus Oct. 8, 1890, got a homecoming welcome today equal in enthusiasm to that accorded him in 1919 when he came home after knocking down 21 German planes and four balloons. During the day he inspected the Curtiss-Wright plant here and watched Helldivers and Seahawk scout observation planes coming off the production lines.

SPEED SUPREME COURT TRANSIT AUTHORITY TEST

Jacob Shamberg, assistant state's attorney, said yesterday that an appeal would be filed this week with the Illinois Supreme court, asking a reversal of a decision by Judge Julius H. Miner in Circuit court that powers granted the Chicago metropolitan transit authority are constitutionally valid.

It is expected that the Supreme court will consider the case at its September term. If the decision is favorable, the governing board of the authority, of which Philip Harrington is chairman, will proceed with negotiations for a loan of 90 million dollars.

With the proceeds it is proposed that the authority buy the surface and elevated lines for 87 millions and set up a working cash fund with what is left. The lines are to be consolidated and operated under public ownership.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

738 Arrive on Liberty Ship; 'Yippee, We Made It!' Is Cry

New York, July 31 (AP)—The Richard Rush debarked 738 returning troops today, the largest load of passengers ever to reach this port aboard one of the war-built Liberty ships.

The Rush followed into harbor the S. S. Exchange, which carried 2,184 men including more than 1,600 officers and men of the 5th armored division. Also on the Exchange were the 618lst quartermaster drivers detachment, the 72d and 167th liaison squadrons and the 86th transport squadron cargo mail.

Four Other Ships Arrive

Four other vessels cleared thru the port of embarkation—the Stephen E. Austin with 100 troops; the Lou Gehrig with 25 liberated prisoners and other troops; the Great Republic with 14 and the British escort aircraft carrier H. M. S. Reaper with 19.

Capt. Gregory C. Carroll of the Richard Rush said that rusty vessel carried 200 more men than her normal capacity on the Atlantic crossing. In celebration of the ship's reaching port, the ship paper, the "Porthole Peeper," was headlined: "Yippee—We Made It!"

The soldiers aboard, most of them from the 3d and 7th armies, slept on hatch covers and in passageways during the trip—but to make up for the inconvenience they had unlimited quantities of ice cream and fresh milk during the 14 day voyage from Antwerp.

CHICAGO COAST GUARDS GIVEN MERIT AWARDS

Coast guard officers and Mayor Kelly last night formally thanked 1,200 men of Chicago and suburbs who as reservists had completed 1¼ million hours of war time work guarding the Chicago river and the lake front from Gary to Wilmette. The reservists devoted 12 hours a week to security work. They have been placed on an inactive status.

The men were credited with "materially facilitating the safe and uninterrupted flow of vital war materials to the battlefronts" by Rear Adm. Frank J. Gorman, chief supply officer of the coast guard. He presented shields of merit to the 14 flotillas in the Chicago district at a ceremony in the Grant park band shell.

"Regular coast guard officers and men today are off the Japanese mainland because you relieved them here," Gorman told the volunteers. Commodore James A. Hirshfield, Cleveland, O., commander of coast guard personnel in the Great Lakes area, also spoke.

ADMIRAL WARNS NATION'S FOES EXCEED FRIENDS

New London, Conn., July 31 (AP)—Vice Adm. Wilson Brown, U. S. N. [retired] of Waterford, naval aide to the late President Roosevelt, said here today that one probable result of the war was that the United States has made more enemies than friends.

In an address at graduation exercises of officer candidates at the United States Maritime Service Officers school, Adm. Brown asserted:

"In spite of all that we have done and suffered in the cause of freedom and justice, this country has probably made more enemies than friends during the past four years. We will be bitterly hated by our present recognized enemies. We will be envied and reviled by many we thought to help.

"It behooves us to be strong in our own defense and to be fair and decent in the treatment of our less powerful neighbors lest, in our might, we find ourselves in the unenviable role of bully and tyrant."

YEAR'S MILITARY TRAINING URGED FOR FUTURE WAR

A year of uninterrupted military training for every young man as preparation for the next war was urged before a Union League club luncheon yesterday by Vice Adm. A. S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district, and Maj. Gen. David McCoach Jr., head of the army 6th service command.

Adm. Carpender outlined the navy's plan for four 13 week training periods devoted in turn to boot training, specialized study, operations teamwork instruction, and operation of training vessels.

Gen. McCoach said security is the paramount issue and pointed out the benefits he said the nation would derive from the physical fitness and discipline of its youth.

Ralph A. Bard, former undersecretary of the navy, indorsed the pleas for universal training. "The principal of equal service to the country is the foundation of a free people," he said.

500,000 CHEER HANDCAR RACE DOWN STATE ST.

Two railroad handcars, each powered by four sweating section hands, raced down State st. from Randolph to Van Buren st., before an estimated 500,000 shoppers and office workers yesterday in the opening of a joint civilian-army drive to recruit 65,000 new workers for western railroads.

The Santa Fe handcar beat the Rock Island entry by a margin of nearly a block, so that the judges, including Mayor Kelly, Miss Vivian Vance, an actress; Col. I. Sewell Morris, commanding officer of the 6th transportation zone, and David Mayer, chairman of the State st. council, were not called upon for a decision.

Twenty persons signed up for railroad work in a recruiting booth in Madison st. behind the judges' platform, and another 285 were cleared up to 3 p. m. in the railroad retirement board offices, 409 Washington blvd., where applicants have been asked to apply. Chicago's quota is 6,000.

Bare-Hand Fishing Leaves Gov. Warren Bare Handed

Los Angeles, Cal., July 31 (AP)—Gov. Earl Warren went grunion hunting today. The governor was the very first to admit that as a grunion hunter he's a first class governor. The fish can be caught only by the bare hands. While the governor was catching two at Malibu beach, his son Bobby caught 75. The silvery fish come into shore at this time of year.

SUES TO TEST TRUSTS SET UP BY C. E. BROWN

Mrs. Helen Deshler Brown, 2450 Lake View av., filed suit yesterday in Superior court as executrix of the estate of her husband, Charles E. Brown, who died Jan. 13, seeking to determine the validity of three trust agreements he set up in his will for the benefit of their daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown Whitman Dickerson, 35, of New York. Brown, who was 78 and executive vice president of the Okonite company, left an estate valued at $275,000.

The suit set forth that no schedule describing the portion of the estate to provide assets was attached to the third trust established in 1933.

The bill expressed belief that this trust is void because the two prior trusts contained no provision for amendment.

The Lament of a Lady

(A WARTIME LESSON)

WHAT good to me is a "dead" radio
That can't even pick up the static?
How can I sew on a sewing machine
That's busted, up in the attic?

Oh, for the days when you could get things repaired
Or re-overhauled in a trice,
Now when they break we must store them away—
A playground for moths and for mice.

What help's an ironer that won't even iron?
Or a washer that won't even start?
What aid is a squeezer that won't dent an orange
If it's broken a technical part?

Oh, for the days you could call on the phone
For a man on the Service Staff,
And tell what you wanted repaired on what day
And not hear a mocking laugh.

But hold just a moment this gloomy lament,
This song has a brighter hue.
Some companies held to that prewar ideal:
Good Service, Quick Service—and True!

Let's remember the Service they kept up for us
Let's remember their Service Man
So we won't forget when it's "New Product Time"
To buy from those people again!

You will note the lady lamenting makes a few exceptions in this matter of keeping household appliances doing their duty during wartime.

While almost 100 per cent on war production (winning the Army-Navy "E" flag four times), the Hoover Company has maintained genuine peacetime standards of Hoover service in all parts of the United States and in Canada.

This service supplies genuine Hoover parts on all Hoover Cleaners made during the past 25 years.

It is prompt service (usually in 48 hours or less).

It is economical service (prewar prices).

That's one big reason why millions of Hoover owners will again select the Hoover Cleaner; why Hoover enjoys better than a two-to-one preference among women over any other cleaner.

That's why millions of other women who wished they had the Hoover will put Hoover at the top of the list.

Remember this—

From a woman's wrist watch to a General Sherman tank, if a product is mechanical and if it moves, it needs service.

The flossiest vacuum cleaner in the world is useless to you if it doesn't pick up dirt.

P.S. Hoover owners—Be sure your Hoover Cleaner is registered with your local Hoover Factory Branch Service Station. Just call

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 31—The navy expects after the war to retain approximately 30,000 of its reserve officers who will be on the same footing as regular officers of the same age and rank and who will have equal opportunities for promotions and assignments, Navy Secretary Forrestal disclosed today.

He said the navy is anxious to attract young officers with experience at sea to man the peace time fleet that will be maintained "to defend the United States and to discharge our international agreements."

In a letter addressed to naval reserve officers and published in the bureau of naval personnel publication "All Hands," Forrestal said legislation must be passed before the department can disclose details of its plan to induct reserve officers into the ranks of regulars, thus making them U. S. N. rather than U. S. N. R.

Assailed as Caste System

Use of the "R" to differentiate between regulars and reserves has been assailed during the war as a mark of a caste system. With reserve officers serving on the decks of warships in the various theaters and far outnumbering regular officers, congressional observers have asserted that the successes rolled up by the fleet have been won to a large extent under the command of reservists.

With officers of both groups—regulars and reserves—sharing the dangers of conflict, the retention of U.S.N.R. after a reservist's name is regarded by critics as a meaningless designation.

At present in the navy, there are 46,840 regular officers and 257,407 reserve officers. Recently published figures show that only 11,350 officers who have participated in the naval victories of the last three years are Annapolis graduates.

Estimates Need at 30,000

Forrestal's statement listed the following three fundamentals in the plan to increase the regular officer roster:

1. "The navy's need for officers after the war is governed by the size of the fleet which we must keep to defend the United States and to discharge our international obligations."

2. "We know now that the navy will need after the war more U.S.N. officers than it has—perhaps 30,000 more."

3. "The best source of more officers is the navy itself, particularly reserve and temporary officers now on duty."

Induction as regulars, he said, will be governed by standards as to age, past performance, physical fitness, and rank.

PETRILLO LOSES FIGHT ON RADIO RULING BY NLRB

New York, July 31 [Special]—James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, lost a legal battle today when the United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that the National Broadcasting company and the American Broadcasting company must comply with a national labor relations board order to bargain collectively with the National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians at all their stations except those in Chicago.

The court rejected the issue raised by Petrillo's AFM that the association of engineers and technicians is "a company dominated union."

Four months ago the NLRB decided that the AFM was the proper bargaining agent for the "platter turners" in Chicago stations, but not in other cities. Platter turners have charge of the apparatus turning the recorded music.

The broadcasting companies asked the federal court for clarification of the NLRB ruling so that they would be protected against reprisals from Petrillo.

ONE WAY TO LOSE WARS

Since the nazi collapse in Germany our government has had a small army of American experts poking about the laboratories and factories of that country, to unearth as many technical secrets as possible. The investigations have been fruitful. Our scientists have discovered many ingenious devices for winning wars, some of which were produced too late to have any significant effect on this one.

The investigators have discovered how it was possible for the Nazis to lose the war despite their possession at the start of the most advanced military technology and a corps of scientists, engineers, and technicians more experienced than those of any other nation in applying their knowledge to military problems. Virtually the same account of what happened was given at Washington by Col. W. Randolph Lovelace II., a physician who has been working in aviation medicine, and by Alexander P. de Seversky, the aircraft designer, in an interview with Frank Sturdy of THE TRIBUNE in Rome.

Dr. Lovelace reported that the German scientists, mobilized for the war a decade before those of this country, were the originators of many important developments in air warfare. Almost without exception, our own scientists, attacking these problems, adapted and surpassed the German achievements, while the Germans stood still. The Nazis developed the air transport of wounded but they never carried the development as far as our own air force has. They were early developers of oxygen and pressure equipment to permit pilots to retain their senses in combat at high altitudes, but in this, also, they were eventually outstripped by the United States. They led this country in the development of jet propelled fighter planes, but when they put those planes in the air over Europe they found that American Mustang planes were outmaneuvering their faster aircraft, because the American pilots had special pressure suits which enabled them to make faster pullouts and turns without blacking out.

Mr. de Seversky cited other instances in which the Germans failed to make the fullest use of the technological superiority which at times they possessed. German science fell down on the job, he says, because the German political system permitted military leaders to pursue their own course, without benefit of criticism. The result was that tho they started with a technological advantage, they ended by being outstripped by research carried on in the United States and Great Britain. Frequently, he reported, the achievements and abilities of German scientists either were not used or were misused by the German militarists.

The people of this country have always been extremely jealous that military power, however mighty against our enemies, must always remain subordinated to civilian authority. The soundness of this theory is now demonstrated, not only in the political field, but in the field of technology as well. American military research was spurred because the army and navy leaders knew that public opinion would hold them responsible for deficiencies the moment the latter were disclosed.

In this field the American newspapers and press associations have fulfilled an important role. Wherever military censorship is instituted it can be expected that it will be used, not merely to conceal information from the enemy, but also to protect the reputations of the military against public knowledge of their blunders. The American military censorship was so used in this war, but it was checked and frequently overcome by the constant fight of American newspaper men to stop such misuse.

Every war sees a drive by the military to control all the affairs of the country, on the grounds of "military necessity." This one was no exception. The chair-borne generals would have had the army running everything in the United States if they had had their way. Fortunately, they were denied their way in most important respects, and the waging of the war was made more efficient by that denial. The more nearly a country manages to confine its soldiers to the business of fighting the more efficiently it wages war. Some of the chair-borne generals still are not willing to concede this. They think they are better able to manage civilian activities than are the civilians who have spent their lives in learning how to run factories, railroads, and stores and have proved their competence to do so.

DOTS ON THE MAP

The final salvation of Australia from Japanese invasion was achieved when our marines, fleet, and army, won the months of bloody fighting on land and sea for the possession of Guadalcanal and its vital air field. When, in the costliest fighting of the war to that time, the marines seized Tarawa, the repulse of the barbarian tide was definitely signaled.

On Guadalcanal and Tarawa thousands of young Americans will lie forever, their lives the price of Australia's safety. It would be only courtesy for Britain and Australia to present these two islands to the United States in recognition of this heroism.

The leases on the West Indian bases came to the United States in return for a few second class, but very necessary, destroyers. Surely the British will not want to retain a couple of coconut islands, of no sentimental value and virtually no intrinsic value to them, when these dots on the map have so much meaning for all Americans.

We like to think that it was our insistence, at a time when the administration was doing its best to cry down and pooh pooh the Caribbean suggestion, that eventually brought about the concessions there. We are going to stay with Guadalcanal and Tarawa with equal determination.

WHAT ABOUT OUR SACRO-ILIAC?

On July 23 [legislative day, July 9], Sen. McClellan [D., Ark.] introduced Senate Joint Resolution 87, which reads as follows:

"Resolved by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the President is authorized and requested to issue a proclamation designating the 31st day of each year as National Arthritis day."

The resolution is bereft of the usual wherefores. It's not clear whether the honorable gentleman is for arthritis or against it. One would assume that he takes his position beside Calvin Coolidge's preacher, but for the complication that Hot Springs does a thriving business relieving people of arthritic twinges. Maybe the senator is merely firing the opening gun in the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce's drive for bigger and better arthritis.

Personally, we can take arthritis or leave it alone. As a topic of conversation, we mean. We'd rather have scotch and water, but Rhine wine and seltzer will do, it being such a hot day. And did we ever tell you about our sacro-iliac? It was just such a day as this, and we were standing spraddled across a flower border, when our foot slipped on a pile of fresh cut grass. We hardly noticed it at first, but in about 15 minutes it was like a pair of red hot hooks. . . .

What about a National Sacro-Iliac week, Senator? To put him in the proper mood for proclaiming it, maybe we could get President Truman to sleep with a board under his mattress.

THE SAME OLD HERSHEY

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, said in Indianapolis Saturday that he would continue inducting men after the defeat of Japan. He said that the draft will take 100,000 men a month for the next year and that it will be continued into peace to obtain troops in the necessary numbers for occupation duty while veterans are being discharged under the point system.

It would be illuminating to find out from the general where, in the selective service act, he thinks there is any warrant to continue the draft into peace time. It is generally understood that men taken for service are to be held for the duration and six months. Possibly Gen. Hershey thinks that in the kind of peace that is shaping up both in Germany and the Pacific, when no treaty of peace may be signed for an indefinite period, the "duration" can be prolonged at the administration's pleasure. If so, the parents who are giving their sons, the wives who are separated from their husbands, and all of the young men in uniform who are giving their best years will want to know about it.

This is not the first time Gen. Hershey has opened his mouth to put his foot in it. The Presidential campaign last year was enlivened by his contribution that there would be no employment problem when the war ended, because, as he said, it would be cheaper to keep the men in the army than to carry them on the relief rolls. The White House, much embarrassed, took prompt steps to disavow the impression that the general was speaking authoritatively.

From Indianapolis to Potsdam is a considerable distance, but modern communications may have acquainted President Truman with Gen. Hershey's latest pronouncement, for the President was quick to say that he hoped to get the soldiers back home without too great delay. The occupation of Europe, Mr. Truman said, is temporary, and he recalled that as a soldier in France after the 1918 armistice, his one desire was to get home as soon as possible.

Gen. Hershey, however, ought to be compelled in justice to the people and to all men now in service and those coming of military age to disclose his basis for stating that the draft can be continued into the peace. If he is reflecting the views of the administration, there is going to be a terrific outcry. If he is jumping the gun in anticipation that congress will pass a peace time military training bill, he still owes the nation an explanation. A prolonged occupation of distant lands by American boys will not set well with this country whether the forces are to be held over from those who have fought the war or are conscripted after the war is over on the pretext that their training is necessary to America's safety.

WINE IN AMERICA

The state liquor control commission reports that the consumption of wine has more than quadrupled in Illinois in the last decade.

This is one increase in alcoholic consumption that may properly be regarded as a step toward temperance. It is not impossible to get drunk on wine, nor to one dead set upon that objective unduly difficult. But the particular qualities of the beverage, including the fact that most varieties are taken with food, do conduce to civilized and temperate drinking.

The increased consumption of wine arises in part from the fact that the more painstaking vintners of this country have, during the last five years, taken advantage of new markets opened to them by the war, which cut off shipments from Europe. The best American wines have been greatly improved, and are still improving.

There is still a large quantity of mediocre and downright bad wine sold in this country, but that is true in every country. We get some of it from overseas, too, with nothing to recommend it except a foreign label. If Americans would forget both labels and the rubbishy ritual associated with wine drinking, and buy wine by taste instead of price, they would be better satisfied.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. The ordinary trolley wire is about how far above the pavement? 9 ft. 18 ft. 27 ft. 36 ft.
2. Wireless transmission should be associated with which name?
   Edison Bell Franklin Marconi
3. Which one of these words is inappropriate in this general grouping?

5. A whatnot would most likely be found in which room
   Kitchen Bathroom Living room Garage
6. This problem tests your ability to perform problems in your head, so to speak, for it involves imagination. Assume that you have a sheet of paper. Mentally fold it once. Then fold it a second time. Now fold it a third time. Then punch a hole thru the entire mass. How many holes will then appear in the sheet after you have unfolded it? You deserve two points credit for answering this problem, and an additional three points if you can tell us how many holes would be present if you had made a fourth folding of the paper before punching a hole thru it.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points].

KAMIKAZE BIRD

The citizen who called for police protection, about two weeks ago, against a malignant bird, "believed to be some kind of hawk," must know by this time that it was only a nighthawk, which is not a hawk at all but a goatsucker. This common flutterer and screecher of the summer twilights is incapable of scratching because its claws are so weak that it cannot perch and has to rest on its belly. Moreover, its beak is so short that it cannot peck any hard object, such as a citizen's dome, without stunning itself. Nevertheless, when its eggs are approached, it can give a small imitation of a kamikaze plane.

• • •

To enlighten himself and round out a story to hand down to his grandchildren, the citizen who was harassed by this harmless gnat-chaser should get a book called "The Murmur of Wings," by Leonard Dubkin, and read Chapter VIII.: "How a nighthawk saved its eggs from being measured." Dubkin was on the roof of a three-story flat building, stooping over the eggs like a boy scientist, when the mother bird went into her bombing run.

• • •

"I did not have time to raise my arm in front of my face, but I closed my eyes instinctively, and just as I did so pandemonium broke loose. A deafening, horrible booming broke out all about me, swept me off my feet, and rolled me over on the roof." . . . The next thing he knew, he was hanging from the edge of the roof with both hands. He pulled himself up, and fled down the back stairs. Then the janitor caught him and kicked his pants.

• • •

The booming sound that nearly blew the juvenile ornithologist off the roof was caused by the bird's slamming on the brakes at the end of its dive.

• • •

A nighthawk is behaving queerly around the Linemaster's domicile this week. It rests on its belly in the alley, looking like a lizard, and bounces into sudden flight under our nose. Shall we call the squad car?

BACK YARD VACATION

For years he'd traveled far away
To make a two or three weeks' stay
At some well advertised resort,
And there invoke the God of Sport
By tossing Dobbin's shoes around,
By digging up the old golf ground,
By trying to entice a fish
That failed to grant his ardent wish,
By trying to conceal a frown
When horses bobbed him up and down,
By sunning till his velvet skin
Resembled that of Gunga Din,
By cussing like a lowbrow sinner
When rules required a coat at dinner.
The God of War then came along
And uttered words that rang the gong;
He said, "Now get it thru your dome!
This year you'll do such things at home!"

Was This Dream Necessary?

When I take a trip [which hasn't been recently], my transportation reservations and hotel accommodations are arranged weeks in advance, my bags and trunk packed the day before, sufficient time is allowed between connections for any emergency, and every member of the party receives a memorandum on where to meet, when to meet, and what to take. [I missed a train early in my youth and never got over it.]

But when I dream of taking a trip [which has been quite often since the vacation season opened], I can't get satisfactory transportation reservations or hotel accommodations, no cabs are available when I want to leave, I get kicked off a plane, have to stand up in a day coach, miss boat connections, my bags are at a bus terminal, my trunk at an interurban station, I get lost from the party, somebody else has the baggage checks, I forget the name of the hotel at which we agreed to meet, and just before I wake up I find myself in a strange town without friends, funds, or a clean shirt. [I must try this some time. It sounds like great fun.]

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0800, gives personal interviews.]

F. J. asks: "When uncovered and indoors, does a soldier salute an officer upon addressing him? What is the custom in the navy? If a soldier saluted a naval officer indoors and it was not naval custom to salute, would the officer return the salute?"

Soldiers should uncover upon entering a room or office where officers are present and should salute an officer before addressing him. The officer must return the salute. The navy does not salute when uncovered indoors, and if a soldier did salute a navy officer the officer should nod and bid the soldier the time of day.

W. F. writes: "I have been supporting my sister since the death of our parents. Now I am about to be inducted. Can I make an allotment in her favor and obtain government allowance in addition?"

Immediately upon induction you should file claim for initial family allowance for your sister and at the same time make an allotment in her favor as a class B-1 dependent. She will receive $42 from the government pending receipt of her first allotment check. You may make an allotment in her favor for $22 and the government will pay her $42. You also may make a voluntary class E allotment to which nothing is added.

PROGRESSIVE DEAFNESS

WHAT we hear may go in one ear and out the other for, unless we pay attention, the brain may not let us know that a noise was made. Those who are preoccupied fail to heed the ordinary hubbub that is always about us. The absentminded professor may disregard the horn of an approaching car until it practically blasts his eardrums. This is not deafness, for these individuals have not lost the aural sense.

The victim of otosclerosis grows hard of hearing slowly but progressively. The condition may go unrecognized for years until he becomes aware of the fact that bits of conversation are missed. The change may be so gradual that, as each vibration disappears from his world, he fails to notice it. Soon he forgets that the boy next door took music lessons or that birds used to sing in nearby trees. In time it may even be assumed that these activities do not exist. Hissing or ringing in the head usually accompanies the abnormality, which naturally adds to the hardship.

Otosclerosis is only one of many types of deafness. It is most commonly seen in early or middle life. The cause is a disease process which affects the bony capsule surrounding the labyrinth of the inner space. For some unknown reason this structure becomes softer and, in its place, a spongy bone is deposited.

The examining physician can find nothing from the outside to explain the disorder. The canal is free from wax; the membrane appears normal; and the tiny tube leading from the throat to the ear is not plugged. Only by employing the tuning fork and the audiometer can a diagnosis be made. The chief difficulty lies in the failure of proper conduction of air borne sound waves.

Various forms of treatment are available. A hearing aid is used most frequently and, in many cases, is an adequate substitute. Medical management is not too satisfactory. It consists of rest, adequate food, and the administration of vitamins [especially B complex.] This may produce very little change in the ear itself, altho the sufferer is relieved of his strain and is, therefore, in a better condition to adjust himself to the handicap. Prostigmine, nicotinic acid, and sex hormones have proved helpful with some.

The fenestration operation is the surgeon's attempt to overcome the obstruction produced by the growth of alien bone. A window is made in the region of the labyrinth, allowing sound vibrations a new passageway to the hearing centers. While complete restoration cannot be expected, improvement may reach a practical level and often surpasses the best fitting earphones, altho more time must elapse before this is proved definitely.

Not every one is a suitable candidate for this plan. It is a painstaking procedure necessitating special equipment, including a microscope for greater magnification of the tiny parts. Only those familiar with the operation and skilled in this field should be consulted. When results are satisfactory, a new world is opened to those who may have resigned themselves to the defect.

NASAL GROWTHS

M. W. writes: I was interested in your article on removing nasal polyps, as I had this done and I still have the same symptoms. Do you suppose they have grown back?

REPLY

These tumors may recur after a few years, but if the same manifestations are noted soon after the operation there is a possibility that there is some other cause. It may be that one was overlooked. I would suggest a return visit to the nose specialist.

PAIN IN THE NECK

O. Y. writes: I wake up every morning with a pain in the neck. What can I do for relief?

REPLY

First find the cause. You may be a contortionist in your sleep. The chances are that there are some arthritic changes in this area.

UP AND DOWN

H. A. writes: I have low blood pressure but a pulse of 100. Isn't this unusual?

REPLY

No. This combination may be noted in individuals who are slightly below par or in those with overactive nervous systems.

BONE INFECTION

S. F. writes: I have suffered from osteomyelitis for 12 years. Will going on a milk diet cure it?

REPLY

No. Any one having an infection of this type needs a full diet, including milk, for its calcium value.

WORKING TOGETHER?

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Trouble Ahead

The post-war plans of the manufacturers of walkie-talkie radios have the navy, as well as the civilian front, wondering. From a seafaring man comes word that after two years of listening to the see going sister of the walkie-talkie, the TBS [talk-between-ships], he can foresee some knotty problems. As example he cited a recent air raid in the Pacific during which some one came on the TBS and started to make a report. After a few words the speaker hesitated and then, with the talkie button still pushed down, roared, "O!$!"$! I'm fouled up!" There was a moment's silence and then another, very authoritative, voice came on the air saying: "The officer who made that last transmission will give his signal number over this circuit immediately." Silence ruled the circuit for a full five seconds while all the fleet listened. Then the first voice said: "I'm not that fouled up."

Tugboat Annie's Brood

Remember Annie, the English setter on the LSM, who six months ago held up a Pacific convoy 40 minutes when she fell overboard? If you don't, the story was written home by Lt. Robert P. Palmer, a Chicagoan who was skipper of the little boat. Annie, until then never in the water, fell overboard at dusk. Permission was given to turn back for her, and every pair of glasses was used to search for a little dark head bobbing in the dark waves. Finally they found her paddling for dear life, dried her, warmed her, fed her, and rejoined the convoy. The commodore then was informed by radio of their return, but interrupted the report to demand: "Yes, but what about the dog? Is she all right?" Well, we merely want to report that after that life was one long adventure for Annie. She met up with a beachcomber, a happening the men of her LSM bitterly opposed, and a few weeks after participation in the taking of Iwo Jima gave birth to four puppies. Their names are Iwo, Jima, Suribachi, and Motoyama. Suribachi crowds all the others away from the milk saucer.

Homecoming

A Chicago soldier hitchhiking a ride home on an army plane caught the only one available in Washington. It was headed for Grand Forks, N. D., and was a special job carrying a guest of honor home to Grand Forks for a mighty welcoming celebration. The guest was Gen. La Verne Saunders, the young army flyer who was in active command of the Doolittle raid on Toyko, crashed in China, was badly smashed up, and now is being retired. The plane's take-off was delayed and it arrived in Grand Forks hours behind schedule to land in a special field, a corn field cleared for the occasion. The plane landed beautifully, but the field was empty. Suddenly a tiny boy carrying an orange crate came out of the stalks. "Committee got tired waiting. Thought you wasn't coming," he yelled up. With that he deposited the crate on the ground. The general stepped out on it, followed by the bomber crew. The crew saluted the general. He returned the salute. The crew filed solemnly back into the plane, and the last thing the Chicago soldier saw, as he was flown on to Des Moines [to catch a train home] was the general sitting in the middle of the field on the orange crate as the small boy raced off to telephone.

How to Get Ahead

New approach to old problem:

A personable young man stood in line at the Palmer House for 15 minutes the other morning, watching those ahead of him receive the inevitable question, "Reservation?", and the equally inevitable refusal when they said no. Finally his turn came. "Do you have a reservation?" the clerk asked. "Hell, lady," he replied, his tongue thick with Kentucky, "Ah'm just a boy from the country. Ah don't know how to make a reservation." The clerk who made room for him and his wife might be interested to know he represents one of Louisville's largest law firms.

THE MIDWEST FOR AMERICA

San Diego, Cal., July 19—The Britannica Book of the Year, 1945, states, "An estimate based upon the alien registration records indicated that on March 1, 1944, there were only 3,600,000 aliens in the United States. Almost one-third of this number, 1,022,000, resided in New York State." California follows with 352,000 aliens. Thus we find nearly one-half of the alien population in the two seaboard states.

I am deeply impressed with THE TRIBUNE'S position that the Republican party must divorce itself from the pernicious influence of the Atlantic seaboard element and must nominate and elect a true American from the middle west. What little resistance is shown against the increasing encroachments of burocrats affecting the rights of the states comes almost exclusively from the midwest.

When Gov. Dewey spoke to the largest crowd of his entire campaign at the Rose bowl in Los Angeles, he muffed the chance of a lifetime to espouse the cause of real Americanism. Instead, he spent the evening trying to outdeal the New Deal by adopting most of their asinine philosophy of government, and by promising the people of California bigger and better pensions, subsidies, and handouts. Fence straddling never won a national campaign, never will, and never should. J. C. ROBINSON

FOXY, NOT WOLVES

Chicago, July 24—I want to register a strong protest against the colored cartoon that appeared in THE TRIBUNE this morning in which it was suggested that:

1. Foreigners are "moochers" and wolves.
2. These foreigners are threatening "anarchy" in order to get food and supplies from us.
3. "United States agencies" are like an innocent little Goldilocks—a charitable maiden about to fall for the "tricks" of the wolf.

Surely the situation in Europe today is a very serious one. Surely it demands the best and most constructive thought the American people are capable of. What we need, it seems to me, is that large numbers of us should do a lot of clear, unemotional, intelligent, unprejudiced thinking about Europe and its problems.

I think this cartoon will have just the opposite effect. It will arouse prejudice against "foreigners" and it will encourage a short sighted, selfish policy toward giving them the help they need to recover from the effects of the war. MARGARET H. SMITH

SHAPING THE VETERANS' WORLD

St. Charles, Ill., July 26—Cannot something be done to impress upon our returning service men the grave importance of laws about to be enacted in congress? Thousands of veterans are returning each week. Those not hospitalized are intent upon a vacation and some fun. We know they have been kept in the dark by the New Deal, in matters that vitally concern them; they have been fed false truths and propaganda. Yet if some one does not arouse them, and soon, all that they have fought for is lost.

They have not been consulted in regard to the Bretton Woods and Dumbarton Oaks plans or the charter mapped out for us by foreigners at San Francisco, yet these are of such great importance to our veterans and their entire future that they should be camping on the very steps of congress. Even their presence there would have its influence. It is our veterans who will make the future laws of America. Let them start while it is still "America."

FREEDOM FOR INDIA

San Francisco, Cal., July 25—Britain has many times promised independence to India. But now, after a fourth attempt to get independence, Moslems and Hindus can't agree on members of the council appointed by Viceroy Wavell, and call the plan a "trap." Well, trap or no trap, if they can't unite together they should unite separately—under the united nations charter—if the latter really means the four freedoms for India, as has been disputed.

India is ruled partly by the British directly, and partly by 562 native princes thru treaties with Britain. Some of these exact enormous taxes to live in splendor, while their subjects suffer or starve. India would be much better off as a territory under chapter XII., article 76, of the charter, if the Big Three or Five will let it. Or, they could all [British and native provinces] be reorganized into a dozen or more democratic states, according to location of religious majorities. Each state would have the four freedoms—especially freedom from fear of each other's domination—as well as from outsiders. But all would be united and protected by the united nations like our own 48 states in our federal Union—even tho we could stand some improvement.

Either of these plans would enable the united nations, under the charter, to liquidate the caste system, excessive taxation, and other evils, and free 60 million "untouchables." As two of our Presidents have said, the Atlantic and world charters should apply to all peoples. Then let's see that they do.

3. For whom did you vote in 1940?
4. For whom did you vote in 1944?

TAMMANY WINS MOST PRIMARY CONTESTS IN N.Y.

No Major Nominations Made by Voters

New York, July 31 [Special] — Most of the candidates backed by the Tammany Democratic organization in district leadership contests appeared tonight to have won easy victories as the tabulation of the vote cast in the primary election got under way. The vote was exceptionally light.

There were no major nominations at stake in Democratic, Republican, or American Labor party primaries. Of four Democratic nominations in dispute only one showed any possibility of being close. That was in Richmond where Harry Cassidy was battling John A. Lynch, who had the backing of the county organization, for the nomination for borough president.

At midnight an unofficial count in Manhattan indicated that Edward J. Barry had been ousted as Tammany leader of the 10th assembly district by Martin Kelly.

Blaikie Tops Co-Leaders

Kelly had the backing of the Tammany organization. The count also revealed that Robert B. Blaikie, another organization candidate, had defeated Assemblyman Patrick H. Sullivan and Joseph H. Broderick, co-leaders of the 7th assembly district.

In the 3d assembly district Michael J. Kennedy, former leader of the entire Tammany organization, appeared to have some chance of retaining his district leadership despite a victory claim made early in the evening by Eugene E. McManus, his adversary.

O'Dwyer Is Unopposed

District Atty. William O'Dwyer of Brooklyn emerged from the voting as the nominee for mayor of the Democratic and American Labor parties. He was unopposed. Judge Jonah J. Goldstein of General Sessions likewise became the Republican nominee for mayor as a result of the voting. He, too, was unopposed.

CLIPPINGER WINS G.O.P. CONGRESS PRIMARY RACE

Harrisburg, Ill., July 31 [Special] —Roy Clippinger, publisher of the Carmi Democrat-Tribune, won the Republican nomination to succeed the late Rep. Heidinger of Fairfield on the basis of unofficial returns in the special primary last night. Reflecting the weakness of the Democrats in the 24th congressional district, they had no candidate on the ballot but supported by the "write-in" method James W. Karber of Ridgway.

Voting in 171 of the 204 precincts gave Clippinger, 5,402; James S. Heidinger, naval lieutenant and son of the late congressman, 3,237; Scerial Thompson, Harrisburg, an attorney for the United Mine Workers, 2,640; Roy Durham, former Harrisburg mayor, 2,116, and Ebb Hargrave, McLeansboro, 1,707.

Largest of the 11 counties in the district is Saline, but its voting was split up between two native sons, Thompson and Durham, with Clippinger of White county getting a good share. Clippinger's campaign was the best financed. Altho some of his opponents charged he often supported Democrats in elections, his weekly newspaper is listed as "independent."

July 31, 1945

MANY farmers will be faced with the problem of storing a corn crop of high moisture content this fall. Delayed spring planting and the cool, wet, spring weather has caused much corn to be too soft to store properly.

If corn is wet and immature at harvest time, it will heat and rot when crammed into a crib. An early frost can cause such a condition. Corn will not store well if it contains more than 25 per cent moisture.

Use It Immediately

The best way of using a soft crop is to feed it to cattle immediately. Beef cattle will make better use of soft and slightly spoiled corn than will other farm animals. It is not recommended for sheep, hogs, or horses.

Most farmers will not be able to feed their corn to cattle soon enough to keep it from spoiling. Thus they must have a method of storing it. The best way of preserving the grain is to put it in the silo. If possible, the corn should be ensiled before frost time, with water added if necessary to make the grain ferment properly.

The farmer who does not have silage space or facilities for artificially drying the ears may leave them standing in the field to dry. They will keep fairly well in the field until needed for feed.

Build Ventilators

To dry soft corn in a crib it is advisable to build ventilators which will permit a free circulation of air among the ears. Some farmers have had success in drying corn by hanging drain tiles on wires. Best results are secured when the tiles are placed in rows two feet apart the length of the crib. Wooden ventilators also may be built inside the crib that will help to keep the air moving.

In the old days it was a common custom to put salt on soft corn under the belief it helped dry the grain and preserve it. Later experiments have proved that the value of salt for this purpose is doubtful, and most agricultural authorities do not recommend it.

Trip May Hurt Corn

Corn carrying 40 per cent moisture is worth only about 75 cents a bushel, compared with $1.10 for dry top grade corn. Even this price may be considered high, for the grain usually has to be transported to be sold and heating may take place in the grain car that will greatly lower the value of the corn.

Some farmers may find it handy to leave their corn in the field and permit cattle or hogs to do the harvesting. Care should be taken to permit the animals to get used to the corn before allowing them free range of the field. When soft corn is fed the animals, the farmer will find it necessary to feed additional protein as well.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

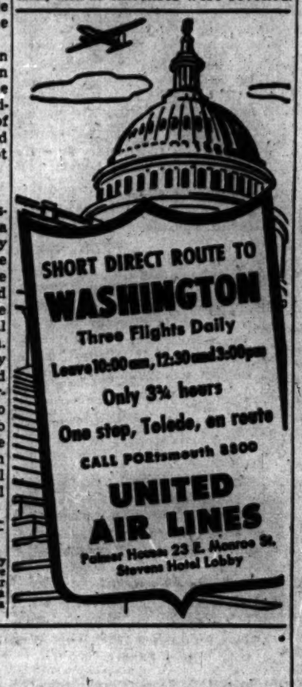
MOST gardeners think of applying fertilizers only during the spring planting period, but midseason applications also are beneficial to most vegetables. Weather conditions caused the leaching of nitrogen thru the soil during the rainy spring months, with the result that many gardens are low in this growth chemical now. This is especially evident in snap bean plantings, with pods being formed on plants only half as tall as in normal years.

The best way to apply midseason chemical fertilizers is in furrows alongside the rows. A pointed hoe may be used to dig a furrow about three inches deep and far enough away from the plants so as not to dislodge the roots.

The fertilizer should be put into the furrows at the rate of one pound to each 40 to 50 feet, then recovered with soil. If the garden plot slopes, the fertilizer should be placed above the rows. On level plots it is advisable to side dress both sides of the row, with half the fertilizer on each side.

359 July Traffic Cases, 105 More Than in 1944

Pointing out an increase of 105 traffic cases over the total for July, 1944, Judge Joseph B. Hermes yesterday blamed increased gasoline rations and fair weather for the 359 defendants in Safety court in July. Of that number, 114 were fined, 8 placed on probation, and 8 lost their driving licenses. The tion, and 12 licenses were revoked. In July, 1944, 65 of the 254 defendants were fined, 7 placed on probation, and 12 lincenses were revoked.



DEPARTMENT STORE ROBBED

Four thieves yesterday smashed a display window of Goldblatt Brothers department store at 3311 W. 26th st. and escaped with four fur coats valued at $1,340. John Pasleki, a watchman, saw the men drive away in a black sedan.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Double	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of hearts.

A characteristic which most bridge players have in common is the tendency to follow the lines of least resistance. Such general guides as "Lead thru strength and up to weakness," are followed indiscriminately when a moment's thought will make it clear that they are not applicable to the case at hand. That is the mark of a lazy man.

Where there is only one suit left that offers any chance to provide the setting tricks, that is the suit that should engage your attention in the defense of a contract. And this, despite the fact that you may be going counter to the admonition not to lead away from this or that.

After North's opening bid of one club East has a choice of making a takeout double, a jump overcall of two hearts [which is not forcing, but is a strong invitation] or of making an immediate cue bid of two clubs. This bid would be forcing to game, even with such a hand as West held. South's bid of four spades is intended primarily as a barricade against the opposition, but is made with some hope that the contract might be fulfilled. In any event no great penalty could be sustained. There was nothing left for East to do but double. There was no sense in being stubborn and going on to five hearts.

West led the two of hearts, dummy played low. East won with the jack and South dropped the 10. It was evident that West had led his fourth best heart and that declarer had no more. Since there was no hope of a trump trick the defensive assets were one heart and two clubs, so that a diamond trick was needed to defeat the contract. However, waiting for the diamond trick would not succeed since dummy's clubs could be built up for diamond discards. The only hope to defeat the hand was that the declarer held three diamonds. East therefore returned the jack of diamonds right into the ace-queen. When he was in with the king of clubs he followed with another diamond, and cashed the setting trick in that suit when he got in with the ace of clubs. Had East at trick two made the lazy man's play of continuing with a heart, it would have been too late to set the contract.

August Finds Fur Showings in Full Swing

BY REA SEEGER

To thousands of women shoppers, August is a significant month. The coolest spots in town are the fur salons, filled with exciting new coats, midsummer hints of the coming winter. Despite soaring temperatures outside, fur coats can be selected or ordered to suit individual whims and fancies in the cool comfort of air conditioned smart fur shops.

Biggest excitement to check are the sleeves. They not only are big, some are just this side of being gigantic, and some are so full of fur that a smart, short bolero or jacket could easily be made out of two sleeves. After your first gasp, check the beauty of the skilled craftsmanship, since this is a year in which only experts can so suavely make a high fashion fur coat. It takes super-duper skill to manipulate all the bulk so adroitly as to flatter the figure line.

Mink is still the peak of magnificence, not only in beauty of sheen and exquisite markings, but also in sensational new colorings such as platinum-silver and the lush blonde tints.

Dramatically beautiful broadtail is a close second among luxury furs, and fine, tightly curled Persian is third. Persian gives long service and season after season rates the popularity vote of the shoppers with an average amount of money to spend for fur finery.

August is still the best month to place your orders, and to choose the fur coat so necessary for a wind swept winter. Experts with plenty of time can leisurely create any desired model, and have it ready when you first need it. The finest pelts are on display, the newest silhouettes and the newest new ideas in detail and fashioning are now ready for the early August shoppers.

Musical ambitions nourished thru a decade of depression received their reward last night when Herbert Hardt, 33, of 1462 Foster av., won first place in the dramatic tenor group of the Chicago Music festival's north side competition in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Hardt's victory in his first entry in a festival contest, highlighted an evening of sectional voice competition to be completed tonight. The Cook county finals, in which winners from the north, south, and west side contests will sing, will take place in the Grand ballroom of the Drake hotel tomorrow night, starting at 7 o'clock. The Chicago Music festival will be held in Soldiers' field Aug. 18.

Second place in the dramatic tenor group was won by Judy Kist, 40, of

Regard for Russia and England has deteriorated in the Chicago area within the year, according to a poll conducted by A. R. Gilliland, professor of psychology at Northwestern university. From a 71 per cent approval of Britain expressed in a previous survey, friendly opinion has declined 11 per cent to 60. But the poll shows a 24 per cent cool off toward Russia, sentiment having plummeted from a formerly warm 72 per cent to an almost frigid 48.

A decrease in favorable attitude toward the allies was to be expected, Prof. Gilliland says, but it is any one's guess why the deterioration toward Russia should be greater than that toward England. It was the opinion of 72 per cent of the persons questioned that Russia's greatest strength lay in her economic system and industrial methods and her greatest weakness in her ideals and the state of religion in the country.

Questioned on relations with England, Russia, and China after the war, 67.9 per cent thought the closest ties should be formed with England, 17.5 per cent were for Russia, and 14.6 per cent for China. All income groups were represented in vote for England, more of those who favored Russia were in the higher income brackets, and it was lower income groups that favored coöperation with China to a greater degree.

Usual Colony of Chicagoans Vacationing at Les Cheneaux

BY JUDITH CASS

THE cool, sparkling waters and the pine woods of Les Cheneaux Islands, Mich., are being enjoyed on brief holidays this summer by the usual group of Chicagoans which has been summering there for many years. Fishing, swimming, and golfing on the attractive course landscaped some years ago by Sewell L. Avery are the principal diversions of the summer colony. The Les Cheneaux club is open again, and the cottages surrounding it are occupied.

Mr. Avery was one of the earliest Les Cheneaux visitors. One of his daughters, Mrs. William B. McMillan, who spent most of her girlhood summers there, is back with her husband and children for a visit, and her sister, Mrs. Rogers Follansbee, may be able to go north the middle of this month. Lt. Comdr. Follansbee still is stationed in New York.

Gordon Lang, who summered at the islands as a boy, returned after an absence of 13 years and found the resort completely unchanged. He and Mrs. Lang and their son, Gordon, have been spending July there. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Spencer took a cottage for the summer and Mrs. Spencer and the children are there now. Freddie Jr., who attends the Fountain Valley school, has a summer time job at Les Cheneaux. Mr. and Mrs. Morris K. Wilson are returning to Winnetka today after a month in their island summer home.

For the last week Mrs. Donald B. Lourie, her daughter, Miss Nancy Lourie, and three young Winnetka friends, Miss Helen Kiddoo, Miss Mila Carolan, and Miss Virginia Price, have been visiting at the Wilson cottage. The four young women will return to Winnetka Friday, and the next day Mr. Lourie and the Lourie's younger daughter, Ann, will go north.

Miss Nancy Lourie will leave the middle of the month to enter Vassar college. Miss Kiddoo, daughter of the Guy C. Kiddoos, will enter Smith college in September. She was graduated from the Shipley school last June. Miss Carolan will enter Pine Manor, and Miss Price will be a student in Bradford Junior college. All four may be on next year's debutante list.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Come In . . . Come In

My mother says—don't let me in,
I really don't belong,
Because "white collar" stands for neat;
And there I'm sadly wrong.

I leave each morning for my work
All starched and fresh and clean,
But mother says when I come home
I'm not fit to be seen.

So I shan't blame you, not a bit,
If you give me "the sack";
For mother says my collar is

DAUGHTER OF LADY FROM INDIANA.

Office Forum

"Belittled's" defensive plea about her boss' uncomplimentary attitude toward her clothes intrigues me. Unless she is sure [and assured by others] that her clothes are as neat, clean, appropriate, undated, and attractive as possible I'd think she might try to find an attainable compromise nearer to her boss' wishes.

Not every one can sew—it's a painful and sometimes discouraging process for some to learn. Fairly good and well made clothes are unreasonably expensive. Medical bills, tuition fees for a course of study you may want to take, money spent for a good book, a concert—all these lie in ambush for your slender purse. But I'm sure that hundreds of WCGs will chorus with me that a presentable and tidy wardrobe, tho small, can be managed on a pre-war salary.

After all, didn't the recent forum on the feather-wearing femme decide it is an employer's right, within reason, to decree what is worn in his office?

Prudence Allured, editor and publisher in the confectionery business . . . vice president of the Advertising Federation of America . . . past president of the Women's Advertising Club of Chicago . . . since her husband's death, successor to their publishing business which she now runs . . . mother of three sons, all in service, one in Europe, one in the Pacific, and the third in training in this country.

Mrs. Allured's success is an interesting example for white collar girls who wonder whether careers and families mix, especially appropriate because the candy business always has held appeal to women since the first romantic appearance [in our grandparents' day] of the "motto" or "conversation" lozenge, usually heart shaped, carrying such messages as "Will You Be Mine?" . . . Today digging up such candy lore and the publishing of technical books, manuals, and handbooks for the trade are sweet meats [and bread and butter] to Prudence Allured.

Ceiling Prices Altered; Other Rationing News

Effective tomorrow the price of lemons will increase 4 cents to 15 cents a pound while large dry onions will drop 3 cents to 29 cents for three pounds and red skinned potatoes will be reduced 3 cents to 29 cents for five pounds, James F. Riley, acting director of the area office of price administration, said yesterday.

Other ceiling changes, applying thru Aug. 8, include: Apples, wealthy, up 1 cent to 15 cents a pound; apricots, up 1 cent to 21 cents a pound; peaches, up ½ cent to 13½ cents a pound; pears, up ½ cent to 17 cents a pound; apples, yellow transparent, down 1 cent to 13 cents a pound; cantaloupe, down 1 cent to 8½ cents a pound; cherries, red sour, down 1 cent to 43 cents a quart; honeyballs, down 1 cent to 8½ cents a pound; onions, dry, yellow, and red under three inches, down 1 cent to 28 cents for three pounds; all other white potatoes, down 1 cent to 29 cents for five pounds; sweet potatoes, down 1 cent to 26 cents for two pounds.

Added to the list were: Apples [Gravenstein], 15 cents a pound; honeydew melons, 11½ cents a pound, and carrots, 7 cents a pound. Prices will be effective in Cook, Du Page, Kane, and McHenry counties in Illinois and in Lake county, Indiana.

Supplies of beef and lamb in Chicago's independent retail stores were better in July than in June, the bureau of labor statistics reported yesterday. Butter again was available in all Chicago stores, it was added, and supplies of margarine, shortening, and lard improved, altho one-fourth of the stores still had no shortening or cooking and salad oils. During July, the bureau said, approximately 40 per cent of the retailers had beef compared with 16 per cent in June, while lamb was found in 28 per cent of the stores compared with 15 per cent in June.

Effective today, airplane stamp 4 in ration book 3 will be valid for one pair of shoes, the OPA said yesterday. Stamp 4 will be good indefinitely. Shoe stamps 1, 2, and 3, all previously validated, also are good indefinitely.

Fleisher Brilliant in Debut with Bernstein Despite Ravinia Handicaps

Academic Festival Overture.....Brahms
Concerto for Piano, No. 1, D minor.....Brahms
Symphony No. 5.....Shostakovich

Seventeen-year-old Leon Fleisher made a notable Ravinia debut last night in circumstances that might have struck terror to the heart of the most seasoned virtuoso. A storm verging on a cloudburst broke just as the customers were reaching the gates, and they arrived bedraggled but determined, clustering in the aisles and surging about the curtained fringes of the pavilion to seek refuge from the rain. And the rain poured, the thunder rumbled, and the customers rustled, the trains passed, the nuances were lost, but Mr. Fleisher played Brahms' D Minor Concerto with the quiet concentration of an artist who knows exactly what he is doing and refuses to be sidetracked.

Yet, even had it been one of Ravinia's most lustrous nights, Ravinia would not have done Fleisher justice. It was a serious mistake to book him with young Leonard Bernstein, who lacks the background and experience to conduct a major concerto. In his second appearance with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Mr. Bernstein remains an extraordinary but undisciplined talent. He mistakes emotion for power and excitement for brilliance. Where Fleisher was playing the kind of Brahms he learned with Schnabel and has performed with Monteux—distinguished Brahms of strong fiber, capricious rhythms, stormy beauty, and melting tenderness, achieved with a technique as disciplined as it is prodigious—Bernstein was playing his own supercharged game with the orchestra. The accompaniment actually was more of a hindrance than a help.

Mr. Bernstein's own part of the program I heard under conditions unorthodoxed even in summer reviewing circles, where anything goes. Having been certain up to the instant the strains of the national anthem broke out that the concert would be canceled, I sprinted to the pavilion in pouring rain and arrived in time to hear Brahms' Academic Festival Overture from the far left side, where it seemed to me Mr. Bernstein was making some extraordinary faces at the orchestra as he begged for playing that surged with emotional overtones but was sadly sloppy in structure.

Then, as intermission was cut short by the late start, I heard only a part of the Shostakovich Fifth and that from outside the pavilion with the gravel crunching wetly beneath my feet and the rain playing an obbligato on a borrowed umbrella. Your guess about the Shostakovich is as good as mine—a lot better, if you could hear it.

Here and There

Leaving today for Huron Mountain, Mich., for a visit with the Albert Day Farwells and their daughter, Fanny Day, are Mrs. Arthur Dixon and her daughte s, Emily and Betsey, and Miss Louise Pope, the David M. Popes' daughter. The Farwells expect to be at Huron Mountain until Labor day. Lt. Col. Dixon is stationed with the army in Washington, D. C.

Dr. Oscar Eberhart and his daughter, Miss Constance Eberhart, will arrive tomorrow from New York to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Gross before returning Monday to their home in Kansas City, Mo. The late Mrs. Eberhart, who was known professionally as Nelle Richmond Eberhart, wrote the lyrics to a number of Charles Wakefield Cadman's songs, "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water" and "At Dawning" among them.

While her husband, Count Paolozzi, is busy with his work in the Vatican in Rome, plus the problems of restoring their home near Lucca, Italy, to peace time condition, Countess Paolozzi and their two young daughters, Francesca and Christina, have come to this country to live temporarily. Since their arrival last month they have been visiting the countess' mother, Mrs. William Stuart Spaulding, at her summer home in Upper St. Regis, N. Y.

Countess Paolozzi will come here this week for a short visit with her uncle, Sidney Richardson Fairlee of Kenilworth, and then will take her daughters to New York, where they recently bought an apartment which will serve as their temporary home. During the war the Paolozzis' Italian villa housed more than 200 refugee children in the basement and also served as quarters for troops. Their estate was situated just on the Gothic line of fighting, but fortunately only a few scars remain of the near-by battles.

On the Calendar

Mrs. George Channer Jr. will entertain at tea at 2:30 p. m. today for the north Chicago and near north side subscription committee of the Illinois Opera guild. Mrs. Millard B. Kennedy, president of the guild, will speak on the season's plans for the organization. Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy will leave to spend two weeks at the Berkshire Inn in Great Barrington, Mass.

The Cliff Dwellers will give an informal reception and supper tonight in the clubrooms following the Grant Park concert for the soloist of the evening, Suzanne Sten, Viennese mezzo-soprano.

Art Teacher to Conclude Series at Sheil School

Ann H. Grill, art instructor at Barat college and the Art institute, will give the final lecture in a series on "A Catholic Looks at Modern Art" at 7 o'clock tonight at the Sheil School of Social Studies, 31 E. Congress st. Concluding talk in a series on "The Social Thought of Dom Virgil Michel" will be given at 6 p. m. by Norbert Zelmes.

Mrs. Amy W., Oak Park—If you ever have to move a heavy range or stove you can do it easily with a piece of pipe for a roller and a two-by-four as a lever. Only one person is needed to do the job with these tools.

Mrs. H. B., Chicago—Here's a tip from my dad if you want to make paint insect repellent: Mix oil of cedar or oil of citronella, in place of turpentine, in proportions of one-half pint of the oil to one gallon of paint.

Mrs. Dan S., Chicago—To shut out an unpleasant view or obtain more privacy for a bathroom or kitchen you can use china cement and paste lace paper doilies to the lower window sash. I use coaster size doilies for the purpose and cover lightly with a very thin coat of clear varnish when the cement is dry.

Lake Forest to Open Fete Day with Parade

A gala parade of floats, decorated bicycles, doll carriages, and marching organizations, starting at 10 a. m. today at Laurel and Western avs. in Lake Forest, will usher in the annual Lake Forest day festivities. The 344th army service band will accompany the paraders, who, following the parade, will assemble in West park with other Lake Foresters for presentation of parade trophies and to hear a brief talk by James F. Stiles Jr., Lake county war loan chairman. Baseball, races, games, and other sports will occupy attention of both children and adults thruout the day, and dancing will begin at 9 o'clock tonight. Food and refreshments will be available in the park at all hours. Judges in the parade will be William E. Davis, acting mayor, Frank Read, and Mrs. Marie Stacey.

Humor Helps Gary Cooper Western Film

By Mae Tinée

Jones was really a duffer. He couldn't hit his horse with a handful of buckshot, according to his sidekick, George. Then he meets up with what that same George cantankerously refers to as a lady skunk, and before you know it the clumsy bronc buster is trying to act like Deadeye Dick, without appreciable success.

It's rather a novelty to see a western in which the hero ain't no sich thing, but since some one always has to tend to the shootin', Loretta Young pops up at all the right moments with a ready trigger finger and a darn good aim.

Gary Cooper is much at ease in a saddle, wearing jeans and a ten gallon hat, singing tantalizing snatches of cowboy songs, and he's also good at playing an amiable dope called Melody Jones, but I got more laughs out of Bill Demarest as George.

Cooper and he are mistaken for a bad man and his simple-minded uncle when they mosey into Paynesville, because the bandit who held up the stage coach and killed five members of one family, to say, nothing of riding off with a large chunk of money, was described as skinny and mean-looking in the reward notices and had initials similar to Jones'. The whole town would like to have a roping party for the newcomer, which the bad man's girl friend thinks is hunkey-dorey, since it will mislead the posse and take it away from Monte Jarrad's hideout. Then one Cooper kiss, delivered in his best he-man style, changes her mind about a lot of things, and before you know it she has switched sides and is pointing her six shooter in another direction.

There's plenty of gunplay and a bit of fist fighting, with spots of humor here and there, and, in spite of the fact that there were times when I wished they'd get to the clinch which would signify the happy ending, I have no doubt that Mr. Cooper will make money on this—his first production venture. People love their westerns, and he's just the man to play in 'em.

"Along Came Jones" is a sort of Zane Grey with a laugh, and the latter is a welcome addition to the usual concoction of bad men, pure girls, and purty hosses.

'This Nettle Danger'

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright, 1945, By William MacLeod Raine)

SYNOPSIS: In the homesteaders' attempt to cut wires used by the cattlemen to fence in government land for their herds, Bruce Sherrill, leader of the homesteaders, is wounded. Bruce shot Ben Randall, son of old Jeff Randall, owner of the Diamond Tail ranch. Bruce is not a killer but had to protect his own side. He knows he was recognized and must make a getaway. Trapped, he rides to the ranch of Cliff Applegate, arch enemy of the Randalls. Linda Applegate hides him from the posse headed by Bill Cairns. While Cairns' men search the ranch buildings, Cairns remains with Linda and becomes insulting. Rod Randall, older half-brother of Ben, arrives opportunely and warns Cairns never again to annoy Linda. Linda dresses Bruce's wound and hides him in her bedroom upstairs. When her father and brothers return she learns Ben was shot in a fight—not ambushed. She admits hiding Bruce from Cairns because he is wounded and insists they give him shelter until he is able to travel, then they may turn him over to the law. In yielding to her demands, Cliff Applegate feels they are betraying their friends. Linda quarrels with Bruce when he accuses the cattlemen of trampling down the homesteaders, and during the night he slips away. Then Linda and her father ride to the Diamond Tail to tell Jeff Randall what they have done. Linda wonders if the homesteaders have a just claim.

INSTALMENT IX

BITTER QUARREL

The Diamond Tail ranch house was a long, rangy log building, to which several additions had been made in the course of years. Looking down on it from the ridge above, one could see a huddle of other buildings—a bunkhouse, sheds, blacksmith shop, and small cabins. In contrast to the Bar B B, the place gave an impression of untidiness.

A boy of about 17 shouted greeting to them as they drove into the yard. Linda waved a hand. "Hello, Ned! How is Ben?" Ned was a younger cousin, a long-legged gawky lad.

"Doing fine. Eats like he had been ridin' the range all day. He'll be tickled to death to see you, Lindy."

Ben had gained ground surprisingly in the past two days. He was a dark, lithe young man, very good looking, with a gay and reckless charm that made for popularity.

"Time you came to see me," he reproached, and drew the girl's face down to kiss her. "Didn't you hear how close I was to Jordan's bank?"

"You had us all dreadfully worried," she told him. "I never saw such a boy for getting into trouble. We're so glad you're better."

"You think he meant to kill you?" she asked.

"You don't shoot at a man to do him any good," he replied, with a laugh. "Not that I blame him any. My gun was smokin', too."

"I don't flirt," she said in swift defense. "When a man shows an interest in me I can't hurt his feelings, can I?"

"I reckon not. Anyhow, they all recover after a while. I haven't seen any die of love yet. What would you think about not hurtin' the feelings of a cousin who showed an interest in you?"

"I would talk over with him the other 17 girls he is showing an interest in," she told him, eyes dancing. "Since I was told to stay only three or four minutes I must go now." After a moment, she added seriously: "You're going to hear something about me you won't like."

"You're not engaged," he flung at her.

"Nothing like that. This is something altogether different. After we have gone your father will tell you, if you ask him."

She left him filled with curiosity and joined her father and uncle on the porch. The first glance told her that Cliff had blurted out his confession. Applegate was glaring at his brother-in-law, a stubborn set to his jaw. Randall's mouth was a thin, tight slit.

He was a bullnecked man, strong jawed, with harsh features tied together to form a gross powerful face. There was a shapeless, lumpy quality about his rounded shoulders and big body that sometimes reminded Linda of a swollen toad. By reason of the drive in him he had become the leading man in the district.

"So you had him in your hands and turned him loose," Randall said, an ugly rasp to his voice.

"Put it that way if you like," Applegate answered. "He slipped away in the night."

"That's what Father wanted to do, Uncle Jeff," Linda cried. "At first. But I made such a fuss, oh account of the man being wounded, that he gave way."

"You made a fuss—and he let you have your way. After this fellow had killed Ben, far as you knew."

A dull flush burned into the face of the Bar B B man. "Soon as I had time to think I knew she was right. I hate this scalawag as much as you do, Jeff, but I couldn't turn a wounded man over to you to be killed after he had come to the ranch for shelter."

"Very noble of you," the other man jeered. "Of course it wasn't your boy he shot down. Why should you care? What's a double cross among friends anyhow?"

"You've no right to say that, Uncle Jeff," Linda retorted. "Father wouldn't throw down a friend any more than you would. He had to do what he thought right."

Jeff turned his washed-out blue eyes on her. "What you made a fuss to get him to do," he corrected. "Who runs the Bar B B—Cliff Applegate or a crazy girl he can't keep in her place?"

"That'll be enough, Jeff. Linda is not in this."

"You certainly played it fine. If there is one man I thought would do to ride the river with I would have put my money on Cliff Applegate, and he cuts loose from his crowd to back the play of a murdering scoundrel who has done nothing but make trouble ever since he came to the territory."

"We'd better go, Father," Linda said in a low voice. "There's no use talking to Uncle Jeff while he is in this mood. Pretty soon he'll say something we won't be able to forgive."

"So you're the ones that have the forgiving to do," sneered Randall. "Well, you can't get out too quick to suit me. And tell your friend Sherrill when you see him that I aim to hang his hide up on a fence to dry one of these days."

Two little girls rode into the yard and slid from their saddles. They turned their horses over to Ned and started for the house, each carrying school books in a strap. At sight of their cousin they broke into a run, pigtails flying.

"Lindy—Lindy! Mother's visitin' grandma. She says she'll bring us over to see you awful soon. The pinto mare has a foal—the teeniest prettiest little thing. An' we have a holiday Friday."

Sheriff Humphreys was not grateful to Bruce Sherrill for waking him at 5:30 in the morning to give himself up.

The truth was that this young man just now was dynamite to handle. From Randall the officer had received an indirect message to keep out of the hunt for Sherrill and let the cattlemen handle the matter. The sheriff had no desire to barge in, even tho he had been elected by the votes of the little fellows opposed to the large outfits, by townsmen, nesters, rustlers, hoemen, and a few small stockmen. His policy was to get along as he could.

For what stood out like a sore thumb was that he could not please both parties. The only hopeful feature of the case was the news that Ben Randall was getting better. If the boy had died old Jeff would have been quite capable of bringing armed men from the ranches some night and storming the jail to hang his enemy.

Keep the Baby Cool During Hot Weather

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Before the war, statistics showed that more babies were born in August than in any other month of the year. But now—I imagine this may not be so.

In any event, August with its dog days, is a month which can be hard on babies, unless their mothers take every precaution to protect them from the heat and from certain of its effects.

Recently we talked of sun and the baby, that it can be his friend or enemy, depending upon how alert his mother is. Today we want to talk about other ways of making him comfortable, all of which adds up to his health.

Keeping the baby cool will make him nap better and sleep better at night. To do this, find the coolest places [in house or outdoors] for him to be when awake and asleep. And remember his rest is even more important, if anything, in hot weather than in cool.

So, have your baby wear as little clothing as possible—often only a diaper, unless he is in a breeze or slight draft.

Give him frequent sponge baths, tub baths [or both], depending upon his age, of course. Make these lukewarm, never cold. These cool him and relax him.

Watch his skin for prickly heat. While in cool weather you may prefer one of the baby oils to powder, in summer you will find that the best quality of "talcums," rubbed softly into all creases after each bathing [and perhaps between baths if necessary], will do much to prevent or cure prickly heat. Prickly heat itches terribly and can turn into little abrasions or sores and can make a baby cry continually.

The cool comfortable baby eats with more appetite, digests his food better, sleeps better, and so is more contented than the baby who does not have these humane ministrations by his mother.

If you think all this sounds like lots of work—well, it is! But also it prevents broken rest, and a fretful baby [with an upset stomach] on your hands.

Woman's Club Will See Color Films of Southwest

Technicolor films depicting beauties of the Grand Canyon, the Carlsbad caverns, Santa Fe and southern California will be shown at a meeting of the Chicago Woman's club at 11 a. m. today in Curtiss hall. The program was arranged by Mrs. Robert E. Lanestrem, chairman of summer activities.

Thru the Looking Glass

There' no substitute for glasses if your eyes need them [and this is a point on which self-deception is the height of folly], but there are things you can do to make your tired soul-windows look and feel a lot less tired. When you've read too much, stayed out too late, or perhaps spent far more time than was sensible in the sun and the wind, your eyes—and your whole face—will look better for a quick little beauty treatment.

One of the simplest we know of involves nothing more than the use of eye pads which come already saturated in a cooling lotion that helps restore sparkle and soothe the tired, burning feeling. It's no complicated ritual calling for bowls of water or pads or cotton. You simply clap these over the tired lids.

If you're smart, tho, you'll make your little eye pickup a pickup for your whole frame and your drooping spirits. Whisk off your makeup, press the little eye pad—it's white flannel shaped like a carnival mask or domino—down over the closed lids and lie flat. The solution on the eye pad feels cool and refreshing, and down to your nose will waft faint whiffs of a fragrance that's mentholatish. In a matter of mindites your aching eyes will feel better.

But in the meantime you should be doing some sensible relaxing, stretched out, so that your tired body will be as refreshed at the end of five minutes as your tired eyes. If you just lie limp you'll find that when you do get up you're wonderfully refreshed.

These little pads, we think, are one of the most valuable of beauty, grooming, and comfort aids for the tired business woman who uses her eyes all day. They help give the eyes the cleansing they need, and the way they erase the signs of tiredness—the red, lusterless look—is almost miraculous.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 31—Arthur Freed has just signed Rouben Mamoulian to direct his "Belle of New York." It gets rolling sometime in October, and what a cast! Fred Astaire, Kathryn Grayson, Keenan Wynn, and Lina Romay. Rouben, who did the Broadway "Oklahoma!" should have no difficulty ringing the bell with this one. Johnny Mercer and Harry Warren are writing the music. . . . But back to New York goes Walter Abel who phones me he'll play in Johnny Van Druten's new play. Alfred De Liagre will produce it and Beatrice Pearson, that delightful newcomer from "Over 21" will play opposite Walter. Rehearsals begin in October.

Hollywood Blueprint

Jane Withers will make "The Affairs of Geraldine" for Republic, with Jimmy Lydon and Robert Livingston playing the male leads. . . . "Wolf at Her Door," which R. K. O. will make, will have their white-haired lad, Bill Williams along with Barbara Hale and Rudy Vallee. . . . Maria Ouspenskaya lands in Frank Borzage's "Concerto." She gets an important role.

Arts and Graces

When Artur Rubenstein and his attractive wife celebrated their 13th wedding anniversary, the party was made memorable by the dancing of the 12 year old daughter, Evan. She did three ballet numbers with all the poise and finesse of a sophisticated ballerina. I'm sure she'll never forget her debut. After the performance, Charles Boyer presented her with an old fashioned red, white, and blue bouquet. And Hollywood's most famous stars lined up outside her little dressing room behind a screen, to bow low and kiss her hand. Bob Montgomery and Cary Grant paid court to her, as did Cole Porter, Danny Kaye, Basil Rathbone, and a score of others. When she changed her costume for a simple little dress and mingled with the guests, she was just a smiling child with braces on her teeth like other 12 year olds. Her father was almost speechless. When I congratulated him, he said, "I was a confirmed bachelor for so many years, then to marry a beautiful woman and have this child, who no doubt will be a great dancer, well it's something you dream about but never feel could really happen to you." . . . Ronald Colman and his wife—she was the English actress, Benita Hume—applauded and sighed and wondered if their child will be able to create such beauty. At dinner where I sat between Charles Boyer and Cary Grant, Cary leaned over to Benita and said, "Remember that picture we made at Paramount about 12 years ago, where you were a gunman's moll and I was a gangster?" . . . I asked Charles Boyer about Lauren Bacall's role in "Confidential Agent." He said, "She's one of the most natural girls I've ever worked with—as adaptable as an old shoe, absolutely no airs or graces." That's an endorsement.

Danny Kaye's Himself

If you want the lowdown on Danny Kaye's failures in life, step right up and ask the boy himself. He tells you he's flopped all over this round earth, from the Dorchester hotel in London to Baltimore, Md. This last was the toughest. Seems Danny was booked for two weeks at a night club there. After the opening he phoned his wife who was in New York to get him out of it at any cost. She said she'd see what she could do, then phoned the manager if he didn't keep her Danny for the full contract she'd sue. Danny never found out until the stretch was over, but says the grisly experience gave him the greatest lesson in self-control he's ever learned. He got his pantomime in China, learned to speak Japanese when in that country, but acquired perfection in production from Sam Goldwyn. He has two more pictures to do with Sam, and may even go on after that if he's wanted. But he plans to go overseas, do one picture a year, a play every other year, and radio all of the time. He's been acting for 17 years and only totes 33 on his age score now.

ELIOT OF ILLINOIS TO HELP COACH ALL-STARS

War Date to Duel with Whirlabout

Matron Field

ELEVEN fillies and mares have been named in the overnight entries for the $25,000 Matron handicap today at Washington Park. The field, listed by post position, follows:

Horse	Wgt.	Jockey.	Prob. odds
War Date	113	No boy	8-5
Lotsamoney	108	No boy	12-1
Miss Keeneland	107	D. Dodson	15-1
Alyssa Kaye	104	T. Bates	10-1
Burgee Maid	108	No boy	8-1
Rose	108	J. C. Peada	20-1
Traffic Court	109	W. Garner	15-1
Silvestra	108	No boy	20-1
Whirlabout	120	W. Bailey	7-2
Married Bet	108	J. Richey	8-1
Durazna	117	G. West	5-1

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Louis B. Mayer's 4 year old filly, Whirlabout, stablemate of the sensational 3 year old Busher which won the Cleopatra handicap last week, will be sent in quest of added laurels for the Hollywood film man today in the $25,000 Matron handicap at Washington Park.

Whirlabout will bear top impost of 120 pounds, including Jockey Willie Bailey, against 10 other fillies and mares in the 12th running of the Arlington Park one mile fixture. Whirlabout was second to Busher in the rich Santa Margarita handicap at Santa Anita on July 4, then, in her only appearance at Washington Park, finished far back in the Modesty.

War Date in Favorite Role

The favorite, however, is expected to be Maine Chance farm's War Date, winner of the Modesty and also the Princess Doreen stakes. War Date, just a 3 year old, will carry 113 pounds.

Brownwell Combs' Durazna, a 4 year old, also is expected to find plentiful backing on the basis of a good, tho not too brilliant 1945 record. Durazna's last race was the Myrtlewood in which she finished sixth, but previously she captured the Clang handicap and ran third in the Modesty after setting the pace.

Also figured to be a contender is Hyman Friedberg's Harriet Sue which beat Nick Burger's Traffic Court in the 1944 running when she was a 3 year old carrying only 103 pounds to 113 by the older mare.

$969.60 Daily Double

Then there is Ruth Sidell's Burgee Maid, B. J. Bax's Sigma Kappa, Hal Price Headley's Letmenow, Herbert M. Woolf's old gray mare, Silvestra, C. V. Whitney's Recce, and the Calumet farm's Miss Keeneland.

The largest daily double return of the season, $969.60, highlighted yesterday's program. A 55 to 1 shot, Sam Roucher's Shade Ruff, took the opener by eight lengths with Aullie Carr in saddle and paid $112.60 for a $2 ticket. Mrs. E. B. Carpenter's Lady Liberty, ridden by Bailey, accounted for the second by five lengths and returned $9.40.

The day's mutuel handle was $1,623,253.

Monk Meyer

When three connected pillboxes barred the advance of his men, Col. Meyer gained the top of the first pillbox three times with a demolition charge. The first two failed because of faulty fuses. The third time he held the charge until the last moment and was thrown backward by the explosion and suffered a ruptured eardrum. Twelve dead Japanese were found in the pillboxes.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

CHARLEY WEARLAND and his wife, Eva, of Indianapolis were recent house guests of Cub Trainer and Mrs. Andy Lotshaw, but Charley didn't enjoy the chow provided by Andy and here's the reason. . . . During the heat wave Mr. Wearland took out his dentures, wrapped them in a handkerchief, and placed the precious bundle on a near-by ottoman. . . . He dozed off and during his dream Andy's cute little pup, Pal, took the store choppers to the kitchen and there with puppesque zeal proceeded to chaw them grievously. . . . Jim Watson, center on A. A. Stagg's College of the Pacific eleven in 1943, has given up his job as assistant to Mr. Stagg to join the Washington Redskins. . . . Reaffirmation of the Big Ten rule disqualifying college players who have made commitments to professional teams will deprive the conference of some of its most widely known athletes, or will it? . . . When Manager Pepper Martin slugged Pitcher Vallie Eaves of the San Diego team of the Pacific Coast league for getting off the reservation for the fifth time recently, it might have developed into an Oklahoma Indian outbreak, instead of a tempest in a ball park. . . . Martin is an Osage and Eaves a Cherokee, both born in Oklahoma, formerly Indian Territory. . . . Seattle claims to be the principal water playground of America with 22,612 pleasure boats registered in the United States Customs district. . . . Athletic Director John J. Schommer of Illinois Tech captained the Central Y. M. C. A. team which won the world's championship at the St. Louis Fair in 1904 and while a student at the University of Chicago captained the 1908 basketball team which claimed the national intercollegiate championship. . . . Plans have been adopted for a new $650,000 John J. Schommer fieldhouse in his honor on the Tech campus. . . . For the 72 holes of the All-American Open golf tournament Byron Nelson had a best ball of 35, 17 under Tam o' Shanter's 18 hole par. . . . The only holes on which he couldn't score birdies in the 72 holes were the 3d, 8th, 13th, and 16th. . . . He was out in 28 and back in 27.

There have been and will continue to be many things the Cubs don't like about their 1945 schedule and not the least of these is the fact the chart will have them in Pittsburgh the night the All-Star football game is played in Soldiers' field, Aug. 30. . . . The Cleveland Rams have signed more prominent college players for 1945 than any other team in the National Football league. . . . Tulane, Mississippi, Vanderbilt, Auburn, and Georgia Tech will retain R. O. T. C. navy units after the V-12 students are gone. . . . Baseball runs in the Etten clan. . . . Lt. Betty Etten of Chicago, cousin of the Yankee's first baseman, is swinging a heavy bat as playing manager of the WAC softball team at Ladd field in Alaska. . . . Thanks for the letters from men in the Pacific who enjoyed the Wake of the News column recently broadcast by the Armed Forces Radio Service. . . . Northwestern's 1945 football team may be below par in several positions, but it is unlikely any other Big Ten squad will have a better pair of ends than the Wildcats' Max Morris and Ken Wiitgen. . . . The latter, a sophomore, starred on St. George High school's city prep champions of 1943. . . . Owen F. [Tommy] Thomas, Chicago passenger representative of the Pennsylvania railroad, who is widely known in theatrical and sports circles thru his many years of handling passenger traffic arrangements in these two fields, will retire from active service today.

CUBS TRY FIRST PLACE SKILL ON PIRATES TODAY

Girl Fans to Fetch Cakes for USO

BY EDWARD BURNS

The Pittsburgh Pirates, who have been bobbing in and out of the first division of the National league for several weeks, will bob in and out of Wrigley field in a short series which opens today and ends tomorrow.

While the league leaders expect to win both games, the series is something less than crucial inasmuch as the Pirates, one time favorites of many to win the pennant this season, will take to the arena this afternoon 11½ games behind the Cubs. The Cubs also have a comfortable, tho not conclusive edge over the higher ranking also-rans, the Cardinals and the Dodgers.

Cincinnati First Stop

The Cubs are sure to be in first place when they leave tomorrow night for Cincinnati, first stop on a 21 game tour of the east, a tour in which they are scheduled to play in Cincinnati, Boston, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, and New York.

The Cubs will undertake the eastern trip with no prospect of an undue strain on pitching talent in the matter of piled up double headers. They will start their trip with a twilight night double header in Cincy Friday but will loaf Saturday before playing a scheduled double header Sunday.

Next Monday and Tuesday will be travel dates and a double header is scheduled Wednesday in Boston. Thereafter there will be no double bills other than those arranged in the original schedule.

It will be a special ladies' day in Wrigley field this afternoon. Lady guests will be required to fetch a cake or box of cookies.

A Temptation for Red Smith

The morsels are to go to Chicago's service men's centers and with this in view Manager Charley Grimm got out the strait jacket he uses on Red Smith, 260 pound Cub coach. Red becomes frantic when dainties are around in abundance. The Red is known for his great honesty, Manager Grimm thinks his gourmet assistant might go all to pieces in the midst of 10,000 or 20,000 boxes of cakes and cookies. There are those, too, who think Charley himself shouldn't be trusted too far.

Grimm has four pitchers available who have shared in the Cubs' seven successes to date over the Pirates. They are Claude Passeau, Ray Prim, Bob Chipman, and Paul Derringer. In addition, Hank Wyse, who pitched Sunday, holds two decisions over the Pirates, one a one-hitter.

Pirates Beat Great Lakes, Feller, 3 to 0

Scoring three runs in the 10th inning, the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Great Lakes Bluejackets and Bob Feller, 3 to 0, at the naval training center yesterday afternoon before a crowd of 10,000. The game marked Feller's first loss to a major league baseball team this season and the sailors' fifth defeat in 26 starts.

Ray Eliot of Illinois, known as a player's coach, will represent the middle west on the staff that will prepare the College All-Stars for their game with the Green Bay Packers at Soldiers' field Aug. 30.

Eliot is the second Illinois coach to serve with an All-Star squad. Bob Zuppke, who retired as the Illini chief of staff in 1941, had command of the 1942 All-Stars.

Eliot joins Jeff Cravath of Southern California, Howie Odell of Yale, and Jim Lookabaugh of Oklahoma A. & M. on the 1945 All-Star board. The head coach will be announced tomorrow. All five will be at Northwestern university Aug. 12 when the collegians report for practice.

Acclaimed as Player's Coach

The All-Star squad will be made up mainly of service men who are willing to spend routine furloughs to help raise funds for other soldiers and sailors. Net profits of the contest will be donated to war activities.

Eliot's practice of mixing with his players and his ability to recognize a young man's point of view have earned him a reputation as a player's coach. After Zuppke retired following the 1941 season, members of the squad sent a delegation to the university trustees to ask that Eliot be appointed. He was an assistant to Zuppke at the time. His popularity, demonstrated by the players in 1941, has continued thru his three years as head coach.

1944 Season His Best

Illinois under Eliot has won 14, lost 14, and tied one. His best season was 1944 when the Illini whipped Illinois Normal, Indiana, Iowa, Pittsburgh, and Northwestern and lost to Purdue, Notre Dame, and Ohio State. They played Great Lakes to a 26 to 26 score. Illinois rolled up 273 points last fall, a modern record for the Orange and Blue.

Eliot started his athletic career at Brighton [Mass.] High school. He also attended Kents Hill [Me.] prep school where he participated in football, baseball, hockey, and track. He landed on the Illinois campus with $8.05 in his pocket and was obliged to work his way thru the university course. He played three years with the Illinois football and baseball squads. In 1931, his last season with the gridiron squad, he was voted the best guard faced by the Ohio State team that fall.

Returns to Illini in 1937

After leaving his alma mater Eliot was named assistant coach at Illinois college in Jacksonville. A year later he moved up to head coach and turned in a Little 19 conference record of 22 victories in 26 games. Zuppke invited him back to Illinois as an assistant in 1937.

In 1942, his first year as chief of the Illini, Eliot developed a team which placed third in the Western conference, highest standing of an Illinois eleven since 1934. The following year his team, made up of 17 year olds and 4F's, encountered opponents studded with V-12 and marine athletes and it won only three of its 10 contests. His 1944 eleven, one of the flashiest on midwest gridirons, was led by one of the most brilliant running backs of the season—Buddy Young, who now is in the navy.

Indians Beat White Sox, 6-5; Drop Them Into Sixth Place

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Cleveland, O., July 31—The ingenious White Sox thought up something different tonight and it enabled them to lose with consummate ease to their erstwhile cousins—the Lou Boudreau Indians. The Chicagoans fixed up an act featured by four errors in one inning, the clowning causing three runs which proved decisive in an eventual 6 to 5 downfall before 12,545 customers. It was the Sox's fourth loss in a row and plunked them into sixth place.

The Sox started neatly enough with a three run edge for Thornton Lee, but the veteran was shoved back into a 3 to 3 tie before the inning was completed. Then Johnny Dickshot gave him a one run edge with a third inning homer, but it wasn't long before the visitors put on the big act with its four blunders, the mistakes being spiced with two skimpy infield hits.

In an effort to redeem themselves the Sox knocked out Ed Klieman in the fifth, but were immediately put back in a straitjacket by Rescuer Pete Center, who yielded only one hit during his term.

Sox Score Three Runs

The first inning started to look promising for the Sox when Kerby Farrell and Le Roy Schalk singled with one out and it looked even better when a pass to Dickshot loaded the bases. Tony Cuccinello turned loose a fly sufficiently deep to enable Farrell to score. Oris Hockett furnished a single that registered Schalk and on Mickey Rocco's messing up of the throw in Dickshot counted the third run.

The Indians' opening half when they retrieved the three runs began with singles by Dutch Meyer and Rocco but Lee quickly settled and retired the next two batters. The veteran didn't settle long enough to make himself or his pals happy. Mgr. Boudreau paddled him for a double that scored one run and a triple by Frank Hayes drove in the two needed for a 3 to 3 tie. After this stormy start, the party was strictly on the peaceful side until Dickshot gave the Sox their one run edge with his No. 2 homer to left in the third.

Four Sox Errors Help Indians

The trick happenings in the fourth that witnessed the scoring of the second batch of Indians got under way with Boudreau beating out a high bounder and Cuccinello was unjustifiably charged with an error for not picking Hayes' foul off the grand stand wall. A moment later Hayes reached base on Schalk's fumble. Felix Mackiewicz beat out a hit and to make matters worse, Mike Tresh heaved it wild past first, Boudreau scoring and the two other runners taking an extra base. One of these scored when Cuccinello fumbled Meyer's grounder and the other counted on a fly by Rocco.

The Sox at least threatened to do something of consequence in the fifth when they banished Klieman but the effort subsided one run short of a tie. Wally Moses opened the inning with a single and promptly stole second, going from there to third on Farrell's infield out. Schalk doubled him home but in came Center to relieve Klieman and the rally subsided.

HEINLY, 3 N. U. JUNIOR GOLFERS GAIN 3D ROUND

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The defending champion and a foursome of Northwestern university swingers yesterday led the field in the first two match play rounds in the Chicago District Golf association's annual junior closed tournament at the Hinsdale Golf club.

There could be no better indication than this quintet to bear out the perennial quality of this incubator for future amateur stars. And Hinsdale is the ideal stage for the event, since the elegantly groomed west side club has done more than any other member of the C. D. G. A. to look to the development of young golfers.

Heinly's Victories Decisive

Henry Heinly, 17 year old star of the home club, allowed he would like to make it two in a row in the title league by scoring decisive victories, first over Jack Dempsey of Skokie, 5 and 4, and again by 7 and 5 over Bob Krumwiede of Tam o' Shanter.

In this morning's third round, the titleholder will find a real problem in Jack Atten, Northwestern's No. 1 player in the 1945 season, who had to go all the way to put out Duke Hill of Tam o' Shanter, 2 up, then registered a 4 and 3 victory over Joe Muter of South Shore.

Abrahams Is Extended

The remainder of the Wildcat golf ensemble still to be reckoned with in the tournament before tomorrow's 36 hole final includes Bob Abrahams of La Grange, Jack Bassett of Tam o' Shanter, and Bill Owen, a La Grange teammate of Abrahams. Bassett draws as his quarter-final round opponent another one of Hinsdale's fine junior players, Dewey Fagerburg.

Abrahams had the toughest battle of any of the quarter-finalists, being pushed to the final green by George Culp of Ridge. Bob needed a 74 to trim George's fine 75. Two down at one stage, Culp came back to square it, but knocked a ball out of bounds at the 15th, and Bob delivered the three consecutive pars necessary to win, 1 up.

REDS SHUT OUT CARDS, 2-0, AFTER LOSING FIRST, 4-3

Walters Holds St. Louis to Five Hits

St. Louis, Mo., July 31 (AP)—Showing his old time form of last season, Bucky Walters tonight hurled the Cincinnati Reds to a 2 to 0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the second game of a twilight-night double header. The Cards won the first contest, 4 to 3.

Walters held the Cards to five hits as he breezed to his 10th victory. It was the first time this season Walters had been able to check the Cardinals, whom he whipped at will in 1944.

Newhouser Beats Browns; 17th Victory

Detroit, Mich., July 31 (AP)—Hal Newhouser registered his 17th triumph today as the Detroit Tigers defeated the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 4, in 12 innings. The victory was the fourth for the Detroit left hander in extra innings this season.

Jim Outlaw's single to right field with the bases loaded and one out in the 12th put the victory in Newhouser's column after Hal had led off the inning by beating out a high bounder back of the box. Skeeter Webb sacrificed him to second and Sig Jakucki loaded the bases by walking Eddie Mayo and Roy Cullenbine.

ONLY FLAW IN LEWIS' WELCOME IS THE WEATHER

Lewis, back from four years of service in the air corps, received a $500 war bond and praise from Connie Mack, Clark Griffith, Commissioner A. B. Chandler, and Maj. Gen. Elwood Quesada. With Dutch Leonard and Russ Christopher pitching a scoreless ball, rain caused postponement with Washington batting in the second inning.

Double headers will be played tomorrow and Thursday.

Bungling U.S. Rule Gets Blame

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

A serious shortage in men's clothing may be expected during the remainder of the year, Chicago clothing authorities said yesterday. One leading merchant asserted that the government's handling of men's clothing supplies will "make the muddled meat situation look like 2 cents" by comparison.

Men's clothing merchants previously had hesitated to discuss increasing shortages lest they start buyers' rushes. Now, they said, buyers' runs will make small difference—they have little to sell. Current shortages apply to suits, top coats, overcoats, underwear, and shirts.

The recent war production board action in lifting controls over both soft wool and worsted woolen fabrics was said to have come too late to help fall supplies of men's clothing. The biggest handicap to adequate production, however, was said to result from the office of price administration policies.

Production Takes 18 Weeks

"It takes 18 weeks from wool tops [raw material] to suits and overcoats," said B. J. Cahn, president of B. Kuppenheimer & Co. "Thus, it will be late November or December before any fall goods will be available and even then the amount will be limited. Further, if government orders for clothing for the military forces are not cut back considerably more than they have been new civilian clothing will not come in even then.

"Most of our own manufacturing capacity is devoted to military production and the same holds true for other leading manufacturers.

"So, this fall will have to be a skip season. Manufacturing for spring delivery starts in January and if no additional burdens are imposed and we get additional cutbacks we may be able to take care of spring business in a modest way."

Two Other Limiting Factors

Cahn said two other factors limited production:

1. WPB regulation M388C, which sets up a quota under which a clothing manufacturer can get a priority based on only a part of his 1943 sales. The regulation restricts prices on priority goods to $32.25 a suit and unless the manufacturer can get "free" material he is limited to that price line.

2. OPA regulation MAP [maximum average price] whose effect is to throw prices for clothing back to the average price for 1943. Since that time prices of materials, labor, and overhead have increased.

In each instance the manufacturer has to figure what he can sell and what loss he may have to take, Cahn said.

Fails of Objective, Says Cahn

"The objective of Washington regulations is to avoid inflation. Actually under the conditions I have outlined you create a soil fertile for inflation because you produce less goods at a time when there is much money pressing to buy. The only cure for the situation is to eliminate the government regulations."

A. T. Bard, president of the Reliance Manufacturing company, one of the nation's largest producers of shirts and working clothes, said retailers in all sections of the country were reporting they were unable to maintain stocks of shorts, pajamas, and slacks.

"The immediate outlook is not encouraging because many of the desired fabrics are still not to be had in sufficient supply," Bard said. "Also military requirements continue to tie up a large percentage of garment production facilities."

PLAN EXCHANGE OF WILSON & CO. SENIOR SHARES

Stockholders of Wilson & Co. will hold a special meeting Sept. 17 to consider a proposal for the exchange or redemption of 274,085 shares of $6 cumulative preferred stock.

Directors yesterday approved a plan to issue 250,000 new shares of no par preferred to be exchanged for present preferred on a basis not yet determined. The company announcement suggested the exchange may include some of the 498,850 authorized but unissued common shares.

Any new preferred not taken in the exchange would be sold to underwriters, and present preferred not exchanged would be redemeed. The redemption price and dividend rate on the proposed shares were not disclosed. Aug. 14 was fixed as the record date for determination of stockholders entitled to notice of and voting rights at the meeting.

2½ Million of South Coast Bonds to Be Sold Today

A group headed by Paul H. Davis & Co. today will offer 2½ million dollars of 4¼ per cent first mortgage bonds of the South Coast corporation at 102½ per cent and accrued interest. The company, engaged in various phases of the sugar industry in Louisiana, plans to retire other funded debt, replenish working capital, and expand refinery facilities.

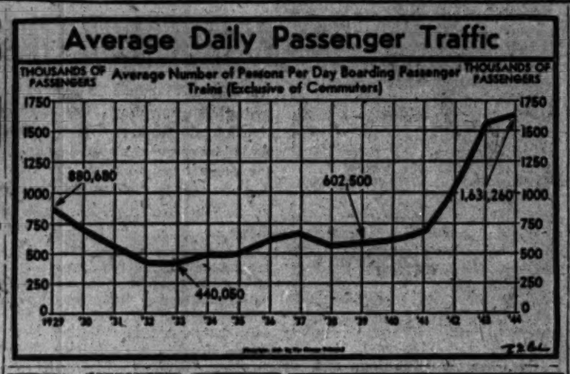
Average Daily Passenger Traffic



Tells Car Need to Meet Rail Travel Rivals

Philadelphia, Pa., July 31 [Special]—Railroad passenger car production in the first five years after the war must be accelerated to at least 12 times the pre-war rate to provide American railroads with the modern equipment they require, Edward G. Budd, president of Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company, said today.

His observation was based on a transportation survey made for his company by a firm of management engineers. The survey said at least 2,637 passenger cars will be required each year for the first five post-war years because so few cars were built in the '30s and old equipment is wearing out at a rapid rate.

Far Below Replacement Need

"During the 10 years from 1931 to 1940 inclusive, only 2,159 passenger cars were purchased by American railroads," Budd said. "This was an average of 216 cars a year, despite the fact that the normal replacement demand is 1,381 cars per year. Practically all the cars purchased were of the new lightweight, streamlined type.

"One-half of the 45,467 passenger cars now in use are at least 25 years old. These cars were built to run from 25 to 30 miles an hour, while today they are being operated at speeds two and three times the original specifications. The average of their days-per-year-in-operation is extremely high because of the shortage of equipment. This means that adequate service and maintenance is difficult, and, as a result they are wearing out at an abnormally high rate."

250 Cars On Order

Budd said his company already has orders for 250 cars from various eastern railroads and expects to get into assembly line production of stainless steel cars by fall in a plant with capacity for the manufacture of 80 cars on four lines at one time.

An optimistic view of the post-war future of the railroads and related industries also was expressed by Stephen Early, recently elected vice president of Pullman, Inc., at a civic luncheon in St. Louis, Mo.

He said the railroads would provide a service so modernized it would counteract any advantages new routes or increased mileage may give to the bus and air lines.

ORDER CLOSING OF SEPTEMBER CORN FUTURES

Chicago Board of Trade directors yesterday ordered all contracts in September corn closed out tomorrow at $1.18⅛ a bushel, the ceiling price. No more trading will be permitted in that delivery after today, which will be for liquidation purposes. Directors also ordered that defaults on 7,875,000 bushels of July corn be settled at $1.18⅛ a bushel without penalty.

Prices of grain futures closed mixed with rye 1 cent a bushel higher to ⅛ cent lower, wheat ⅛ to ⅝ lower, corn unchanged to ⅛ lower, oats ⅝ higher to ⅛ lower, and barley ⅝ higher to ¼ lower. September rye rose 1¼ cents a bushel early to $1.50⅝, a new seasonal high, but backspreading with December caused a break of 1⅝ cents from the top.

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP)—The federal communications commission today allowed Press Wireless until Sept. 1 to reply to a commission show cause order on why Press Wireless should not reduce its rates. A hearing on the order was set for Sept. 24. Press Wireless, asserting that so far as it knew none of its users had complained of its charges, had petitioned unsuccessfully to have the order dismissed.

A preview of the new display and sales room for surplus government property on the ground floor of the City National bank building, 200 S. La Salle st., will be held this afternoon for invited guests, M. O. Hoel, acting manager of the Chicago loan agency of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, said yesterday. The public opening will be tomorrow.

On exhibit will be surplus machine tools, metal working machinery, electrical apparatus and other representative items in 28 major classifications of government owned surplus property to be sold.

Modest Stock Recovery Up Step Farther

New York, July 31 (AP)—The stock market today made further recoveries the many leaders lagged. Buying was based largely on earnings, dividends and peace time business hopes. Some bidding also arose from a belief that the list had undergone a sufficient "correction" in July.

Low priced motors again were the liveliest issues. Graham-Paige and Hupp touched 1945 peaks in the morning, but subsequently faltered as hopes of big passenger car production inclined to wane. Graham held a gain of ⅛ and Hupp ⅝, however. Rails were hesitant from the start. Steels firmed after noon.

Some early advances running to 3 points were reduced at the close altho plus marks predominated. Transfers of 870,000 shares compared with 910,000 yesterday. The Associated Press 60 stock composite rose 0.4 to 64.7, but during July declined 1.8 points.

BOND PRICES NARROW

New York, July 31 (AP)—The bond market made a modest rally attempt today, but encountered opposition in late dealings and settled back into a narrow range. Rails led the early push and were the first to falter, altho holding some of their gains. Industrials and utilities, particularly higher priced issues, moved little.

CHICAGO LIST CLIMBS

Prices again advanced on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Turnover was 27,000 shares. Among active issues were Hupp Motors, up ⅛ to a new high; Great Lakes Dredge and Dock, up ⅛; Commonwealth Edison, up ⅛; Chicago corporation common, unchanged, and Swift & Co., down ⅛. Central and South West Utilities preferred reached a new high of 142, up 2½.

LAMBS STEADY AFTER DECLINE; RECEIPTS LESS

The market for lambs, which has been under severe pressure as a result of the government program to transfer subsidy payments from slaughterers to producers, steadied yesterday as receipts at all packing centers dropped again near the lowest level in many years. Farmers were holding back some supplies to sell after the new subsidy becomes effective Sunday.

A top price of $15.25 per hundred pounds was paid for new crop lambs at the Chicago yards, the same as on Monday and equal to the lowest top quotation since December. This represents a $1.15 decline from the peak of last week, compared with the 95 cents packers will lose. The $15.25 price was $2.10 below the 1945 peak in April, but 15 cents above the top a year ago.

The largest Tuesday cattle receipts in three weeks, 7,000 head, sold mostly steady. Almost the entire small hog supply of 11,000 held at ceiling prices.

Gear Losses Laid to Union Overtime Bar

Union imposed limits put on overtime for members of the Communist dominated United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers' union [CIO] have caused a substantial loss in gears for war plane engines, an official of the Foote Brothers Gear and Machine corporation charged yesterday as a strike continued.

William Kelly, director of industrial relations, accused the union of limiting hours of production employes "to spread the work." The company recently reduced the work week of all employes to reduce layoffs caused by production curtailments.

At midnight Sunday 100 workers in the heat treating department struck for a guaranteed week of 48 hours. By yesterday the strike had spread to more than 1,000 in the plants at 5225 S. Western av. and the making of gears for Pratt & Whitney 2,000 horse power engines was almost completely paralyzed.

Charges Production Is Slowed

Since the strike started, more than 15,000 gears needed for the war plane engines have been lost, Kelly estimated.

Because of the limit put on the overtime of the more than 3,000 production workers, Kelly explained, it was impossible to extend the work of the heat treating employes, whose schedules were far ahead of production. Since the union's overtime mandate was issued several months ago, the company has "fallen substantially behind" its gear production quota.

Joseph Persily, chairman of the union's negotiating committee, Kelly revealed, notified the company yesterday that the strike would be terminated this morning. The company promised the heat treating workers, Kelly said, that their work week would be extended "as long as feasible."

RWLB Orders Strike to End

The regional war labor board, after a show cause hearing yesterday, ordered 2,000 members of the International Molders and Foundry Workers' union [AFL] to terminate by Friday their strike in 39 Chicago foundries, which was started July 23. The board also ordered the union and company to continue negotiations for a wage agreement.

Michael Sexton, president of the Carpenters' District council [AFL] yesterday ordered 1,500 woodworkers to end their strike which started Monday in protest against a WLB denial of a wage increase.

METAL WORKERS IDLE

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Disputes in the metals industries boosted the national total of idle in labor controversies above the 40,000 mark yesterday. Ten plants of the Reynolds Metals company in Louisville, Ky., and two in Richmond, Va., were closed as employes attended meetings to discuss contract negotiations. In Louisville, 3,000 were out and in Richmond 1,500.

The company and officials of the AFL Aluminum and Tinfoil Workers union said the stoppage was not a strike. In Louisville, however, the union business agent said a strike would be called unless the company agreed "immediately" to renew negotiations.

Production in the country's only plant manufacturing bullet cores was crippled by a walkout of 1,000 employes of the McQuay-Norris works in St. Louis.

COURT UPHOLDS BEEF CEILING OF NONPROCESSORS

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP)—The emergency court of appeals today upheld the OPA's price ceilings on beef for nonprocessor packers who sell fresh meat only. In a decision last March the court, established to hear appeals from OPA regulations, directed the agency to set aside the nonprocessor ceilings or revise them to assure a fair profit.

Subsequently, the OPA abandoned a plan to reduce the subsidy and made changes in the regulation.

The record in the case now contains "substantial evidence" to support the agency's contention that the regulation now is valid "whatever it may have been at some period or periods in the past," the court said.

Inspected Meat Production Increases 2 Million Pounds

Federally inspected meat production last week totaled 265 million pounds against 263 million pounds the preceding week, reflecting slightly increased hog slaughter, the war meat board reported yesterday. This compared with 317 million pounds a year ago.

EDISON PROFITS ARE INCREASED IN SIX MONTHS

U. S. Steel's Income Rises in Quarter

Commonwealth Edison company yesterday said consolidated net income in the first six months of this year was $11,765,126, or 92 cents a share, against $11,334,239, or 89 cents a share, a year earlier.

Sales of electricity totaled 5,376,971,685 kilowatt hours compared with 5,255,291,662 in the first half of last year, an increase of 2.3 per cent. Total electric revenues increased 2.5 per cent and kilowatt hour sales of electricity to residential, commercial, and rural customers continued their upward trend, the company said.

Profit Rises in Quarter

United States Steel corporation and subsidiaries reported net income of $16,774,202 in the quarter ended June 30, or $1.20 a common share, against $15,354,917, or $1.04 a share, in the second quarter of 1944.

Directors declared the usual dividend of $1 a share on common stock and the quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock.

In the first six months net income was $32,153,373, or $2.24 a share, compared with $32,382,533, or $2.27 a share, a year earlier.

Production of steel ingots in the second quarter averaged 88.1 per cent of capacity against 99.5 per cent in the first quarter. Total capital expenditures in the second quarter for additions and improvements of fixed assets were approximately 8 million dollars.

Federal Taxes Decrease

Federal taxes in the first six months were 30½ million dollars, compared with 49 millions a year ago.

Irving S. Olds, chairman, said orders were holding up and that the company had a "backlog of only slightly less than three months ago." He said this year's production loss to date because of strikes amounted to 1,338,000 tons of steel products.

Marshall Field & Co. reported profit of $1,224,675, or 55 cents a share, in the three months ended June 30, compared with $1,071,757, or 44 cents a share, a year ago. In the first half year net income was $2,560,950, or $1.11 a share, against $2,095,091, or 85 cents a share.

Net sales and rental income of $38,853,851 in the second quarter of this year increased $3,908,947 above that of a year ago. In the half year net sales and rental income were $77,326,752, against $68,364,145.

Studebaker Profit Lower

In the quarter ended June 30, Studebaker corporation reported net profit of $728,068, subject to renegotiation, or 31 cents a share, against $914,226, or 39 cents a share. Net income in the first half year, subject to renegotiation, was $1,752,391, or 75 cents a share, against $1,732,773, or 74 cents a share.

Net sales, including charges to the government under cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts, in the second quarter totaled $73,441,734, compared with $106,683,472 a year ago. In the six months, net sales were $164,326,771, against $215,185,764 in the corresponding period.

Remington Rand, Inc., reported net earnings in the quarter ended June 30 of $1,368,667, or 65 cents a share, compared with $1,340,731, or 62 cents a share a year earlier.

Stanley M. Knapp, executive vice president, told stockholders at the annual meeting that the 26 per cent increase in sales of peace time products had about offset the 29 per cent reduction in deliveries of war materials.

Auto Dealers Fight Possible Sharing of Production Costs

A vigorous protest against the possibility of the office of price administration compelling automobile dealers to share any part of the increased cost of production of new passenger cars was registered yesterday with Washington OPA officials and the OPA retail automobile advisory committee meeting in the Stevens hotel.

W. L. Mallon, president of the National Automobile Dealers association, said he was speaking in behalf of 30,000 dealers still in business and 10,000 others who have been forced to retire because of a lack of new and used cars and a shortage of mechanical help.

Mallon asserted rumors have been current that OPA planned to reduce dealer discounts to aid in keeping new car prices at the 1942 level.

Policy Used by OPA

The standard retail pricing formula followed by OPA is to compel manufacturers to assume increased costs where possible and, if this proves impossible, to make retailers absorb a share of them, he said. He contended that automobile dealers particularly oppose this because they have not had enough business during the war to warrant additional expenses in the post-war era.

"A government bureau, such as OPA, is obligated as a servant of the entire nation to play fair with producers and sellers as well as buyers," he said. "Car buyers, as a body, do not want manufacturers, dealers, or any one else to bear a part of costs which rightfully should be paid by them. They know that the way to get cars is to provide fair profits for all producing and handling agencies. Nothing ever has been discovered which would speed up production like profits.

"Car buyers distinctly see no reason why in the face of increased labor and material costs in the manufacturing end, and similar costs as well as curtailed stock losses by dealers, these two groups should have to hold their prices down to pre-war levels. It certainly is not the way to get new cars built and keep old cars running."

Rae E. Walters, regional OPA director, denied the OPA ever had entertained the idea of having dealers absorb increased manufacturing costs.

Policy Unchanged

Machinery manufacturers who continued to produce the same products during the war as in peace time have little hope of obtaining increases in their ceiling prices, Walter Shoemaker, price executive of the OPA's machinery branch, told a Chicago Association of Commerce war problems school in the Palmer House yesterday.

Present machinery branch regulations under which manufacturers who have exceeded their ability to absorb additional cost increases may obtain authority to raise their prices have not been changed by reconversion pricing procedures, he said. These regulations provide "ample relief" over several years for manufacturers, he asserted.

The reconversion pricing policy, which applies to goods out or almost out of production during the war, was designed to permit prices which could be effective over a long period of time and still be fair to manufacturers, Shoemaker said.

WATER PURIFIER WORLD MARKET PLOT CHARGED

New York, July 31 (AP)—The Permutit company, manufacturer of water conditioners for military use, and its board chairman, W. Spencer Robertson of Madison, N. J., were charged today in a civil action filed by the department of justice in Federal court with conspiring with five foreign companies to restrain trade and restrict world markets for water conditioning apparatus and materials. The government has been its sole customer since the war began.

Named co-conspirators, but not defendants, were Permutit, Ltd., of London, Permutit Aktien Gesell-Schaft of Berlin, Societe Anonyme Establissements Phillips and Pain of Paris and Brussels, Belgium, and Purificadores de Aqua S. A. of Barcelona, Spain.

Each company obtained exclusive rights and patents in its territory and the "desalter" process, now essential equipment on life rafts and aircraft to make sea water drinkable, said the complaint.

DELAY RELEASE OF TRUCK LINES FROM U. S. RULE

Return of 1,600 motor transport systems in Chicago to private ownership, scheduled for this morning, has been deferred until Aug. 16, the office of defense transportation said yesterday. The delay is being made at the request of the office of economic stabilization and the war labor board.

The WLB said that it expects to complete its discussions next week on a request for a change in its trucking industry overtime wage policy. The truck lines were taken over by the government under a Presidential order May 23 as the result of a drivers' strike.

FORECAST VAST EXPENDITURES IN NEW PLANTS

9.2 Billion Outlay in Year Predicted

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP)—Manufacturers plan to spend about 9 billion 200 million dollars by mid-1946 for new plants and equipment and expansion of working capital, the commerce department disclosed today as the result of a survey of industry's plans in the fiscal year which started July 1.

It shows clearly "that American manufacturers in general are coming out of the war with a lot of cash on hand," the department said. Altho the figures represent plans rather than definite commitments, they indicate industry takes "an optimistic view of the immediate future."

Railroads Plan Big Outlay

Besides the expansion planned by manufacturers, about 1½ billion dollars are expected to be spent by the gas and electric utilities and the railroads, with the latter spending a little more than half of this.

Manufacturers plan to spend 4 billion 500 million dollars for plant, equipment, and alterations; 2 billion 800 millions for increasing inventories of nonmilitary goods, and 1 billion 900 millions for increasing trade receivables.

Trade receivables are a form of promissory notes by which manufacturers sell products to wholesalers on credit. In order to increase the amount of trade receivables, the manufacturers must put an additional amount of cash into materials and labor—money which does not return until the wholesalers pay off on the receivables.

Small Business Needs More

Trade receivables and inventories are both forms of "working capital." The survey showed that small businesses need more working capital, and particularly larger increases in trade receivables proportionately than big businesses.

The survey also showed that small businesses expect to get a larger proportion of their expansion funds from bank loans.

DEMPSEY BOSS OF GOV. GREEN'S JOBS IN COUNTY

BY GEORGE TAGGE

Action to bolster the tottering Cook county Republican organization is being taken now thru efforts to remedy the G. O. P. patronage system, it was learned yesterday. It is the first attempt to correct the weaknesses disclosed by the November, 1944, election.

John T. Dempsey, former Cook county chairman, has been placed in complete charge of Gov. Green's patronage. He said it was the governor's own idea of how to solve the problem of handling several thousand jobs in a way that would build up the party.

More than 4,000 jobs in Cook county are under the governor's jurisdiction. These include civil service positions and those partly under control of federal agencies which are of little or no political value. An initial chore will be to determine how many jobs are in the patronage class.

He'll Take Vacation First

"Now I'll have to take the heat on patronage," Dempsey said. "But I'm going away for a vacation before putting the plan into full operation."

Dempsey is Cook county public administrator, by Gov. Green's appointment. He was Republican nominee for state's attorney in the last campaign.

A review will be made to find out which jobs were filled thru other than organization channels. Ward committeemen complain that in some wards payrollers who caught on thru unorthodox appointments are double and triple the number who got jobs with organization blessing.

Not only were the many "personal" appointees of no help to the Republican cause in recent campaigns, but they had a demoralizing effect on organization job holders, Republican leaders say.

Fisher Gets Claims Bench

George M. Fisher, Cook county Republican chairman, and the county central committee of 80 members, have been in nominal charge of patronage, but it has been reported that Dempsey's O. K. was unofficially needed to get a job even after it was approved by the organization.

"I am being relieved of a tremendous responsibility," Fisher said. "From now on the task will be entirely on one person who will have full authority. This should unify and solidify the party, and I look for good effects."

Fisher was appointed chief justice of the Illinois Court of Claims by Gov. Green. He will get the same salary, $4,000 a year, as the two other members of the court who were reappointed, but will make assignments of cases and supervise expenditures. Those reappointed are William W. Damron of Harrisburg, former chief justice, and Robert P. Eckert Jr. of Freeport.

SHERIFF TAKES SEAMAN WANTED BY U. S. AGENCY

Immigration authorities seeking to return Leonard Heponiemi, 23, to his native Finland, ran into a new difficulty yesterday when Heponiemi finished working out a $200 fine in the Bridewell only to face parole violation charges.

Heponiemi, a merchant seaman, was taken into custody by Sheriff Mulcahy for appearance tomorrow before Judge Frank M. Padden for parole violation in a robbery case. Immigration officials said they also will be on hand with a deportation warrant.

Heponiemi, who overstayed his leave in 1943 and previously had escaped from a Detroit jail, made a near-successful attempt to leave the Bridewell July 19 when he climbed down a rope of bed sheets. He was caught by Bridewell guards.

2 MILLION VOLT X-RAY PLANNED FOR VETS' CLINIC

A two million volt X-ray machine, largest ever used in the treatment of cancer, will be installed in a proposed new cancer clinic building at Hines Veteran's hospital, near Maywood, Charles G. Beck, manager of the hospital, said last night.

Bids on the clinic, which will add 600 beds to the hospital's facilities, will be opened next month.

Speaks in Mexico City

Dr. Max Cutler, director of the Chicago Tumor institute and a consultant on tumors for the veterans' hospital, and staff members will operate the machine, Cutler revealed yesterday in a talk before the Mexican Academy of Science in Mexico City.

The X-ray machine's power is double that of the highest voltage device now in general use. The machine has been used for commercial purposes and to a limited degree in Boston, Mass., in the treatment of cancer, but has not been used in the middle west. It will be used on cancer of the lung and the esophagus.

Reveals New Treatment

Dr. Cutler, in his Mexico City talk, said cancers of the mouth, sinuses, and larynx had been cured by a new X-ray and radio treatment method known as "concentrated radio therapy," which he developed. Its success depends on a device that permits concentration of the powerful X-rays on the center, or point of origin, of the cancerous growth and the safe delivery to this area of a large voltage.

MARTIN DURKIN LIBERTY FIGHT CHANGES FORM

Atty. Henry L. Balaban yesterday withdrew a petition in federal District court for the dismissal of a government detainer for the rearrest of Martin J. Durkin when Durkin is released from Statesville penitentiary Aug. 8 on completion of his sentence for the murder of a federal agent in 1925.

After he was sent to prison for murder Durkin was sentenced to 11 years in a federal penitentiary for an automobile theft. He recently filed a mandamus action to prevent federal marshals from seizing him on the auto theft sentence.

Atty. Balaban said he will sue for a writ of habeas corpus if marshals seize Durkin next week.

Unauthorized Trip

[Associated Press Wirephoto]

Mrs. H. R. Crow holding Jerry (left) and Jimmy Smith after their return from unescorted train trip.

"Hello, Mama," they chorused sweetly to Mrs. R. H. Crow, who, with her husband, plans to adopt the pair.

Mrs. Crow, who met the boys at the station after trainmen had returned them from the jaunt, was prepared to be the stern parent but she failed.

Perturbed trainmen had been calmed by the twins' explanation that "mother is in the other section."

"Whose idea was the trip?" their foster mother asked.

"Jerry's," said Jimmy.

"Jimmy's," said Jerry.

FAMILY AWAY, HOUSE FLOODED BY BROKEN PIPE

A broken pipe in the bathroom sent water flooding into the home of Elmer Nelson, 27 School st., Geneva, shortly after he and his family left Saturday for a vacation at Palmyra, Wis. It was discovered yesterday when Elmer Huntley, a water meter reader, found his cellar flooded with water. He summoned neighbors, who entered the house and discovered the furnishings soaked, and plaster falling from the ceilings and walls. The loss was estimated at several thousand dollars. The house recently was purchased by Fred Harz, 203 School st., Geneva.

TEXAS NEWSMEN ON TRIAL TODAY FOR CONTEMPT

Corpus Christi, Tex., July 31 [Special]—A hearing for contempt of court against three Corpus Christi newspaper men will open tomorrow before County Judge Joe D. Browning. They are Conway Craig, publisher of the Caller-Times; Bob McCracken, managing editor, and Tom Ulvany, a reporter.

Judge Browning has cited the three men for contempt on the basis of published reports of a trial before him on May 25, 26, and 27 over a suit of forcible entry and detainer.

The court charged the newspaper articles "omitted much material evidence that would have enabled the public generally to form a fair estimate of the real nature of the controversy." The court also asserted the purpose of the articles "was intended and calculated to reflect upon the integrity of the court."

Leasehold at Issue

The issue in the suit was whether Bush M. Jackson, owner of a building, should have possession under his charges that Joe L. Mayes, cafe operator, and his agent, Floyd F. Burchard, had violated terms of their lease. Mayes was drafted into the army last Jan. 17 and left his cafe business in charge of Burchard.

On the stand at the lease hearing Burchard testified he had never seen a lease agreement by which Mayes had agreed to pay a monthly rental of $275 instead of the previous $250 for the building. He said he sent a $250 check to Jackson, who rejected it and filed suit to break the lease.

The jury in Browning's court held out from May 26 until the following morning against the judge's order to return a verdict for Jackson. In its verdict, the six-man jury said: "It is to be understood that this verdict is rendered and recorded with the order of this court against the conscience of this jury."

Editorial Cited

Browning's contempt citation against the newspaper men said that on May 30 the newspaper published an editorial which included the following comments:

"Browning's behavior and attitude have brought down the wrath of public opinion upon his head, and properly so . . . American people simply don't like the idea of such goings on, especially when a man in the service of his country seems to be getting a raw deal . . . It is no wonder that the jury balked and public opinion is outraged . . .

"It's a tragedy in a case of this sort that the court where the controversial decision was handed down is the court of last resort . . . It's too bad that appeal can't be made to a district court and heard by a judge who is familiar with proper procedure and able to interpret and weigh motions and arguments by opposing counsel, and to make his decisions accordingly."

Hits Editing by Court

At a hearing today in which stipulations of fact were agreed on, Robert M. Jackson, editor of the Caller-Times, issued a statement saying "we contend that we have every right to report to the people what is happening in their court, without any editorial direction from the bench."

Jerry D'Unger, special county attorney, said in a statement that "freedom of the press . . . is not to be confused with abuse of that freedom or to be interpreted as meaning that reports that are prejudiced, incomplete, and inaccurate may be published."

Soldier Sues Wife

Sgt. Morris Hutchings and his daughter, Francis Jean.

Sgt. Morris Hutchings, 25, of 57th st., La Grange, yesterday filed suit for divorce against his wife, Bonnie G. Hutchings, 22, of 3713 Pine Grove av., charging her with adultery. The bill, filed in Superior court by Atty. J. J. McCarthy, stated that Sgt. Hutchings returned July 16 from Europe, and found that his wife had left their home.

Also, the suit charged, during the sergeant's absence, she had given birth to a child of which he alleges he is not the father.

CLEW INDICATES WOMAN AIDED IN POLICE LOOTING

Detective Marshall Pidgeon of the police bomb squad, who has had star No. 13 for 13 years, yesterday was assigned by embarrassed higher ups in the department to solve the weekend burglary in the custodian's room in police headquarters, 1121 S. State st.

The burglars entered from a fire escape landing on the seventh floor of the building, in view of the elevated platform at Roosevelt rd., and stole money, pistols, and stolen property which Acting Chief of Detectives John Warren said was valued at about $1,000.

Tells Colorful Stories

Anton J. Filip, 38, of 5156 Bishop st., a maintenance engineer, told Detective Pidgeon yesterday a colorful story of some goings on at police headquarters at 3 a. m. Sunday, an hour when the burglary may have been in progress.

"While I was in the sub-basement," Filip said, "I heard a gay female voice and a couple of male voices floating down the stairs. I looked up and saw a woman's bare arm dangling over the landing at about the fourth floor. The woman was wearing a dress that was red or blue or purple."

Door Is Slammed

Filip said he started upstairs to investigate the odd gayety, but the woman and her friends slammed a door and he heard nothing more from them.

Detective Pidgeon said he would question more than 40 other persons, most of them elevator operators, scrubwomen, and building custodians, who were working in headquarters from Saturday to Monday morning.

PUBLISHERS ASSAIL PRINTERS' PLAN FOR BY-LAWS ACCEPTANCE

New York, July 31 [Special]—Collective bargaining between employers and employes would become a "farce" if demands of the International Typographical union [AFL] that its by-laws be incorporated in wage agreements with newspapers was accepted by publishers, the American Newspaper Publishers association asserted in a statement today.

Insistence by the ITU that this procedure be carried out has caused work stoppages affecting newspapers in Bayonne and Jersey City, N. J.; Birmingham, Ala., and Fort Wayne, Ind. On July 15 the war labor board imposed unprecedented penalties upon the ITU, after it had defied the board.

At that time the WLB ordered the newspaper industry commission to suspend the processing of all voluntary applications for adjustments to which ITU local unions are parties and added that all agreements negotiated pursuant to the union's present policy would be held to be in violation of the war labor act.

OPA SUES ELEVEN ON OVER CEILING RENT CHARGES

Eleven Chicago landlords were named in suits filed in Circuit court yesterday by the area office of price administration asking damages and injunctions to restrain rental charges in excess of ceilings.

Judgement for $1,665 was asked against Edward and Mary Chambers, 4315 Berkeley av., operators of five apartments at 211-213 E. 25th st. L. H. White, 4430 Drexel blvd., and A. V. McCleod, 7432 Kenwood av., and the Drexel Drive Building corporation, 4430 Drexel blvd., were sued for $1,230 for overcharges on apartments at 814-834 E. 45th st.

Others named were Michael Nuccio, 1128 Addison st., $144; Ora H. Garner, 2148 Washington blvd., $189; Fred and Cornelia Lee, 4925 Michigan av., $173, and Edward and Anna Starczynski, 5752 Eddy st., $50. The OPA also sought $289.50 in a Municipal court suit against Duke Kundit for overcharges on two apartments at 8040 Yates av.
